MORGAN AID IN FINANCING RAIL SYSTEM IS DESCRIBED

O. P. Van Sweringen Tells Senate Investigators How He and Brother Borrowed $2,000,000 and Consolidated Lines.

SEES BIG FUTURE IN MISSOURI PACIFIC

Nickel Plate Used as Nucleus — Senators Postpone Decision on Going Into Morgan Partners' Income Tax Returns.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—O. P. Van Sweringen of Cleveland, president of the Allegheny Corporation, a railway holding company, predicted at the Senate stock market investigation today that, when the Missouri Pacific is reorganized, "that system will be one of the best and most prosperous in this country." He said that the reorganization was now in its first stages.

Van Sweringen was called to the witness chair after the Senate Banking and Currency Committee failed to reach an agreement in the controversy between Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, and John W. Davis, counsel for J. P. Morgan & Co., as to whether the committee was within its rights in demanding that Thomas S. Lamont, a young Morgan partner, answer questions regarding his personal income tax return for 1930. The committee, after debating the question for two hours, decided to take up the controversy at another executive session tomorrow morning.

About Personal Income Tax.

Davis and Pecora presented their arguments at the executive session today. Davis contended that the Senate resolution authorizing the stock market investigation did not give the committee counsel the right to question a Morgan partner about his personal income tax return. Pecora argued that the committee had the right because Morgan & Co., being a partnership, paid no Federal income taxes and that the only way in which the committee could learn about the profits of the private banking house was through an investigation of the tax returns of the 20 partners.

Reads Prepared Statement.

O. P. Van Sweringen and his brother, M. J. Van Sweringen, were subpenaed because they obtained funds from the Morgans to help the financing of their railroad consolidations. After taking the oath, O. P. Van Sweringen read a prepared statement regarding their railroad operation.

Regarding the Missouri Pacific the statement said: "We knew when we bought control of the Missouri Pacific that the railroad needed some capital readjustments, but we also knew that it was headed for some definite betterments that were underway and others that could be put underway to improve its operating ratio. We had expected that the lifting of the top-heavy portion of its structure would be accomplished by putting more of the investment into equity, or stock, by voluntary process rather than as it is finally having to be done. We see nothing to change our minds as to the ultimate desirability of that investment and ownership.

"Instead of coal, in the Southwest we haul oil and its products, agricultural products, fruits and vegetables. Of course, there is a goodly portion of manufactured articles in both regions.

Peculiar Quirks of Situation.

"While we are on this subject of diversity, a peculiar quirk of the present economic situation, contrasting with the belief in that heretofore considered measure of stability, has happened. Our road that is doing the best in the East is the Chesapeake & Ohio, with coal making up over 80 per cent of its tonnage. In the Southwest, the road of the Missouri Pacific System that is now showing up to the best advantage is the International-Great Northern, majoring, if you will, in oil, so that wisdom of the past dictating diversity has these striking examples at this time to the contrary, notwithstanding which we are still of the opinion that in ordinary times diversity will be of major importance.

"Right here we would like to stress that there was no thought of consolidating the Chesapeake &

Pecora Informs Senate Group of Sale in 1930, but Does Not Charge It Violated Law.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—An income tax reducing transaction involving stock deals by a Morgan partner and also by his wife posed a knotty question today for Senate investigators of J. P. Morgan & Co., decision of which was deferred until tomorrow.

In closed session, Ferdinand Pecora as counsel for the Senate Banking Committee sought authority to question Thomas S. Lamont on stock sales by him late in 1930 which were reflected in claims of losses on income tax returns.

Some committee members said Pecora had disclosed Lamont sold a block of stock to his wife, asserted losses on it for income tax purposes and later repurchased it.

On the other hand, different members of the committee stated that they had been told Mrs. Lamont had bought some stock about the same time her husband sold and had sold it when he rebought, but that Pecora had not said the sale was direct.

Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, is now on trial in New York for income tax evasion resulting from sale of stock to his wife, but in that case the Government contends it was not a bona fide sale.

When Lamont was on the stand last Friday, Pecora asked him about the sale of a block of about 5000 shares of stock December 30, 1930, but the witness said he could not remember.

No claim of illegality was raised by Pecora, it was said, and John W. Davis as counsel for the Morgan bank had challenged authority of the committee to go into the income tax matter. He was said to have pointed to the law against publicatnon of income tax returns.

BLOW TORCH CAUSES FIRE AT HOME FOR OLD PEOPLE

A blow torch used by a painter in removing old paint from a front porch pillar at Memorial Home, 2609 South Grand boulevard, set fire to the porch at 9:40 a. m. today.

Firemen kept the flames from entering the building and damage was slight. The 100 aged men and women residing at the home were led from their rooms by nurses. A crowd of several hundred persons gathered and traffic on Grand boulevard was delayed temporarily. The home is maintained by the St. Louis Women's Christian Association.

AS MORGAN SEES SENATORS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—In playful humor, J. P. Morgan paused today at the entrance to the Senate room where his firm is being investigated to eye the revolver in the holster of F. E. Perkins, Capitol policeman.

"What are you carrying that gun for?" he chuckled. "For protection against the Senators?"

ESCAPED KANSAS CONVICTS PUT PAIR OUT OF CAR HERE

Two Fugitives Kidnap Driver and Girl Near Fredericktown and Take Them to St. Louis.

DELAY IN REPORT PERMITS ESCAPE

Armed with a submachine gun, rifles, a shotgun and pistols, two of the 11 convicts who escaped from the penitentiary at Lansing, Kan., in a spectacular Memorial day break, were in St. Louis last night.

Driving into the city in a stolen automobile, they put out the owner, McBride Rayfield of Bonne Terre, and his companion, Miss Callie Stewart, at Kingshighway boulevard and Gravois avenue, then went on in the direction of the downtown district.

Rayfield and Miss Stewart obeyed the command of the convicts to remain at the intersection for 45 minutes, then called the police. They told the detectives the men had told them they had escaped from the Kansas prison, and subsequently, from photographs at police headquarters identified them as Harold W. Harris, also known as Billy Woods, a former St. Louis hoodlum, and Clifford Dopson.

Story of the Driver.

"Miss Stewart and I left Bonne Terre yesterday afternoon for a drive south on Highway No. 61," Rayfield, salesman for the Bonne Terre Farm & Cattle Co., told a Post-Dispatch correspondent today. "About five miles north of Fredericktown, 80 miles south of St. Louis, we stopped beside the road and got out with a 12-gauge shotgun I had borrowed, to shoot at some cans in a clump of trees.

"We had just fired a couple of shots when a Plymouth coupe with a Tennessee license stopped behind my car and two men came towards us. When they got up to us they drew automatic pistols and held us up.

"One of them took the shotgun from me and tried to unload it. When he failed, he made me unload it and then forced us to get into my car. The other went back to the Plymouth and made several trips bringing to my car a submachine gun, two rifles, some pistols and several bundles of cigarettes and tobacco.

Disclosed Identity.

"Then he drove the Plymouth off the road into the trees and we started to St. Louis. They told us right away that they were escaped convicts from Lansing and one of them, Woods, told us he was "Wild Bill."

" 'We're in a tough spot,' he said, 'and we don't care what chances we take. We don't intend to get captured alive. If anyone stops us you and the lady better get down on the floor because there's going to be a lot of shooting and you don't want to get hurt.'

"They talked of holding up a bank in Missouri and one of them remarked, 'It didn't get us anything, because we lost all we got.' I assumed he meant they had dropped the loot getting away.

'On the way to St. Louis we passed Forrest Watts of Farmington, a friend of mine, in his car. I tried to signal to him and one of the convicts said, 'Buddy, don't try that again, or we'll have to bump you both off.'

Gives Watch to Girl.

"Near St. Louis one of the men turned to Miss Stewart and said, 'Say, I sure admire the way you keep calm and I want to reward you.' He reached in his pocket and pulled out a 7-jewel wrist watch, which he handed to her.

"When we got to Gravois and Kingshighway, one of the men asked how much money I had and I said $25. 'But we'll need money to get back home,' I added. 'O K,' he said, 'just give me five,' and I handed him a $5 bill.

"Then they put us out and told us to stand there for 45 minutes without moving, or they'd come back and kill us both. They said we'd probably find my car at the Pevely Dairy plant at Grand and Chouteau. We waited for 45 minutes and then called the police, who took us to Grand and Chouteau. We didn't find the car, however."

Woods, also known as Harold W. Harris, is a former St. Louisan.

When Harris entered the Kansas penitentiary on a 5-to-15 year term for automobile theft his wife, Mrs. Lila Harris, 912A Montgomery street, got a divorce. She reported that he subsequently told her in a letter that he would come to St.

FIVE-DAY-WEEK ORDERED AT NAVY SHORE STATIONS

Rule to Apply to Civilian Field Service of Marine Corps.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Establishment of the five-day-week at all shore stations was ordered today by the Navy Department, effective June 25.

The order applies to the civilian field service of the Marine Corps as well as the Navy Department. The normal work day will be from Monday to Friday, inclusive. Saturday will be considered a non-work day the same as Sunday. Employes on a per annum and a per month basis will be furloughed on Saturday.

This action has been taken the department said, because of the necessity for economy in expenditures and to obviate discharges by spreading available work among employes as far as practicable.

The order was issued by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt.

ONE KILLED AND 20 HURT IN CHICAGO WIND STORM

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—One man was killed and about 20 persons injured last night by a severe windstorm that damaged buildings, twisted electric and telephone wires and blew down trees in Chicago and the metropolitan area.

Albert Linnard, 19 years old, was crushed to death in his automobile when a part of a roof torn from the Chicago Tube & Iron Co.'s building fell on his car. Small lake craft, crippled by waves, kept Coast Guard patrols busy answering calls for aid.

The storm sent some 84,000 persons at the Century of Progress exhibition rushing for shelter. Many persons were treated at the emergency hospital on the fair grounds for minor cuts and bruises caused by flying glass.

Swaying of one of the 625-foot towers of the Sky Ride at the fair caused 185 persons on the top platforms to become panicky despite attempts of attendants to quiet them by turning on radio music. Harold Barkstrom, a guard and former aviator, said the steel tower, built to resist a 120-mile gale, swayed 18 inches.

STOCKS RESUME ADVANCE AFTER WEAK OPENING

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5. — Stocks went into a fresh rally today, following early uncertainty.

On gains of $1 to more than $6, many shares rose to new highs for the year or longer. Railroad, gold mining and "wet" issues led the rally.

Wheat rallied in the afternoon on reports of crop damage and closed about a cent a bushel higher. Cotton was somewhat indifferent, but its market strengthened in the later trading.

Passage by the House of the emergency railroad bill was a factor in the flurry by carrier stocks.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Charles E. Mitchell testified at his income tax evasion trial today that in 1929 he threw his personal resources into the market to prevent a drop in National City Bank stock.

He told of returning from a trip abroad during a strong market to learn that the stock of National City Bank, which he headed, was weakening and that the National City Co. was loading up with it to check its fall.

He said he was astounded and held a conference with his associates.

"I told them that the company had reached its limit in the purchase of National City Bank stock," he said. "A big drop in the stock, I said, would have a disastrous effect on the market. I told them I thought some one must let that market down in an orderly fashion and that I was ready to use my personal resources to do so."

Mitchell said he then went to the Morgans, told them what he wanted to do, and they agreed to lend him money. He then made formal application to the Morgans for a loan up to $12,000,000 and posted 30,000 shares of his own stock as collateral.

Part of Stock in Question.

It is part of the stock held by the Morgans as collateral for their loan to him that Mitchell later sold to his wife to record a personal loss and so avoid income tax payment in 1929. The Government charges it was a fake sale, that Mrs. Mitchell did not have the money to pay for the stock, and that the Morgans were not informed of the transfer.

Before Mitchell took the stand his wife was called as a witness, but Judge Godard did not permit her to testify under a Supreme Court decision.

Mitchell testified that in September, 1929, an agreement was reached for a merger between the National City and Corn Exchange banks. He was not in New York at the time, he said.

"The merger was based," he said, "upon an exchange of stock, on the basis of four shares of National City Bank stock for five shares of Corn Exchange Bank stock."

The agreement set the value of National City bank stock, he said, at $450 a share.

Bank Stock and the Market.

The agreement was signed Sept. 20, 1929, he said, and he sailed for Europe the following day, returning Oct. 22. While he was away, National City Bank stock went up once to $527 a share, but when he returned it had dropped back to about the price it was when he left.

"When I left for Europe for a period of about two weeks," he said, "the market was very strong and advancing.

"About the second week—I place the time because I recall the fact I was in Berlin at the time—it began to weaken. When I returned it was reactionary and in a semi-panic.

"What was the condition of the market Oct. 28?" Counsel Steuer asked. "Very bad."

Where were you that day?" "I was at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in the morning. That afternoon I went to the Federal Reserve Bank to attend a meeting.

71,000-Share Purchase.

"I left the Federal Reserve Bank about 4 o'clock attended a meeting of bankers at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., and arrived at my own office about 5:30," Mitchell said. "There I saw H. B. Baker, president of the National City Co.

"He told me that in the last hour and a half, that day, the market in

Following a complaint by a man who said he was Herman Beckman, 4166 Lindell boulevard, that he rolled 1376 golf balls down an incline in an unsuccessful effort to win a radio at a carnival at Grand boulevard and Laclede avenue yesterday afternoon, police arrested the operator of the concession on a gambling charge.

The balls roll into grooves leading to compartments distinguished by various colors, black being the "house" color. Beckman said he spent $17.20 at eight balls for a dime in an effort to compile enough points to win a radio or other major prize. He succeeded in getting several small prizes, but the majority of his tosses ended in "the black," and he called a policeman.

The concessioner was booked as Harry P. Davis, 22 years old. He had $44 in his possession.

HOUSE REJECTS ROOSEVELT PLAN ON HAWAII GOVERNOR

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—In the first overturn of Roosevelt-recommended legislation, the House today rejected the President's request for authority to appoint a Governor of Hawaii from Continental United States.

The resolution was brought up under a suspension of the House rules which requires a two-thirds majority vote for approval.

The resolution failed by a narrow margin of three votes, 222 having voted favorably and 114 against.

This does not kill the legislation, however, but indicates that the Democratic leaders failed to hold their majority of 313 behind the President's request.

Democratic leaders plan to obtain special procedure from the House Rules Committee, and bring up the measure under a rule requiring only a majority vote for favorable action.

MATTERN'S OWN STORY OF ATLANTIC FLIGHT

(Copyright, 1933.)

OSLO, Norway, June 5.—James Mattern's own story of his flight from New York as told to a special correspondent of the Oslo newspaper, Aftenposten, follows:

"I encountered the worst weather imaginable over the ocean. I had to fight snow, ice and adverse winds on the last lap of 500 miles and almost thought it was all over with me.

"I did not sight a single ship. My gasoline supply was beginning to give out when I decided to descend despite fog and take my chances.

"Suddenly I saw a small green spot in the sea and decided to risk a landing on the beach.

"Fortunately, I made a perfect landing on the sandy beach.

"I immediately jumped out of the cockpit and took a look around. My first thought was for my plane. Miraculously, everything was intact.

"The next job was to find help. Pebbles were being beaten against the fuselage and wings of my plane by the rough seas and I was afraid it would be damaged if I left it there.

"Some minutes later, a group of fishermen appeared on the beach. It was then shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

"They appeared thunder struck by the sight of the plane. I beckoned for help, but they were unable to understand me. They gestured in a way that I took to mean they would hunt up somebody able to talk to me.

Official Doubts His Story.

"The fishermen went away and a short while later a man who introduced himself as M. Viborg, Director-General of the island, appeared on the scene.

"His command of English was fair, and for the first time in 29 hours I was able to talk to someone. I told him bluntly I had come direct from New York. Imagine my surprise when he answered in one of our choicest bits of American slang—'Oh, yeah?'

"Then ensued a long session during which I finally succeeded in convincing him, that I had flown across the ocean and was anxious

STORMY WEATHER ON AIRMAN'S ROUTE

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, June 5.—James Mattern, United States aviator going around the world in a solo flight, landed in Moscow this afternoon, dog tired but "feeling fine." He was 51 hours and 37 minutes out of New York City. (This put him almost three hours ahead of the Post-Gatty round-the-world flight record he is trying to beat.)

Mattern landed here at 7:57 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, swooping down on the muddy field from a sky darkened by clouds. He declared he would remain in Moscow two hours and then press on for the 4300-mile flight across Siberia.

After taxiing his ship to a standstill Mattern was picked up by Soviet aviators and thrown into the air several times in the most enthusiastic reception ever given an American airman here.

Greets Reporter Friends.

Greeting several old friends among the newspaper correspondents, he grinned as he declared: "It seems almost like being back home again."

Surrounded by about 200 airport attaches, he was escorted to the airdrome reception room where officials listened to his wishes concerning gasoline and oil and gave him information on weather conditions and landing facilities east of Moscow.

The weather conditions were not of the best, but Mattern declared he would go on. He ate a meal which was waiting for him.

An airport doctor intervened to feel Mattern's pulse and, with his fingers still on the aviator's wrist, he said: "He is very tired and needs rest."

When this was translated to him, Mattern grinned and remarked: "I feel fine but I would like to have about an hour's sleep."

Mattern, who came to Moscow from Norway, where he completed his trans-Atlantic crossing yesterday, also expressed a desire to have a bath. As soon as he had finished his meal he was provided with a shower and put to bed in a room at the airport. He emphasized that he wished to be called promptly in order that he might lose no time.

1700-Mile Flight Next.

Mattern said he hoped to fly non-stop at least as far as Novosibirsk (about 1700 miles) on leaving Moscow.

He landed here after having had only three hours' sleep since leaving New York, all of which he obtained during his halt at Oslo.

Explaining his action in flying through Oslo, Mattern said he encountered a low pressure area about 400 miles out over the Atlantic which coated his plane with ice and forced him finally to turn north. Although he had fuel for several hours' more flying, he was so weary with fighting the elements that he decided to land in Norway.

After his three hours' rest there he proceeded to Moscow direct, coming across the Baltic Sea and passing the Soviet frontier from Estonia. On this stage of his journey he was hampered somewhat by headwinds, but made fairly good time.

CUTTING ASSAILS HOWE FOR PLEA ON VETERANS' CUTS

ATTACKS BUDGET BALANCING REMARKS

New Mexico Republican Defends Proposal to Restore $150,000,000 Cut From Pension Lists.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A sharp fire against the administration's attitude toward veterans' allowances was touched off in the Senate this afternoon by Senator Cutting, independent Republican of New Mexico, who asserted that Louis M. Howe, one of the President's secretaries, had committed a "grave breach of propriety" in his radio speech last night.

Cutting read a statement by Howe that the Senate's action in cutting the proposed reductions in veterans' allowances by more than $150,000,000 would cost every person in the United States $1.25 in additional taxes and would again unbalance the budget.

"I do not recall," said the outspoken New Mexico Senator, "any analogy to this case of a presidential secretary appealing to the country on a major policy. It is very unfortunate that such an example should be handed down.

"It is a grave question whether any co-ordinate branch of the Government should ever appeal to the country against another branch. But certainly it is not the duty of a secretary, a clerk or a stenographer to make such an appeal."

In Defense of Senate.

Defending the action of the Senate, Cutting said that its resumption of some of the power previously delegated to the President was prompted by the determination to stop the "persecution" which had been visited on 200,000 to 250,000 war veterans by executive legislations.

If anyone had suggested in wartime, continued Cutting, that compensation should be withheld from the soldiers because it would cause higher taxes, that person "would have been hooted and would have been fortunate to escape a lynching."

The present situation, he continued, was not being improved by taking men off the Government rolls and throwing them on local charity.

"We only hear about balancing the budget," he said bitterly, "when it comes to reducing the compensation of war veterans or of Government employes.

"Whenever you balance the budget at the expense of the poor people of the country, it unbalances itself in the next week or so. Yes, we could cut out all Government functions and balance the budget at zero to zero, just as 13,000,000 people in the United States are balancing their private budgets.

"The budget will never be balanced until we find some way of restoring the purchasing power of the masses of the people."

Criticises Early's Statement.

Turning again to the White House Secretariat, Cutting referred to "another though less serious" matter—the statement given out last night by Stephen T. Early, a presidenial secretary, regarding a conference of the President with a group of congressional leaders.

These men, he said, were debarred by courtesy from telling the result of their interview with the President, "yet we find a ministerial clerk, unknown to the Constitution, giving out his version of the meeting."

"That," continued Cutting, "is an unfortunate way of doing business. The White House Secretariat might well be relegated to the same obscurity that has come to the former White House spokesman."

Vandenberg Joins in Criticism.

Senator Vandenberg (Rep.) Michigan, said it was regretable that the time formerly occupied by the "unbiased" talks of David Lawrence on the radio should have been given over to the White House Secretariat. Norris (Rep.) Nebraska, said he couldn't agree that Lawrence's speeches had been unbiased.

"In any event," said Vandenberg, "Mr. Lawrence received no compensation. I suggest that when Mr. Howe is again called as a witness in the matter of the contract for toilet kits for the civilian conservation corps, he be asked to disclose the nature of his relationship with the National Broadcasting Co."

Cutting observed that if Howe was receiving money for his radio "appeals to the people," the situation was thereby "greatly aggravated."

Mrs. Roosevelt Stops Here on Flight to Los Angeles

Several Thousand at Lambert Field Greet President's Wife, En Route for One-Day Visit With Son.

With a good-luck emerald winking from a chain about her neck and a smile that never faded, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the first wife of a President ever to take a transcontinental air trip, passed through St. Louis last night en route to visit her son, Elliott, in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who is flying more than 4600 miles to visit her son for a day and then get back East in time to see another son graduate from preparatory school, was greeted by several thousand persons massed in front of the new terminal building at Lambert-St. Louis field.

While her plane, which arrived at 6:38 p. m. and departed about 10 minutes later, was being refueled, she was escorted by Mayor Dickmann and a reception committee to the glass observation room atop the two-story building.

Orchids from Shaw's Garden.

Holding a bouquet of orchids from Shaw's Garden in one hand and waving to the crowd with the other, she hurried through the tunnel from the field to the interior of the building and emerged into the waiting room as hundreds of people pressed close.

"One flight higher? All right."

Once at the top, a little breathless from her fast climb but still smiling and good-natured, she stepped before a microphone while much more breathless photographers trained their cameras.

"I can only say during the moment I am here," said Mrs. Roosevelt to the cheering crowd, "that I am glad to have a chance to say good-bye and good-luck."

Turning to a reporter, she exclaimed:

"Don't be afraid to speak loud—because I'm terribly deaf for a few minutes after traveling on a plane."

Referring to the establishment in New York of a mountain camp for unemployed women, she said that States must take the initiative in creating them, "according to their own needs and necessities." Federal funds to finance them may then be obtained "through the proper sources," she added, remarking that such camps are "entirely different from reforestation camps."

Unaccompanied on Trip.

Then she started back to the plane, on which she traveled unaccompanied as a regular passenger with eight others, exclaiming "Oh, I must hurry; I'm afraid I'll miss my plane."

As she started down the steps, the crowd pressed close, many persons reaching out and touching her, others trying to shake her hand. Mayor Dickmann took one arm and a reporter the other, forcing a way for her through the throng.

Not once did she indicate annoyance, although she was tired and hot. She did remark to the reporter, as the tunnel was reached again, "My, it would be nice to be in our new swimming pool right now."

President Roosevelt, she observed, was enjoying the new White House pool, in which she took a dip the day before her departure yesterday morning on her long trip.

The motors of the plane were throbbing as she emerged on the apron and with a hasty farewell to the committee and gracious bow to the crowd she climbed aboard.

Before the big plane—one of the regular Transcontinental & Western Air Inc. ships—had gone far on its Western course she was eating a box dinner put aboard here. It included roast chicken, baked ham, crackers and cheese, cake and fruit.

Grants Request for Autograph.

On the way here from Indianapolis, Mrs. Roosevelt conversed with the other passengers, signed autographs for them, took out her inevitable knitting and worked busily as the ship leveled off at an altitude of 7000 feet, to avoid "bumpy air" below.

When the plane arrived here, she was the last passenger to leave it, trim in blue silk figured blouse, blue skirt, blue felt hat. Her good-luck emblem—which she remarked "never fails me"—hung from a silver chain.

Mayor Dickmann introduced her to Director of Public Welfare Joseph M. Darst, Maj. and Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert, and their daughter, Miss Myrtle McGrew Lambert, the Veiled Prophet queen, and other members of the Reception Committee.

On behalf of the Air Board of the Chamber of Commerce, she was presented with the bouquet of Cattleya orchids, together with a card bearing this message:

Dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

To a wonderful woman whom we are all proud of.

These orchids are grown in our own beautiful Missouri Botanical Garden, opened to the public by the founder, Henry Shaw, as a gift, more than 50 years ago.

In Tucson, Ariz., Tonight.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who breakfasted at Dallas, Tex., today, with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Waterbury, plans to spend tonight at Tucson, Ariz., with an intimate friend, Mrs. Isabella Greenway. She will fly on to Los Angeles tomorrow and start Thursday morning on her long return flight, getting to St. Louis at 1:55 o'clock Friday morning.

Elliott, her 22-year-old second son, is general manager of the Gilpin Airlines, operating between Los Angeles and Agua Caliente, Mexico. Last November his son was born in New York and Mrs. Roosevelt became a grandmother for the fourth time, borrowed $10 from a Secret Service man in her haste to get from Albany to New York to see the new baby.

Flying day and night, with little sleep, her only baggage a small suit case and handbag, she is breaking precedent now by traveling without a Secret Service escort.

"What if I do have to hurry a little?" Mrs. Roosevelt remarked to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday as the plane prepared to take off "It's well worth it—and I'm getting a real thrill out of it.

"Besides, I promised my son two months ago I would come and see him. I've postponed the trip again and again and I decided not to disappoint him any longer—even if I can only see him a short time. Any other mother would feel the same way."

Mrs. Roosevelt Greeted at Dallas by Gov. Miriam Ferguson.

By the Associated Press.

Morgan Aid in Financing Van Sweringens Described

Ohio System of the East with the Missouri Pacific System in the West, nor was our conception that of a transcontinental railroad system.

"Upon the completion of the Missouri Pacific control purchase, we had reachd the place where Allegheny, in a general way, had acquired the properties it was seeking to obtain. There were still improvements and refinements to be made, as well as the rounding out of each of these systems pursuant to the Interstate Commerce Commission plans for them. We have carried forward in the spirit of the act of Congress of 1920, which decreed that these and all other carriers should unite into a limited number of systems.

"Our present aim is toward making these properties satisfy, in the highest degree, the public need and service, and at the same time produce a just return for the investors who have cast their lot with us."

The vehicles used by the Van Sweringens in their railroad consolidations were the Allegheny Corporation and the Chesapeake Corporation, both of which received financial aid from Morgan & Co.

In relating how the money was obtained for the railroad operations, O. P. Van Sweringen said that he and his brother "talked with J. P. Morgan & Co., whom we regarded, as does the world, as wise counsellors in matters of finance."

The witness described the late George F. Baker, chairman of the First National Bank of New York, as "that grand old gentleman." Baker was a large owner of Erie railroad stock. The witness said that he told the Van Sweringens that he would increase his holdings if they bought into this road. "When we finished our buying," the witness said, "we, with him, had about half the common stock and a considerable portion of its preferred shares."

By the Associated Press.

In the advance of the Van Sweringen railroad holdings from $2,000,000 in 1916 to the vast expanse now hold, Committee Counsel Pecora developed that the entire down payment of $2,000,000 of the $8,500,000 price agreed upon for the Nickel Plate was borrowed.

"You formed the Allegheny Corporation to acquire control or part control of various railroad lines?" Pecora said, as Van Sweringen completed his statement. "That was its purpose, I think."

"You invaded the railroad field in 1916?" "Yes."

"Through purchase of the Nickel Plate?" "Yes, we bought into the Nickel Plate."

"Who was associated with you in this venture?" Pecora asked. "My brother, C. R. Bradley, J. R. Nutt and quite a few others."

The railroad builder then testified he and his associates in 1916 paid $8,500,000 for their original interest in the Nickel Plate, cash $2,000,000, with the balance deferred. In return, he, his brother and other associates, including J. R. Nutt, now treasurer of the Republican National Committee, obtained 25,032 shares of first preferred stock in the road; 62,750 of second preferred and 62,400 of common.

Ten Promissory Notes.

Pecora quoted from the report of Dr. W. M. W. Splawn after his railroad investigation for the House Interstate Commerce Committee, which said that $2,000,000 of the $8,500,000 purchase price was paid in cash while 10 promissory notes, each payable one year apart with the first due in five years, were given for the rest of the payment price. The report further said the purchased Nickel Plate stock was pledged with the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York for the promissory notes.

Pecora quoted it also as saying that on July 3, 1916—two days before the Nickel Plate purchase—the Van Sweringens borrowed $2,100,000 from the Guardian Savings & Trust Co.

"Then you borrowed all the money to make that $2,000,000 payment to the New York Central?" Pecora asked. "For the moment."

"How was this repaid?" "Through the sale of the stock in the Nickel Plate Securities Corporation," Van Sweringen replied.

It was testified that the Nickel Plate Securities Corporation was formed in December, 1916, and that the Nickel Plate Securities had additional assets in the form of the Cleveland, Youngstown Railroad and some real estate. These and the New York Central stock were pledged by the Van Sweringens for the capital stock of the Securities Corporation. Common stock of the corporation had a par value of $12,500,000.

Pecora asked whether the Securities Corporation had assumed the $2,100,000 Guardian Savings & Trust debt. "The preferred stock was used to take care of the Guardian loan."

"In return for your holdings in the Nickel Plate and also your holdings in the Cleveland Terminal Co., you got all the common stock valued at $12,500,000?" "Yes."

"And the Securities Corporation also assumed the $2,100,000 Guardian loan?" "With the proceeds of the preferred stock—the result was that way," Van Sweringen said. "The preferred offset that loan."

"And you undertook also to get subscriptions for the preferred stock?" "Yes."

Huntington Interests.

Pecora asked how much cash was paid when the Van Sweringens got control of the Toledo, St. Louis and Western and the witness did not recall.

"Did you follow the manner in which you acquired the Nickel Plate?" Pecora asked. "Yes, in some respects."

Pecora asked how money was raised to pay $6,500,000 in notes to the New York Central. "Part of it was out of the earnings."

"What part—a minor part?" "Oh, yes," Van Sweringen answered, and then added that the balance of the money came from preferred stock for the Nickel Plate System after the consolidation of the Clover Leaf, Lake Erie and Western and the Old Nickel Plate Systems.

Van Sweringen said the Huntington interests held 73,000 shares of the Chesapeake and Ohio common stock. He asserted "the Huntington interests have been electing the directors."

"Came From the Public."

Pecora said: "In effect, through your control of the Nickel Plate by ownership o fthe Nickel Plate Securities Corporation you were able to acquire—with money which came from the public—a dominating interest in the C. & O.?" Van Sweringen agreed but commented that "control only meant the right to operate the road in the interest of the stockholders."

Pecora asked about the set up of the Vaness Company and "whether it was a corporate vehicle for you and your associates." Van Sweringen agreed that was its character and said the common and preferred stock of the Vaness Company was issued to himself and his associates. He also agreed that the capital assets acquired by the Vaness Company "simply consisted of these shares of the Nickel Plate Securities Co. (195,825 shares) and 93 shares of the Cleveland Traction Terminal Co.?"

Testimony was given that the Nickel Plate Securities Corporation paid $565 a share for stock in the Chesapeake & Ohio when it was selling for about $80.

With Van Sweringen on the stand, testimony produced showed that, in acquiring 73,000 shares of the stock, the Nickel Plate Railroad got 70,000 shares at $80, while the Securities Corporation paid $1,700,000 for 3000 shares. Committee Counsel Pecora suggested this amounted to "saddling" the minority owners of the corporation with the excess cost of the C. & O. stock.

"Your associates were charged $56 5a share," Pecora said, "more than five times the market value of the stock." "You'll have to give the whole story to get an accurate picture," Van Sweringent insisted.

"Persons who held 20 per cent of the Nickel Plate Securities Corporation were not represented by your interests," Pecora said. "They were 'sadled' with this extra burden." Van Sweringen objected to use of the word "saddled" and said the 20 per cent were represented.

Having bought the Nickel Plate, the brothers decided "to make the most of it," the Van Sweringen statemen said. The move for rail consolidation was under way by 1920. The Van Sweringens figured there should be four Eastern rail systems and started to consolidate one. In 1922 they purchased stock control of the Toledo, St. Louis & Western and the Lake Erie & Western, consolidating them with Nickel Plate. Along came the chance to acquire a major interest in the Chesapeake & Ohio. The Morgans "felt it wasn't the time for us to make the expenditures. We were going to have to have some money. We took their advice . . .

But "a year or so" later the Van Sweringens were back at 23 Wall Street: "This time the Morgan firm agreed with us and we closed the deal, the Nickel Plate buying 70,000 of the Huntington shares, the total of which was 73,000."

"We were on our way," observed Van Sweringen at this point, going on to tell how they then eyed the Erie Railroad, and won the co-operation of the late George F. Baker, so that together they wound up with half the common and much of the Erie's preferred. They needed new outlets for coal, so bought into the Pere Marquette. It was 1925, and the brothers went to the Interstate Commerce Commission, with their first plan for the Nickel Plate unification.

The plan was rejected but since the I. C. C regarded the C. & O. as logical backbone of their system, they built a link through Ohio to give it a continuous line from Newport News, Va., to Toledo.

Mitchell Tells of Stock Losses

National City Bank stock had weakened, and that in order to keep the price at $450, the National City Co. had bought very heavily in National City Bank stock, and now held 71,000 shares, aggregating $32,000,000."

"What did you say to him?" Steuer asked. "I told him I was astounded. I was very much concerned."

"Was the company permitted to borrow money from the bank?" "No, that was prohibited by law."

Mitchell said he rode up town with Baker and Gordon Rentschler that night.

"I told them," he said "that the company had reached its limit in the purchase of National City Bank stock. A big drop in the stock, I said, would have a disastrous effect on the market.

"In Orderly Fashion."

"I told them I thought some one must let that market down in an orderly fashion, and that I was ready to use my personal resources to do so.

"I told them I would arrange to buy the stock myself.

"Then that night I went to the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., told them what the situation was, and what I wanted to do. They acceded to my verbal request.

"Then I went back to my office and made a formal request for a loan up to $12,000,000 and sent over 30,000 shares of my own stock as collateral.

"The next day National City stock opened at $435, or $440. Throughout the day, at my order, stock was purchased for me. It closed at $325, and I was advised that 28,300 shares had been purchased for me."

On Nov. 4, Mitchell said, 10,000 shares of the 28,300 shares were sold, the money going to the National City Co.

"To whom was the money for the 10,000 shares paid?" "To J. P. Morgan & Co."

Not in for Profit.

Mitchell said that just before meeting of the National City Co. directors a week after the sale of the 10,000 shares, one of the directors asked him if he did not want to take his profit.

"I answered, 'No, sir—I didn't go into this for a profit,'" Michell said.

"Following Oct. 29, the market improved materially. There was a public demand for the stock—I believe it went to $435 or $440.

"Mr. Baker and Mr. Rentschler, who had seen me go through the transaction were very anxious to see the balance, 18,300 shares, taken up. They asked me what I thought I could take out. I told them I could not afford to take more than 3000.

Difficulty Over Merger.

"When the price did not come up to and pass the $450 price, there developed a great deal of nervousness over whether the Corn Exchange merger, which had to be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the share-holders of each institution would go through.

"It began to be evident that there would be difficulty in obtaining ratification. It was found impossible to get enough agreements from Corn Exchange shareholders to agree to make the exchange.

"When it became apparent the merger was not going through, National City stock began to drop very rapidly. By the first of December it had dropped very close to $200. By Dec. 20 it stood at $212."

On Dec. 20, 1929, Mitchell said his 18,300 shares of National City Bank stock showed a loss of $155 a share.

"I had, of course, expected the National City Co. would relieve me of the 18,300 shares," Mitchell said. "As I saw the market continue to go down, I realized my reliance on the National City Co. was not confirmed and that I'd have to consider the stock mine. My loss on those 18,300 shares was equal to or in excess of my entire income for the year.

Seeks Way to Show Loss.

"I began to consider selling that stock to record my loss and show the real situation, so far as my income was concerned.

"I considered selling it in the market, but 18,300 shares would have been a considerable amount for the market to absorb. Furthermore, a group of the employes had asked to be allowed to buy some of the bank stock.

"Their petition had been considered and they had been permitted to subscribe $200 a share and were to be carried over two to four year periods. Officers were permitted to subscribe at $220 a share.

"Here was our entire organization stepping in eager to buy stock. Now here I was sitting there with that stock. I couldn't throw it into the market without causing a drop of $150 a share or at any rate, a very substantial drop.

"I could not sell it to the employees. If I had, I'd be strung up to a telegraph pole now, with that stock now down to $30—if I had sold it to them at $200.

"I believed in that stock, as firmly as the employes did.

"I went home on Dec. 19 and talked to Mrs. Mitchell about it. She knew I had not bought the 18,000 shares as a permanent investment. I told her I did not feel they could be sold in the open market at that time.

"Of course, she did not actually have the means to buy that stock. She knew it. I knew it, although at times she had been worth well over a million dollars.

"Mrs. Mitchell was enthusiastic about National City Bank stock. She had always seen a good deal of my associates in the bank. She also had a brother who was enthusiastic about the stock. He held, I think, 15,000 shares. Also she had sold some of her National City Bank stock and then had seen the price go up.

"So now she was very anxious to buy some of the stock."

Mitchell said Mrs. Mitchell did not consider the purchase as a permanent investment. He said he told her he would first have to consult a lawyer to see if it would be legal for him to take his loss for his income tax report that way. The next morning, he said, he consulted Harry W. Forbes, a tax expert.

"On the morning of Dec. 20, 1929," Mitchell said, "Forbes came to my office and I told him I had the 18,300 shares of stock and that at the close of the year I found I had a very great loss on it, and that I felt I must sell it. I said I had talked with Mrs. Mitchell about it and that I would like to sell it to her and she would like to buy it. I asked him if such a sale would be a proper registration of the loss.

"Mr. Forbes told me that, while transactions between man and wife were always open to question, he saw no reason why there should be in this case. He asked me why I didn't sell it in the market.

"Protection for Others."

"I told him that, if I did, it would mean a very great loss to the shareholders, to employes who had recently subscribed to the stock and to others, and that I felt I could not do it.

"He asked me if I expected Mrs. Mitchell to carry this stock for me any great length of time, and I told him no, that I expected conditions would change enough by the next fall so the stock could be sold.

"Mr. Forbes finally told me it was entirely proper to make the sale and the loss could be registered on my income tax report.

"We sent for a stenographer. He said it could be done by an exchange of letters and suggested I dictate the letters and he would correct them as we went along.

"I then dictated a letter to my wife and a letter from Mrs. Mitchell to me.

"I told Mr. Forbes the stock was in the name of Taft & Co. He said I must notify Taft & Co., so that dividends would be paid to Mrs. Mitchell. Morgan & Co. held the stock, but since it was not in their name, but in the name of Taft & Co., he said it would not be necessary to notify Morgan & Co."

"Mr. Forbes left my office assuring me that the sale could register my losses on my income tax return.

"Mrs. Mitchell had known of my debt to J. P. Morgan & Co. I had told her the night before that I could comfortably carry the stock for her. I then had 48,300 shares protecting a loan of approximately $6,000,000.

Did Not Pay Cash.

"Mr. Forbes asked me that morning if Mrs. Mitchell was going to pay cash for the stock and I told him no, that Mrs. Mitchell had

NEGRO ASSAULTS 17-YEAR-OLD GIRL, SLUGS HER ESCORT

She and Frank Murray, 21, Held Up by Masked Man on Bench in O'Fallon Park at 1 A. M.

SHE IS PRISONER IN BOX CAR TWO HOURS

A 17-year-old girl was criminally attacked by a Negro, who held her captive in a boxcar in North St. Louis for several hours early yesterday after slugging her escort. He released her at daylight.

The girl and Frank Murray, 21, 7558 North Broadway, were seated on a bench near the tennis courts in O'Fallon Park shortly after 1 a. m. The Negro, masked and carrying a revolver and a flashlight, stepped from a clump of bushes and ordered, "stick them up."

The pair started to run, but halted when the Negro threatened to fire. He directed the girl to bind her escort's hands with a handkerchief, and then tied her hands and gagged her with handkerchiefs. Ordering them into a ravine, the captor tried to tie Murray to a tree with a belt. Murray sought to persuade the Negro to release them. The captor became enraged, knocked Murray down with a blow with the revolver, and kicked him. He then gagged his victim and searched his pockets, which were empty.

Blindfolding the girl, the Negro started to carry her from the park. She struggled and he slapped her face and dropped her. She was then forced to walk to the railroad yards near Talcott avenue and Hall street, where the Negro lifted her into a box car. Later, when he thought he heard someone approaching, the captor carried her to a second boxcar.

Murray, dazed by the blow on the head, revived at 2:30 o'clock and walked to the residence of Henry Stocke, the park keeper, where h

Murray, dazed by the blow on the head, revived at 2:30 o'clock and walked to the residence of Henry Stocke, the park keeper, where he told his story. While police were searching for the girl two hours later she appeared at the home of a relative. She related that her captor left her in the railroad yards after instructing her to keep the blindfold on five minutes longer. She was treated at City Hospital, and taken home.

The Negro was described as being 25 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 160 pounds. His clothing included a dark suit and cap and a light blue shirt.

MORGAN & CO.'S AID IN FINANCING RAILWAY SYSTEM DESCRIBED

holding companies. C. & O. was to be now the nucleus of the consolidation and Nickel Plate was a big stock owner in its prospective parent. To change this and still keep the Nickel Plate's C. & O. shares in the group, Chespeake Corporation was created and its shares exchanged for the C. & O.'s Nickel Plate. The Van Sweringens' own C. & O. holdings went into the pot "upon the same basis."

This took money: "Chesapeake Corporation went to J. P. Morgan & Co. for this financial aid, and realized it by the sale to them in the spring of 1927 of $48,000,000 of 20-year 5 per cent bonds."

The C. & O. asked then for I. C. C. permission to acquire control of the Erie and Pere Marquette; was granted the latter, but not the Erie. The Van Sweringens, faced then with need for some manner of holding in unified fashion all the interests they had acquired for formation of the fourth system of the rail consolidation plan, in 1929 brought into being Alleghany Corporation, the immediate objective of the present investigation.

Into it they put their holdings, Van Sweringen said, taking common stock only in exchange. Here Van Sweringen's statement made no reference to the Morgans, no mention of the flotation which already has figured in the investigation through distribution of Alleghany shares at cost to a Morgan selected list of customers. He pointed out that in 1932 the I. C. C. handed down a four-system consolidation plan coinciding with their structure and added? "We are still expecting to get these railroads together, physically and financially speaking, in spite of the many difficulties we have encountered.

The Senators will make their decision on going into the Morgan partners' income tax returns on the light of knowledge, for a time withheld from the public, that some of the younger partners draw $100,000 a year salaries in addition to sharing in what earnings the Morgan bank may net.

Louis and kill her if he ever escaped. Police are guarding her home and the home of his mother, who resides on Rutger street.

Rayfield's automobile, not yet found, had Missouri license plates 308,288. After he and Miss Stewart had reported their experience to the police and had picked the photos of Dopson and Harris from the rogues' gallery, they called friends who came to St. Louis for them. They returned at 1 a. m. today to Bonne Terre, where Miss Stewart is employed as a cosmetician in a drug store.

GIRL HELPS CATCH ONE IN OKLAHOMA

By the Associated Press.

CHICKASHA, Ok., June 5.—Her brother wounded, Lois Goodfellow, 20-year-old Oklahoma A. and M. College student, fought with an escaped Kansas convict yesterday until officers were able to close in on them and capture the fugitive.

The man caught was Frank Sawyer, one of the 11 men who escaped from the Kansas State penitentiary at Lansing Memorial day, left a trail of kidnapings and stolen automobiles in his frantic attempt to escape the cordon of officers thrown about Northeastern Oklahoma. The capture took place near Binger, in Caddo County.

Lewis Bechtel, recaptured near Dripping Springs, Ok., is the only other one of the Kansas fugitives who has been retaken. Two Oklahoma convicts who escaped Wednesday, were recaptured Thursday night about 20 miles from the McAlester prison.

Used as a Shield, Shot.

Sawyer, also a fugitive from the Oklahoma prison, was captured in a pistol fight after he had kidnaped Bob Goodfellow, Caddo County Clerk, and his sister, in their automobile.

Goodfellow, wounded in the groin by a bullet fired by the convict when Sawyer used him as a shield, was taken to an Anadarko hospital, where his condition was described as serious.

After abducting the Goodfellows, Sawyer ordered the girl, who was driving, to go to Oklahoma City. She drove the car into a ditch while her brother attempted to seize Sawyer's pistol but the move failed.

While Sawyer was trying to get the car out of the ditch, with pretended assistance from the Goodfellows, Sheriff Horace Crisp and Deputy Al Marlow of Grady County drove up. Sawyer seized Goodfellow and opened fire.

When her brother was wounded, Miss Goodfellow, ignoring the blazing pistols, started pulling Sawyer's hair, which being cut short in convict style, proved unsatisfactory. Then, according to the Sheriff, the girl began choking the convict, giving the officers an opportunity to close in.

"I was not afraid of him then," she said afterward. "I was just afraid Bob had been killed and I wanted to choke him awful bad."

Previous to kidnaping the Goodfellows, reports to the Sheriff's office here indicated Sawyer had abducted and released nearly 20 persons yesterday. In all cases he wanted cars in which to further his escape. Some of his victims were stopped on the highways; others were taken from their homes.

Sawyer escaped from the Oklahoma prison in April, 1932, after being sentenced to life imprisonment for murder in 1920 and later was sentenced to life imprisonment in Kansas for bank robbery.

Two Fugitives Thought to Have Held Up Filling Station.

MAMMOTH SPRING, Ark., June 5.—Two men thought by officers to be members of the band of escaped Kansas convicts held up a filling station eight miles west of here yesterday and forced Cleo Reeves to accompany them as far as the Missouri State line a few miles away.

J. D. Bookout, owner of the station, was fired on as they drove away and Reeves said he was threatened with death during his short ride. Reeves was unable to give a description of the men. They disappeared into Missouri after throwing Reeves out of the car.

The two apparently were the same ones who kidnaped a man and a woman at Pine Bluff Friday night and left them at Malvern Saturday after driving over a large part of Southern Arkansas.

means of her own, but not sufficient for that.

"I told him I expected to carry the stock. He asked how long it would be, and I said probably until the next fall.

"That night I told Mrs. Mitchell that I had talked with Mr. Forbes and that he advised me that this was a proper sale and constituted a registration of the loss, and I told her I was delighted that she could have the profit I expected her to get. She read the letters carefully, and then she signed her letter to me as I signed mine to her."

"Was anything said about an agreement on your part to repurchase the stock from her?" Steuer asked.

"Not a word," Mitchell replied.

"Did you regard Mrs. Mitchell as the absolute owner of those 18,300 shares?" Steuer asked.

"I certainly did," the banker answered firmly.

Steuer then turned to the charge involving the payment to Mitchell on July 1, 1929, of $666,666.67 from a management fund of the National City Co.

Steuer asked if Mitchell remembered a resolution adopted by the directors authorizing the management fund distribution, and Mitchell said he did.

"Mr. Steuer," Mitchell said, waving his finger up and down, "I can say the vote on that resolution was unanimous because in the National City Bank and the National City Co. and in the City Bank Farmers' Trust Company, so long as I had anything to do with them, no policy was ever adopted that was not unanimously favored."

"The charge has been made here," Steuer said, "that you controlled the company. Is it true that sometimes policies you favored were dropped when they did not have the unanimous support of the board?"

"Certainly," Mitchell replied.

"It became apparent as the year drew to a close that the profits of the fund were completely wiped out," Mitchell said. "At a meeting of the directors on Dec. 30, I referred to the fact that there had been a payment—out of management fund items in July, and that losses had made it apparent that the fund was wiped out. I understood the matter had been taken up with counsel and that, under advice of counsel, a receipt had been made up for overpayment. Some of the officers had been seriously affected by the market, and a discussion had arisen as to how possibly they could pay the money back then. There was not a man among them who would have raised a question—who did raise a question—that that money could not be paid back out of future earnings of the fund.

"Having discussed the matter fully the board passed the resolution, which was drafted by counsel for the board."

A few minutes before adjournment, his attorney, Max D. Steuer, turned to another phase—hi ssale of 8500 shares of Anaconda Copper stock in 1930 to W. D. Thornton, a friend and business associate of the late John D. Ryan, chairman of the Anaconda Copper Co.

As Mrs. Mitchell advanced toward the witness stand, Judge Henry W. Goddard said, "Is this the wife of the defendant?"

Max D. Steuer, Mitchell's counsel, replied affirmatively, and Judge Goddard said: "Neither the Government nor the defense can call the wife of a defendant."

Mrs. Mitchell was given a seat beside the witness stand while Steuer argued for the admission of her testimony.

"That is very interesting, Mr. Steuer," Judge Goddard said, "but the Supreme Court of the United States has definitely decided that neither the Government nor the defense may call the wife of a defendant."

VANDALISM PUTS OUT CITY LIGHTING IN THE WEST END

Street lights and traffic signals in a large part of the West End were dark for nearly two hours last night because of damage done by vandals in two electrical substations, one in Forest Park, the other in Sherman Park.

When the street lights failed to go on automatically at 8 o'clock city electricians investigated and found the transformers in the substation in the Lindell Pavillion in Forest Park had been smashed with a hatchet. In Sherman Park two main feeder cables had been cut with a hack saw.

The district affected is bounded by Newstead, Oakland and Easton avenues and the western city limits. Ralf Toensfeldt, Chief Electrical Engineer for the city, said it would cost between $1500 and $2000 to repair the damage.

Work of Electrician.

Toensfeldt said the nature of the damage at the Sherman Park substation indicated it was the work of a skilled electrician.

Both substations were locked with padlocks to which only a few persons, maintenance men for the city and for Union Electric Light and Power Co., are furnished keys. There was no sign that the locks had been forced to gain admittance. The vandals carried away with them the padlock to the Lindell Pavilion substation, but that of the Sherman Park substation was left there, open.

Sawing of the cables at Sherman Park, Toensfeldt said, must have required an hour or more. An oil pan was taken from beneath the transformers and placed over the feeder cables in a manner which might have caused a serious explosion, Toensfeldt added.

Some of the 9000 lights from which current was cut off were back in service by 9:45 o'clock. In Forest Park some were out all night.

Dr. William A. Knight of Westminster Hospital, 8612 Halls Ferry road, drove his automobile into an unlighted traffic signal at Kingshighway and Fountain avenue about 10 o'clock. The car was wrecked, but Dr. Knight was not hurt.

WOMAN LEAVING STREET CAR HIT BY AUTO, KILLED

Mrs. Katherine Heffernan, 757 North 79th St., East St. Louis, Struck on Crossing Tracks.

Mrs. Katherine Heffernan, returning to her home from a play at St. Patrick's School, East St. Louis, was struck and killed by an automobile last night at Seventy-ninth and State streets.

Mrs. Heffernan, who was 43 years old, and resided at 757 North Seventy-ninth street, had just alighted from the front platform of an eastbound State street car. She walked to the rear of the car, crossed the westbound tracks and had reached the concrete pavement beyond when she was knocked down by an automobile driven west by Thomas L. Blazier, 20 years old, 2529 Natalie avenue, East St. Louis.

Blazier and two companions said Mrs. Heffernan walked into the side of the machine. He said he failed to see her step from behind the car in time to stop. He was held for the inquest.

Mrs. Heffernan was pronounced dead of a skull fracture at St. Mary's Hospital. She was the wife of John Heffernan, a packing company foreman, and the mother of four sons and three daughters.

Woman, 83, Killed When Thrown From Auto in Crash.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lawton, 83, 3809 Kossuth street, died at St. Louis County Hospital yesterday afternoon of concussion and other injuries suffered when she was thrown from an automobile which was struck from the rear by another machine east-bound as it stopped at St. Charles and Carson roads.

Mrs. Lawton, a widow, formerly resided at Overland and continued to attend St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 2416 Verona avenue. Following services she was being taken to the car line in the automobile of William J. Smith, 8749 Turner avenue, Overland.

The driver of the other machine said he was Austin Eggers, 9509 Lackland avenue, Overland. He said Smith stopped suddenly and that he was prevented from swerving aside by an automobile coming from the opposite direction.

KILLED WHEN PLANE CRASHES INTO RAVINE

Air Mail Pilot Goes Down in Heavily Wooded Section Near Bowling Green, Va.

By the Associated Press.

BOWLING GREEN, Va., June 5.—W. L. (Larry) Jamieson, Eastern Air Transport pilot since 1930, died of burns yesterday after his mail plane crashed into a 75-foot ravine in a heavily wooded section near Bowling Green. He was pinned beneath the wreckage.

Residents of the neighborhood said they were awakened shortly after 3 a. m. by the sound of an airplane flying low and in apparent distress. A few minutes later they heard the crash.

F. W. Shaddock and W. B. Motley, farmers, led by a dog, began a search for the plane and found it after a half hour. They said the craft had cut a swath of 100 feet or more through the tops of trees bordering on the ravine.

Most of the mail was destroyed.

NEW BILL FOR REPEAL OF N. 12TH WIDENING

Measure Introduced by Alderman Hayes Similar to One Previously Killed.

A bill to repeal the widening ordinance for North Twelfth street was introduced in the Board of Aldermen today by Alderman Hayes (Rep.), Second Ward, on behalf of property owners who say they cannot pay the benefit assessments. A similar bill died in the board last April.

The North Twelfth plan calls for a 100-foot boulevard from Washington avenue to North Florissant avenue, using Twelfth, High, Thirteenth and Fifteenth streets, with a cutoff connecting with Natural Bridge avenue, a widened thoroughfare. The widening has been carried out as far north as O'Fallon street at a cost to the city of $1,000,000. It is estimated that $1,500,000 additional is needed to complete the project.

A bill introduced by Alderman Golden (Dem.), Twenty-seventh Ward, would add 28 employes to the Department of Streets and Sewers, increasing the payroll $60,000 a year.

Golden explained that his bill is based on the passage of pending ordinances licensing all drivers of motor vehicles and further regulating trucks. These bills, if adopted, would increase the city revenue $250,000 a year and would throw more work in the personnel of the Streets and Sewers Department, thus justifying an increase in the payroll, he said.

The positions, which would be established under the Golden bill are: sewer commissioner at $6000 a year; assistant streets commissioner, $5000; first assistant chief engineer, $4000; traffic commissioner, $5000; assistant traffic commissioner, $4000; chief traffic inspector, $3000; 12 additional traffic inspectors; five stenographer-clerks at $132 a month; efficency engineer, $4000; assistant efficiency engineer, $3000; engineer cost accountant, $4000.

The bill authorizing the expenditures of $605,933.20, the city's share for unemployment relief during June, July, August and September, was passed. The city is to be reimbursed later from the $4,600,000 bond issue voted last November.

A bill restoring the salaries of Fire Department watchmen to $155 a month was passed unanimously. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment cut the salaries of the 64 watchmen to $100 a month, effective April 1, with the view of saving about $38,000 a year. The firemen's union challenged the jurisdiction of the Board of Estimate, contending that the question of salaries lies with the Board of Aldermen. It was pointed out that the watchmen were aged or incapacitated firemen, many of them with families to support. Their salaries are subject to a 10 per cent reduction for economy.

FURMANS' CLAIM TO THE CAMPBELL ESTATE ON TRIAL

FORTUNE INVOLVED PUT AT $1,100,000

Woman Testifies Campbell Called the Two Plaintiffs 'My Boys' After Their Mother Died.

Trial of the suit in which Harry and Adolph Furman, locally well known swimmers and skaters, are seeking to be declared the adopted sons of the late Hugh Campbell and heirs to his $1,100,000 estate began today before Circuit Judge Hamilton.

The trial is expected to take about two weeks. Harry Furman, 27 years old, and his brother Adolph, 25, were named in Campbell's will as the beneficiaries of two $25,000 trust funds. They were to receive the income until they became 28 years old, and the money was then to revert to the estate. The bulk of the estate, under the will, is to be held in trust for Campbell's invalid brother, Hazlett Campbell, 73 years old, and on his death is to go to Yale University.

After a Deputy Probate Court Clerk had identified the Campbell will and other records an aunt of the Furman brothers, Mrs. Mildred Roman, 3822 Lafayette avenue, took the witness stand.

She told of being introduced to Hugh Campbell in 1913 by the mother of the boys, Mrs. Pauline Sawyer, who died in 1920. Mrs. Sawyer, she said, entered the Campbell home at 2608 Locust street, without knocking and found Campbell in the dining room. On that visit, Mrs. Roman said, she learned that Campbell had been buying clothes for the boys and that they frequently ate at his home. Their own home was a few doors away on Locust street.

A few days after the death of Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. Roman said, Campbell summoned her to his home to discuss plans for the boys.

"I'll have to see about my boys, now," she quoted him as saying. "I talked with their mother for a long time about adopting them, but was unable to convince her until recently. I promised her I would adopt them and that's what I'm going to do. They are mine, and I love those boys. I will provide for them, and I want you to take care of them."

Mrs. Roman testified Campbell paid her $40 a month to provide a home for the boys, but several months later made arrangements with another aunt to care for them because she had slapped Adolph. She had slapped him, she testified, for "sassing" her. Adolph later told her Campbell wanted to see her.

Again quoting Campbell, she testified he told her: "I don't want you to slap these boys. If there is any correcting to do, I'll do it."

Cross-examined by Jacob M. Lashly, attorney for Yale University, Mrs. Roman testified that during the conversation in which Campbell rebuked her for slapping Adolph he referred to the brothers as "my boys" at least 10 times.

Throughout the years in which Campbell was interested in the boys, Lashly brought out, their mother and their stepfather both worked for a living.

World Flyer Lands in Moscow

BRIEF STOP MADE AT OSLO, NORWAY

OSLO, Norway, June 5.—James Mattern, the Texas airman who is attempting a flight around the world, went on to Moscow in his red, white and blue plane Century of Progress today after a surprise landing on a small island 70 miles southwest of Oslo.

Fighting storms and fog, which forced him 180 miles off his course, he made his way through to land safely on Jomfruland Island, on Norway's south coast, at 4:25 a. m. yesterday.

The first news that Oslo heard of the landing came when the lighthouse keeper telephoned from the island that Mattern had landed on the beach and was safe.

Brief Stop in Oslo.

A private plane was sent there to give him any aid necessary and at 9 p. m. yesterday, he took off for this city. Landing at the military air field, he halted only briefly, and with his big tanks loaded with more than 700 gallons of gasoline, he was off toward the Russian capital at 12:40 a. m. today.

Mattern, who is making an assault on the round-the-world record of 8 days 15 hours and 51 minutes set by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty two years ago, left Floyd Bennett Field, New York, at 4:20 a. m. Saturday. He thus made the 3800 miles between New York and the island on which he landed in just five minutes short of 24 hours.

He is the first man to make a non-stop flight alone from New York to Norway. A comparison of Mattern's time with those of Post and Gatty indicates that he is flying on about a par with the record-holders. They made Moscow from New York in 54 hours 36 minutes, with stops at Chester, England, Hanover, Germany, and Berlin.

Mattern, who appeared very tired, said he had had nothing to eat except oranges and only a little water to drink during the flight from New York to Newfoundland and thence across the Atlantic. He had two bottles of tea, but both of them were broken.

Thought He Was in Scotland.

"When I reached the west coast of Norway, I thought it was Scotland," said Mattern.

"But finding later that it was Norway, I followed the south coast in the hope of making Oslo, but I didn't know just where that city was situated.

"Seeing what I thought was a sandy shore, I circled around and made a landing on a stony beach. The landing was rather difficult, but I brought the machine down satisfactorily on a little island inhabited by 20 persons."

Mattern said he had slightly damaged a wing on landing, but he was able to make repairs himself. Girls on the little island on which he alighted wrote their names on the plane's wing.

After an hour's sleep, he attended to his plane, and flew on to Oslo. He landed here an hour later. After his papers had been examined, he went on toward Moscow.

Inhabitants of the little island and Norwegian marine pilots helped Mattern repair his plane, which had suffered a rent a yard long on the underside of the left wing during the flight. This damage occurred Saturday night which, Mattern said, seemed like a year, the weather was so bad and the plane was so badly buffeted.

"I thought I never would reach land again," Mattern said. "Once I ran into a thunderstorm and then ice forming on my machine forced me down from 6000 feet almost into the sea."

Tells of Faulty Charts.

He was somewhat downhearted at losing 10 hours by going out of his course. His charts were faulty, he said, and he was unable to navigate along the Norwegian coast by map. He had good going until he got 600 miles from Newfoundland, when he was forced to leave his course because of bad weather.

Residents of Jomfruland who witnessed his landing said it was a marvelous performance. He struck stones instead of the sandy beach he had expected to find. Stones whirled around him but the pilot was not hit.

The islanders were very helpful to Mattern. Two horses and ten men helped drag his machine 1000 yards from the beach over stony ground to a field where, once repairs had been effected, he would be able to take off.

"The people of Jomfruland were like brothers and sisters to me," Mattern said. "It grieved me not to be able to reward them at the moment, but I had no money of any account with me."

Mattern refueled with some 700 gallons of gasoline and ten gallons of oil here. He declined offers of food but took along with him 12 oranges, two bottles of water and a little chocolate.

Mattern's Second Flight Across the North Atlantic.

NEW YORK, June 5. — James Mattern's non-stop solo flight from New York to Jomfruland Island, Norway, placed him in a group of six flyers who have spanned the North and South Atlantic Oceans alone in a single hop. It was Mattern's second crossing of the North Atlantic, the Texan having flown from Harbor Grace, N. F., to Berlin last year with Bennett Griffin.

Mattern flew across the Atlantic two weeks after the sixth anniversary of Charles A. Lindbergh's flight from New York to Paris on May 21, 1927, when he became the first person to fly across the Atlantic alone.

Lindbergh—May 21, 1927; New York to Paris, 3610 miles; 33 hours and 29 minutes.

Amelia Earhart Putnam—May 21, 1932; Harbor Grace, N. F., to Culmore, Ireland, 2206 miles; 13 hours and 30 minutes.

James Mollison—Aug. 18, 1932; Portmarnock, Ireland, to St. John, N. B., 2600 miles; 30 hours and 10 minutes.

Mattern—June 4, 1933; New York to Jomfruland Island, Norway, 3800 miles; 23 hours and 55 minutes.

The late Bert Hinkler was the first aviator to fly the South Atlantic alone. On Nov. 27, 1931, Hinkler flew from Natal, Brazil, to Bathurst, West Africa, a distance of more than 1500 miles, in 22 hours.

Other South Atlantic solo flights:

Mollison—Feb. 10, 1933; Senegal, French West Africa, to Natal, Brazil, 1780 miles; about 18 hours.

Stanislaus Skarzynski—May 8, 1933; Senegal to Pernambuco, Brazil, 2140 miles; 17 hours and 50 minutes.

Jean Mermoz—May 13, 1930; Natal, Brazil, to Senegal, 1890 miles; 17 hours and 10 minutes.

Mattern Prepared Alternate Route to Avoid Bad Weather.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Jack Clark II, his representative, disclosed today that James Mattern had spent months drawing up alternate routes. Maps with lines converging into points, like spider webs, were his constant study.

Clark said that if, at any point in his flight, Mattern met bad weather conditions, he could switch to another route in an instant. Clark said Paris had been the first objective of the flyer. After a conference with Dr. James H. Kimball, weather man, who advises trans-Atlantic flyers, he expressed the opinion that unexpected southerly winds forced Mattern off his course.

Clarence E. Page, former manager of the flyer, disclosed in Oklahoma City that he had planned three routes, the primary one being a route to Moscow, without flying to Paris or Berlin. This would take him by way of Norway, the place where he actually did land.

"I'm overjoyed," said Clark, when he heard the news.

BOSTON, June 5.—Miss Mary G. Ewing of Brookline has been elected president of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, the mother church announced at its annual meeting today.

Ezra W. Palmer and Edward L. Ripley, both also of Brookline, were elected clerk and treasurer, respectively.

Miss Ewing succeeds Ralph O. Brewster, former Governor of Maine.

More than 5000 persons, representative of many countries, heard the message of the directors, read by Charles E. Heitman, chairman, announcing that no further contributions to the fund for the building of the new $4,000,000 home now under construction for the Christian Science Publishing Society need be made after July 1. The message praised the "sacrifice and unselfish efforts" of those "who have made possible the completion of the new publishing house without delay and without debt."

Brewster, in his retiring address, reflected that never was the necessity of an applied and practical Christianity more apparent than today.

"Never have the directors of the mighty army represented by this great assemblage here today faced a more inspiring challenge for world-wide service," he said.

Miss Ewing, the new president, said that perhaps never before could the inspiration of the annual meeting mean so much to the world of human thought and endeavor.

"For today," she said, "that world is facing the claim of evil conditions in human affairs unprecedented in influence and extent—conditions which know no barriers of race, nation or tongue."

C. Augustus Norwood, manager of committees on publication, cited a poll which credited Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science, as having been one of America's 12 greatest women of the past 100 years as an outstanding example of how public thought is being "leavened" toward Christian Science.

Roland R. Harrison, manager of the Christian Science Publishing Society, reported an increase of net profits over the previous year despite adverse condition.

MATTERN'S OWN STORY OF ATLANTIC FLIGHT

to get going again as soon as possible.

"Still dazed and incredulous, he delegated the fishermen to go in search of some horses to drag my plane to safety.

"While this job was in progress, I had a few minutes to look back over my adventure thus far.

"At first I was terribly downhearted because I had lost so much time by flying off my course. But when I realized my plane was not damaged and that there was nothing to prevent me from getting away again, my hopes soared anew.

Sure of Breaking Record.

"Looking at all sides of it, I saw there was still lots of reason to be confident I would break the record now held by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty for the round-the-world flight.

"Except for a chill in all my bones, I felt pretty good and soon recovered from any ill effects suffered on the ocean journey. A few hours of rest seemed to be in order, so I had the fishermen haul the plane to the middle of a grassy meadow which would afford me an easy take-off early the next morning.

"Viborg took me to his home. He and all the other members of his family treated me with great kindness. You would think I was a long-lost relation returning to the old homestead.

"It was a pity I couldn't reciprocate this kindness the way I should. I was too tired to know what I was doing, and my only thought was to get a little sleep so I could start out again at dawn."

WHAT U. S. GOT FOR $1.40 IN TOILET KITS

Articles in Cut-Rate Drug Store Would Cost About $3.50.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The toilet kit for the Civilian Conservation Corps, which Congress is investigating, would cost the average retail customer at a cut-rate drug store about $3.50, an informal survey discloses.

A private concern sold 200,000 of them to Robert Fechner, Director of conservation work, for $1.40 each. Army officials say they could have duplicated them for 75 to 85 cents each.

The wholesale cost, the survey indicates, on considerable quantities at prevailing local prices would total approximately the price which the reforestation camp authorities paid for the sets.

The kits consist of square cardboard boxes, colored a snappy blue and inscribed with the Conservation Corps insignia and containing the following items:

One tube of tooth paste of a standard brand.

One comb.

One nickel-plated metal mirror.

The specifications allowed the holders of the contract to use any standard, nationally advertised brand of tooth paste, toothbrush and shaving cream, and either of two popular makes of safety razors and blades. "First quality" products were demanded.

The tooth brush in a sample kit examined was on sale in chain drug stores at 19 cents or 2 for 37 cents. The brush, in a celluloid holder, was priced at 50 cents.

Metal holders similar to those in the kits can be bought for 10 or 15 cents. The shaving cream, of regular home size, costs 27 cents in one store and 21 cents in another where a one-day sale was on. Shaving cream of another brand also used in the kits sells here for 29 to 37 cents.

Prices of safety razors varied greatly. Razors with five blades, similar to those in the kits, were selling in one store for 69 cents and in another for 96 cents. A different brand of razor and blades used in some of the kits sold for 59 cents.

Shaving brush prices ranged from 75 cents to more than $2, according to brand, type, etc. The brush used in the kit bore no standard name.

Men's combs, like that sent to the camps may be bought retail for from 19 toy 25 cents.

The bachelor sewing outfits were unlike any on sale in stores visited. Somewhat similar products could be purchased for 25 cents.

Wholesale prices on all of these articles were, of course, less. Wholesalers pointed out that in quantities of 200,000, manufacturers will "make their own" prices, cutting the margin of profit far below the regular market price.

One wholesaler gave the following "approximate" wholesale prices: Tooth paste of brand specified, 14c; tooth brush of brand specified, 23c; tooth brush holder, 5c; shaving cream, brand specified, 20c; shaving brush (estimated), 15c; soap and container, 10c; gold-plater razor and blades, 35c; comb, 5c; metal mirror (estimated), 10c; sewing outfit (estimated), 10c. Total, $1.47.

ARRAIGNED IN KILLING ON STANFORD CAMPUS

University Press Manager in Court Accused of Slaying His Wife.

By the Associated Press.

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 5.—Flanked by two attorneys and exhibiting nervousness, David A. Lamson, 30 years old, sales manager for the Stanford University Press, was arraigned here today on a charge of murdering his wife, Allene, 28, whose nude body, with the skull crushed, was found in their Stanford campus home last Tuesday.

Justice of the Peace Grandin Miller, who presided, set June 13 as the date for Lamson's preliminary hearing.

After Duncan O'Neal, one of the defense attorneys, had asked for a delay, saying his father, Louis O'Neal, Santa Clara County political figure, had just become associated with the defense and wished to acquaint himself with the case.

The prosecution contends Lamson killed his wife in anger on discovering she was resorting to subterfuge to avoid his affectionate advances.

Edwin M. Rea, who yesterday took over duties of chief defense counsel from his law partner, Arthur M. Free, said he was not prepared to outline the defense case. He said he had not reached any fixed opinion "except of course, that Lamson is innocent." Free has said Mrs. Lamson was killed in an accidental fall in the bath tub, where her body was discovered, or was struck on the head by an unidentified intruder in the home.

Lamson's mother, Mrs. A. B. Lamson, said a shooting in which her son was involved in Canada when he was 13 years old was an accident and he was exonerated. Her statement followed the announcement by Sheriff William Emig he was seeking information on the incident from Canadian authorities. Mrs. Lamson said a hunting companion was killed near Red Deer, Alberta, by a bullet from her son's gun.

Mrs. Lamson's brother, Frank Thorpe Jr., who came here from Lamar, Mo., visited his brother-in-law in jail yesterday and talked with him for half an hour.

TWO WITNESSES TELL OF SLAYING IN TRUCK

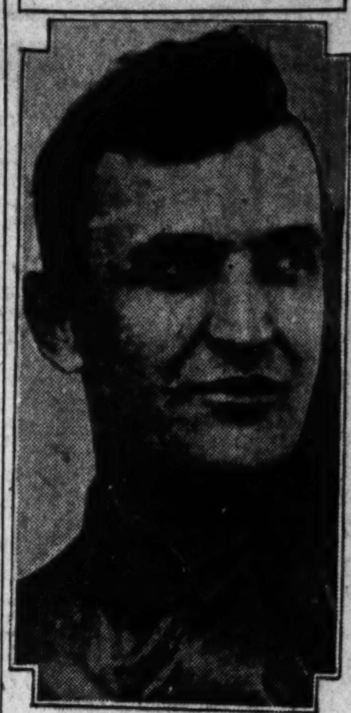
Sedan Overtook George H. Becker, Clayton Grocer, and Occupant Opened Fire.

The funeral of George H. Becker, proprietor of a Clayton grocery, who was shot to death in his delivery truck Saturday night, apparently when fleeing from holdup men, will be held at 9 o'clock Wednesday from the Holy Redeemer Church, Lockwood and Joy avenues, Webster Groves, to Calvary Cemetery.

Little progress has been made by police in their investigation of the shooting, which occurred on North and South road just north of Kirkham avenue bridge over the River des Peres, in Brentwood, while Becker was on his way from his market to his home, 437 Greeley avenue, Webster Groves.

Becker was dead when taken from the truck after it had crashed into a telephone pole four blocks south of the bridge. A bullet had passed through the back of the seat and lodged in his body.

SLAIN GROCER



GEORGE H. BECKER.

Two Negroes, residing in the vicinity of the bridge, reported they heard a shot and saw a flash in a small sedan as it drew alongside Becker's truck in a rough stretch of roadway at the bridge approach. The sedan continued south on Kirkham for a block and a half, then turned around and moved rapidly north. Becker's truck zigzagged along the street until it crashed 100 yards north of Newport avenue.

The witnesses were unable to get a description of the car or to see how many persons were inside. Becker's truck was in second gear when examined after the crash, indicating he had lost control upon being shot, as motorists customarily use second gear on the rough bridge approach.

The only clew to the identity of the assassins is a .32 caliber steel-jacketed bullet taken from Becker's body. It will be turned over to ballistics experts of the St. Louis Police Department for examination. Its only value as a clew, however, would come if the pistol from which the bullet was fired were also obtained for comparison.

Becker, whose store is at 224 North Meramec avenue, Clayton, had $148 in cash and $50 in checks, part of Saturday's receipts, in his pocket, when found. Police inquired of employes of the store and of residents nearby, but found no one who had observed a sedan in the vicinity when Becker closed the place and started for home. Employes said he had been held up in the store twice previously, but had never resisted the robbers.

On Aug. 30, 1931, Thomas Larsen, proprietor of a drug store at Meramec avenue and Kingsbury boulevard, next door to Becker's store, was fatally shot by a robber when he resisted a holdup.

Mabel Jenkins, a Negro, 450 West Kirkham avenue, Webster Groves, suffered cuts and bruises of the right shoulder when struck by Becker's truck just before it crashed. She was taken to St. Louis County Hospital.

Becker, 42 years old, is survived by his wife, Mrs. Amy Becker, three children, Marjorie, 12; Frederick, 9, and Patricia, 5, and his father, Charles J. Becker. A Coroner's verdict of homicide was returned today.

PARACHUTE JUMPER TANGLES WITH POWER LINE, IS UNHURT

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 5.—Lieut. N. O. (Dusty) Bernard of New York, stunt flyer, wound up the American Legion air show here yesterday with a parachute drop which ended in a tangle with an 11,000-volt power line.

Bernard jumped out at 6000 feet and pulled the cord after a 4000 drop. A stiff north wind carried him toward the power line. He worked desperately to slip his parachute out of danger. He missed the wire himself, but his shroud lines yanked the power line and telephone wires together. He escaped with a scratched arm.

ADMITS KILLING ONE, SHOOTING TWO IN QUARREL OVER WOMAN

Burlington (Ia.) Man Fires Pistol When Barred From Home; Surrenders.

BURLINGTON, Ia., June 5.—Paul Tray, 33 years old, of Burlington, confessed yesterday, County Attorney Dailey said, that he killed Henry Maass, 45, of Danville, Ia., and severely injured Ben Maass, 42, a brother, of Danville, and Mrs. John Maass, 42, of Burlington, late Saturday night.

Police said four witnesses to the shooting reported that Tray shot the three persons as they attempted to prevent him from entering the John Maass home here to see Virginia Maass, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Maass. Police said the girl had refused Tray's attentions for more than a year.

An hour later Tray emerged from an alley opposite the Police Station, pushed his way through the crowd around the station, entered the Sergeant's office and laid down a revolver. He was booked and taken to a cell without saying a word.

RUSSIA FILES PROTEST OVER RAIL LINE BREAK

Complains to Tokio About Severed Connection of Chinese Eastern and Soviet Road.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, June 5.—The Soviet Government filed a protest yesterday with the Japanese Ambassador, Kamekichi Ota, against the breaking the connection between the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Ussuriisk Railroad in Siberia.

An official dispatch said a party of Manchukuans, led by a Japanese official of the Manchukuo Government, broke the connection at Paghanichnaya, on the Eastern Manchurian frontier, May 31. Several weeks previously the connection into Siberia at the western extremity of the Chinese Eastern, was broken.

The Soviet protest expressed the hope that if the Japanese Government is interested in keeping order in Manchuria, it will take necessary steps to rectify the situation at Pogranichnaya. Japan was reminded it had been notified May 29 that the Soviet Government had received information the interruption in traffic was decided on at a meeting in the Japanese Embassy in Changchun, Manchuria. The note said Russia had expected Japan to use its information to prevent such an incident.

Japan's offer to act as mediator in the proposed sale of Russia's interest in the Chinese Eastern to Manchukuo was accepted by the Soviet Government Saturday. It was agreed negotiations begin in Tokio June 26.

Federal Trade Commission Outlines Rules Governing the Michigan Situation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Federal Trade Commission yesterday issued a ruling outlining in detail what it has decided constitute "unfair trade practices" in the milk producing and distributing industry in Michigan.

The commission's statement approved a group of rules adopted by the industry at its trade practice conference last December.

The commission listed as "unfair" trade practices the following, among others:

Giving money or anything of value to representatives of customers without the knowledge of their employers; secret rebates; selling milk or allied products by any false means or device; defamation of competitors; publishing deceptive statements by way of advertisement or otherwise; discrimination in price; selling milk or milk products below cost with the intent of injuring a competitor; wilfully inducing breach of contract between competitors; improper use of the word "free" when the article involved is, in fact, not free, and wilfully enticing away employes of competitors with the purpose of unduly hampering or embarrassing competitors in their business.

LOVE NOTES OF NOTED PERSONS EXHIBITED

Franklin Wanted Wings to Fly to Window of Madam Brillion's Chamber.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—An exhibition opened today by the Rosenbach company contains love letters of Benjamin Franklin, Nathan Hale, Lord Nelson and many others.

Lord Nelson wrote to his "Dearest Emma," stating he would "rejoice, my Emma, to have you in my arms when I need not envy a King."

Thomas Jefferson is shown in one letter to have ideas of his own on marriage. To his friend, William Fleming, he wrote: "You say you are determined to be married as soon as possible, and advise me to do the same. No thank ye!"

Franklin Wanted Wings.

Benjamin Franklin, sometimes called "the first civilized American," wrote to Mme. Brillon:

"I had not the happiness, my dear friend, to see you on Wednesday evening, because my horses were at Paris with the young man, and I have neither feet nor wings. If I had wings, I think I should have flown to you, and I think I should sometimes scratch on the window of your bedchamber. It is very mischevious of nature to deny us the advantages that she wastes so profusely on all the little good-for-nothing birds and flies."

One of the most torrid of the love letters on exhibition is that of Constance Lloyd to Oscar Wilde:

"My darling love—you take all my strength away, I have no power to do anything but just love you when you are with me. Every moment you are with me I worship you more, my whole life is yours. . . . Do you believe that I love you most passionately with all the strength of my heart and mind . . . and when I have you for my husband I will hold you fast with chains of love and devotion so that you shall never leave me, or love anyone as long as I can love and comfort."

Edgar Ellen Poe's Tragedy.

Most fascinating of all is a letter of Edgar Allen Poe to a friend, a letter reciting a love deep, moving and tragic. The letter tells of the recurring illnesses of "a wife whom I loved as no man ever loved before."

With each recurring attack of her illness he "felt all the agonies of her death—and at each accession of the disorder I loved her more dearly and clung to her life with more desperate pertinacity. . . . I became insane, with long intervals of horrible sanity. During these fits of absolute unconsciousness I drank, God only knows how often or how much. As a matter of fact, my enemies referred the insanity to the drink, rather than the drink to the insanity. I had, indeed, nearly abandoned all hope of a permanent cure when I found one in the death of my wife. This I can and do endure as a man—it was the horrible never-ending oscillation between hope and despair which I could not longer have endured without total loss of reason. In the death of what was my life, then, I received a new but—oh, God, how melancholy an existence!"

BALUSTRADE OF LOUVAIN U. LIBRARY IS SMASHED AGAIN

Man Who Broke Stone Work Years Ago Does it Once More at Brussels.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, June 5. — The famous balustrade of the Louvain Univesity library which has been the subject of controversy for years because of an attempt to place an anti-German inscription on it was destroyed again yesterday by Edmund Morren, a mason's foreman, who smashed it five years ago.

A proposed inscription which had been placed on the balustrade by Whitney Warren, the American architect of the reconstruction of the famous building, was removed by order of the Belgian Supreme Court. It was a Latin phrase, translated as: "Destroyed by German fury; restored by American generosity."

An excited crowd watched Morren climb the roof of the university yesterday and break the balustrade with a hammer. On descending he surrendered to police, saying: "You see there are still true Belgians."

13 SEIZED AS MEMBERS OF COUNTERFEITING RING

Rounded Up at Detroit by Secret Service Men; Alleged to Have Passed $15,000.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, June 5.—Thirteen men were held here today, accused by Secret Service operatives as members of a ring that had passed $15,000 in counterfeit money.

Bert C. Brown, chief Secret Service operative, said that Elmer Macklin, long allied with various Detroit gangs, was leader of the ring in Detroit. Brown said that Macklin and Mike Rebino bought the bogus money in the East, paying $15 per $100 of face value, selling it to passers here at $35 per $100. Macklin and Rebino are among the prisoners.

Prof. F. P. Gorham, Biologist, Dies.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 5.—Frederic Poole Gorham, 62 years old, for 40 years associated with the biology department of Brown University, died yesterday of a heart attack at his summer home in Gloucester, R. I. For 34 years he had been biologist and bacteriologist for City of Providence and the State of Rhode Island. In his public work Prof. Gorham concentrated on elimination of mosquitoes, bay pollution and milk pollution, carrying on vigorous campaigns.

POPE CANONIZES FRENCH FOUNDER OF CHURCH ORDER

DEMENTED MAN INTERRUPTS SERMON

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, June 5.—Pope Pius, in a canonization ceremony in St. Peter's yesterday, bestowed the rank of saint on a French priest, Andre Fournet, founder of the Order of "Daughters of the Cross." The sisterhood has seven branches in Canada and nine in Argentina.

The ceremony was in the presence of President de Valera of the Irish Free State, and Chancellor Dollfus of Austria.

Twenty-one Cardinals, and 100 prelates surrounded the Pontiff as he performed one of the most spectacular ceremonies of the Catholic church. Tens of thousands of spectators, many of them holy year pilgrims, including hundreds of Americans, crowded the Basilica.

The address of canonization was interrupted by an insane man who made a speech at the top of his voice. The interruptor harangued the crowd and invited them to gather in the Piazza Colonna where he said he would explain at length his ideas on life.

The Pope glanced in his direction in time to see the papal gendarmes hustle the man outside the church. The man was handed over to Rome police.

Pope Enters St. Peter's.

Pope Pius entered St. Peter's in formal procession, borne on a portable throne on the shoulders of 12 attendants, with two additional attendants walking beside him and stirring the air with enormous ostrich feather fans.

As soon as he arrived at the high altar, descended from the portable throne and took his seat on the fixed papal throne, the cononization began. A Cardinal and two prelates approached him, knelt before him and thrice asked him formally to declare blessed Andre Fournet a saint. The first two times the Pope responded that they all had first to pray for God's assistance. Prayers and the Litany of the Saints were recited.

When the request was repeated for the third time, the Pope signaled for the loftey miter to be placed on his head, and rose. He declared in a loud voice that blessed Andre Fournet be "inscribed in the catalogue of the saints and his memory be celebrated in the universal church every year with pius devotion."

Choir Sings "Te Deum."

Six silver trumpets were blown by Swiss guards and the choir burst into song with the "Te Deum." The bells of St. Peter's rang and the bells of the more than 400 churches in Rome replied.

Shortly afterwards an unusual ceremony took place, still in St. Peter's. As a mark of their gratitude for the Pope's declaration of canonization, three Cardinals offered to the Pope two huge loaves of bread, two little kegs, one containing wine, the other water; three bird cages, one containing two doves, the second two pigeons, and the third a number of small birds of various species; and candles.

This is a revival from the early church, when a priest's congregation gave him similar objects. The priest took part of the bread and distributed it among the faithful as a communion. The rest of the bread, the wine, water and fowl, were for his own sustenance, in place of a salary.

This ceremony took place at the offertory of the mass. When the mass was over the Pope first imparted the apostolic blessing, then ascended the portable throne and was borne in procession through the cheering crowd out to his private apartments.

The exterior of St. Peter's was illuminated by thousands of oil lamps last night, a traditional custom in celebrating.

FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR THOMAS F. LYDON

Shell Corporation Official Died Following Abdominal Operation.

The funeral of Thomas F. Lydon, vice-president and treasurer of the Shell Petroleum Corporation, will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. at Christ the King Church, 7324 Balson avenue, University City. Burial will take place in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Lydon, who was 57 years old and resided at 7019 Washington boulevard, died at St. John's Hospital yesterday of a complication of diseases. He had undergone an abdominal operation last Monday to determine the nature of his ailment.

Born in Ireland, Mr. Lydon came to this country in 1898. He began his career in St. Louis in the same year as a laborer in the freight department of the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Entering the employ of the old Waters-Pierce Oil Co. in 1902, he advanced to controller. In 1916 he became connected with the Roxana Petroleum Corporation, predecessor of the Shell Petroleum Corporation, as secretary. He was made vice-president and treasurer in 1923. He was particularly interested in the welfare of employes, and last year was instrumental in effecting a share-the-work system which increased the number of his company's employes to about 18 per cent above normal.

Mr. Lydon served in the Spanish-American War as a Captain in the Missouri National Guard. He was a director of the Chamber of Commerce.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Alice Stanley Lydon; a son, Thomas; four brothers, Martin J., Joseph P. Mathias and John J. Lydon; two sisters, Mrs. William Nolan and Mrs. Michael Delany.

WALKER'S AGENT APPEARS BEFORE U. S. GRAND JURY

Sherwood in Room 45 Minutes; Is Directed to Return on Thursday.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Russell T. Sherwood spent 45 minutes before a Federal grand jury today, presumably answering some of the questions about himself and former Mayor James J. Walker which Samuel Seabury wanted to ask almost two years ago.

Sherwood, who turned up in New Jersey last week after a disappearance of 21 months, went to the Federal Building under a Federal subpena which gave him protection from arrest on a county arrant charging contempt of court.

The contempt charge was laid against Sherwood when he disappeared during sessions of the Hofstadter Legislative Committee and so escaped the interrogation of Seabury, the committee's counsel.

"We Need Reliable Cars... that Are Economical to Buy and Run"

MR. ECHLIN is not only an engineer . . . he makes automobile parts! So he knows automobile values . . . and what a dollar ought to buy!

He'll tell you he bought Standard Plymouth for his salesmen because of "the many outstanding features that make for reliability and economy."

Floating Power engine mountings for instance... not only a smoother ride, but longer life from your engine. And hydraulic brakes... not only sure, but self-equalizing as well.

And Plymouth not only is the lowest-priced 6-cylinder 4-door sedan... but costs less to run because there is no needless dead weight!

Mr. Echlin played no favorites when he picked Plymouth. He bought to make his dollars count!

Why not follow his example? Look at all three low-priced cars... and buy the one that gives you most per dollar.

DR. DODSON CALLS MAN PARTNER IN CREATION

In Washington U. Baccalaureate Sermon Declares There Is No Law of Benevolent Change.

The future development of the race is dependent on the exercise of creative intelligence, the Rev. Dr. George R. Dodson, pastor of the Church of the Unity, said yesterday in delivering the baccalaureate sermon at Washington University.

More than 700 seniors, who will receive their diplomas tomorrow at the Seventy-second Commencement assembled in Graham Memorial Chapel to hear the sermon. The Alumni day program got under way today.

Dr. Dodson pointed out that there is no law "of universal benevolent change" through which the world progresses towards Utopia, nor is it possible to "sit back and let evolution produce the desired results."

Comparing human civilization to a garden, he said man is necessary to cultivate it, no matter how much nature may assist in the growth of the plants.

"All human institutions are in process of change," Dr. Dodson said," and man is becoming a partner in creation, a co-creator with God. Guided by our men of science, we are learning to substitute direct guidance of evolutionary processes for the slow, wasteful, and often cruel processes of nature."

Dr. Dodson said the present generation is realizing the necessity of co-operating in personal and social development.

"No great thought confers upon humanity such dignity as the clear perception that the creative intelligence of our race is to continue," he concluded, "to accelerate and perfect the process of development which has been going on for ages."

The "campus medley" program was given in the main quadrangle Saturday night, alumni participating in the entertainment.

WIFE SUES JOHN BORDEN

CHICAGO, June 5.—John Borden, oil operator of Chicago and Muskegon, Mich., revealed today that his wife, Mrs. Courtney Letts Borden, had filed suit for divorce in Reno, Nevada.

The Bordens, socially prominent here, were married in 1925. The previous year she was divorced from Wellesley H. Stillwell and he from Mrs. Ellen Waller Borden, recent bride of John Alden Carpenter. Borden said his wife went to Reno two weeks ago and he understood the charge would be cruelty. In addition to their home here the Bordens spent much time on their farm at Grenade, Miss. He said he would not contest the action.

Mrs. R. J. Kohn's 83 Is Low Among Qualifiers In District Tourney

By W. J. McGoogan.

NORWOOD HILLS COUNTRY CLUB, June 5.—Mrs. R. J. Kohn, playing over her home course, shot a brilliant 83 to lead the qualifiers in the annual Women's Championship of the St. Louis District Golf Association, here today.

With only a few late starters still unheard from, Mrs. Kohn appeared sured of medal honors. er card, compared with women's par follows:

Westborough's "big four" won the team trophy for the third time, giving the club permanent possession. The team members and their scores: Mrs. Hynes, 84; Mrs. Singmaster, 86; Mrs. Spalding, 97; Mrs. yder, 102—Total 369. Norwood ls was second low in team score.

In the absence of Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. I. S. Hynes, who has held the championship once, was the favorite to recapture the crown from the field of some 70 golfers entered.

Tomorrow match play begins in three classes, and a round each day will be played with the final at 36 holes, Saturday.

The west course of this club, formerly North Hills, is being used, and it presents many problems to the contestants. It is approximately 6600 yards long, with a par of 71, 35 on the first nine and 36 on the second.

KING LEVINSKY MUST EXPLAIN CONDUCT IN BOUT WITH GRIFFITHS

CHICAGO, June 5.—King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, was scheduled to appear before the Illinois State Athletic Commission to explain his conduct during his bout with Tuffy Griffiths Friday night.

The king was charged with unusual roughness and unbecoming language to Referee Phil Collins. His purse at first was ordered held up, but later was turned over to him.

D CHOCOLATE TO MAKE EUROPEAN TOUR

MADRID, June 5.—Luis Gutierrez, manager of Kid Chocolate, announced yesterday he had signed a four-year contract with Joaquin Gasa, well-known Spanish promoter who manages the Olympia Club at Barcelona and holds options on all Spanish bullrings.

Gutierrez said the agreement provided for bouts throughout Europe for Chocolate, who is recognized as world featherweight champion by the New York State Athletic Commission.

WRAY'S COLUMN

If Looks Won Fights—

"HANDSOME is as handsome does," in the fight world. You may look like that million dollars, in shape, but if you can't win fights, it doesn't mean a thing.

We read that Max Baer, who like many another great athlete, is a product of California, is just about "the finest specimen of manhood," etc., that the ring has seen in years. He weighs about 210, strips over six feet two inches in his skin, has the shoulders of Jeffries and the waist of a chorine, and smiles as he gives and takes punishment.

BAER.

But appearances are deceiving, sometimes. The perfect athlete is not always the perfect fighter; on the contrary, the unpromising looking men sometimes deliver the goods.

As far as one is able to learn about this curly-headed, carefree young Hebrew, however, there are a lot of solid virtues mixed in with the many imperfections of the gentleman from California.

To begin with he can "take it"—has taken it in fact—and that is the first essential to fighting equipment.

In the second place he can give it—we judge solely by his record, which shows that he had Ernie Schaaf out on the floor when the final bell saved that great fighter from a "knockout by" in his record. He stopped Jose Sarita, Tuffy Griffiths, Paul Swiderski, Walter Cobb and other big fellows. He has beaten King Levinsky twice, De Kuh, Risko and others of more or less note. He had Tom Heeney head over heels out of the ring and that's more than Gene Tunney did to the Hard Rock from Down Under.

It is also said that Jack Demp-

CARDS LEADING REDS, 2 TO 0, WHEN RAIN ENDS GAME IN FOURTH

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

CINCINNATI, June 5.—Dizzy Dean and the Cardinals were on their way to a victory that would have moved them back to first place this afternoon, when rain interrupted after three and a half innings and so drenched the field that it was impossible to resume play.

The Cardinals were leading, 2 to 0, when play was suspended after the Redbirds' turn at bat in the fourth inning. After a wait of 42 minutes the umpires announced that the game was called. It will be played as part of a double-header Saturday, Aug. 5. A double-header already is scheduled for Aug. 6, as a result of a previous postponement.

Frisch's single, stolen base, and Orsatti's single gave the Cards a run in the first inning and in the second Dean was safe on Adams' wild throw, took second on Martin's single to left and scored on Frisch's single to right.

Adams' single in the first inning and Lucas' double in the third were the only hits off Dean.

OLYMPIC COMMITTEE STARTS ITS MEETING BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, June 5.—The International Olympic Committee, meeting today behind closed doors, discussed the question of rescinding award of the 1936 games to Berlin because of the German ban on Jews but what action, if any, was taken was not disclosed.

The committee voted as one of its first acts to keep any decisions secret until Wednesday when a full report of the proceedings is expected to be made public.

Brig. Gen. Charles Sherill, one of the three American representatives, who said yesterday he would oppose the holding of the Olympiad in any country where there were restrictions on athletes because of race, color or creed, declined to comment on the day's discussion.

The executive committee convened at 9:30 a. m. and continued its deliberations far into the afternoon. Another closed session will be held tomorrow.

BLANCO WINS AUTO RACE.

BUENOS AIRES, June 5.—Ernesto Blanco won the 400-kilometer automobile race with a Reo in two hours, 52 minutes, 30 seconds here yesterday. Ricardo Caru was second and Augusto McCarthy third.

Earnshaw Refuses To Be Interviewed After Suspension

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.

PLACED on a 10-day blacklist and fined by Connie Mack as punishment for failure to keep in condition, George Earnshaw, Athletics' hurler, yesterday worked in the yard back of his suburban Swarthmore home.

"It's no use coming here," he greeted would-be interviewers. "You might know I'd have nothing to say."

He jerked up a few more weeds.

"Nope, absolutely nothing to say," he repeated. "Connie Mack's the one to do the talking. If anybody wants to know anything about me let them get it from Mack."

"Persistent breaking of training rules" was the reason given by Connie Mack in announcing Earnshaw's suspension without pay Saturday, after the game between the A's and the Yankees in New York. He also slapped a $500 fine on George's pocketbook—the heaviest ever imposed by the manager.

HOUSTON TEAM WINS U. S. VOLLEYBALL TITLE

CHICAGO, June 5.—The National Y. M. C. A. volleyball championship today was on its way to Texas for the third successive year, this time in charge of the Houston team, which battled until the small hours of yesterday morning to defeat Hyde Park of Chicago.

The Texans, who reached the final on the consolation side of the double elimination tournament, fought an uphill battle to take the title, which last year and in 1931 was won by San Antonio. They defeated Hyde Park, unbeaten in the preliminary play, to force the tournament into another match. In the final test Houston won over the Chicagoans, 14—16, 17—15,—15—9.

Members of the title-winning team which received the C. C. Robbins trophy, were H. Brock, C. Owens, D. Sanders, K. Owens, J. Wortham, S. Wheeler and R. Whiting.

INDIGO VICTOR IN BELMONT STEEPLECHASE

BELMONT RACE TRACK, N. Y., June 5.—Indigo, a former J. E. Widener jumper, was a successful 6 to 5 choice in the steeplechase here today, carrying the Northwood Stable's silks home in front by two lengths. Mrs. J. H. Whitney's Forage Cap and Spar ran second and third with a nose separating them at the wire. Spar made most of the pace but was no match for Indigo when the latter was allowed to run after a mile and a half. Forage Cap finished fast to beat his stablemate.

CRAWFORD WINS FROM COCHET IN FRENCH TENNIS SINGLES FINAL

By the Associated Press.

AUTEUIL, France, June 5.—Jack Crawford, tennis champion of Australia, today humbled Henri Cochet in straight sets 8—6, 6—1, 6—3 to win the French hard court singles title for the first victory of an invading player since the event was thrown open to the world eight years ago.

Cochet, apparently the last of the great French tennis dynasty which has held sway over the tennis courts of the world since 1927, was rudely dislodged from the throne he was defending and which he had held five times since 1922.

Most of the fine players of the world have attempted the task so brilliantly completed by Crawford but one of the three French "Musketeers" of the court always has turned them back, Rene Lacoste in 1925, 1927 and 1929 and Jean Borotra in 1931 when Cochet did not defend. The event was first thrown open to all comers in 1925.

It was a cleancut victory for Crawford, who had the answer to all Cochet's modes of play. Cochet tried everything in his bag of tricks in an effort to avert defeat but vainly.

English Girl Wins Title.

Margaret Scriven, 20-year-old English girl who is ranked no better than 12th in her own country, won the women's singles championship, defeating Mme. Rene Mathieu, first ranking French woman, 6—2, 4—6, 6—4.

She succeeds to the title won last year by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, but not defended.

Miss Scriven was the sensation of the tournament with successive victories over Mary Heeley, first-ranking English player Betty Nuthall, fifth ranking English star and Mme. Mathieu.

Miss Jacobs Eliminated.

Miss Helen Jacobs, holder of the American championship, put up a great fight against Mme. Mathieu in the semifinals yesterday but finally bowed to the French woman's steady play, 8—6, 6—3. It marked the second year in succession that Miss Jacobs had been eliminated from this particular tournament by Mme. Mathieu.

In the meantime, Miss Scriven, put out Betty Nuthall, 6—2, 4—6, 6—3 in the other semifinal.

Crawford defeated Jiro Satoh, canny Japanese, yesterday. 6—0, 6—2, 6—2. Cochet played poorly in eliminating H. G. N. Lee, of England, 9—11, 6—3, 6—3, 6—3.

PILATE BEATS CON AMORE IN BELMONT RACE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BELMONT PARK, N. Y., June 5.—Andy Schuttinger's Pilate, carrying top impost of 126 pounds, came from behind to defeat four others in the Biltmore Handicap, racing feature here this afternoon.

J. W. Y. Martin's game mare, Con Amore, was second in the Biltmore, a length back of Pilate and three spans in advance of Neverfade. Parry was fourth. Halcyon was left at the post.

Pilate found the race made to order for him. Malley rated the veteran in immediate attendance to the killing pace duel staged by Con Amore and Neverfade for half a mile. At the head of the stretch he took Pilate around the leaders and in the last 70 yards drew away from the tenacious Con Amore.

Irish Team Is Winner.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Kerry, all-Ireland Gaelic football champions, defeated New York 10—3 before a crowd of 30,000 in the Polo Grounds yesterday. The fifth game of Kerry's American invasion will be played at Soldier's Field, Chicago, next Saturday.

65,099 Fans See Yankees Win Two From Mack's Club

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.

THE largest crowd of the year and one of the largest on record, 65,099 fans, turned out yesterday to see the Yankees win two games from the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 2 and 2 to 0. In 1928 the same clubs drew more than 85,000 for a Sunday doubleheader to set another attendance record.

Brilliant pitching by two young hurlers played the leading roles in the Yankee victories. Johnny Allen held the Athletics to one lone single in the second game, after Russell Van Atta had pitched six-hit ball in the opening duel with Merrit (Sugar) Cain.

SCHMELING AND BAER IN CONDITION FOR BATTLE THIS WEEK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The East and West of fistic styles will meet in the Yankee Stadium Thursday night when Max Schmeling, studious German, faces California's playboy heavyweight, Max Baer, in a 15-round duel.

It is, as a matter of fact, the very contrast of the two men's fighting styles and personalities that has served to what the public's interest and all but assure Jack Dempsey a promotorial bull's-eye in his first New York venture.

Schmeling, the stolid unemotional fighting machine of apparently unlimited reserves of stamina, rules a 2 to 1 favorite over the California fighter who carries his carefree, devil-may-care disposition right into the ring with him.

Baer Clowns in Work Outs.

The German has trained faithfully in his inaccessible camp at Lake Swannanoa, N. J., perfecting his defense and timing, shortening his punches, carefully heeding his trainers' advice. Baer too has reached the peak of physical condition but by another method.

Training at Atlantic City for six weeks, the big Californian has clowned his way through daily workouts, putting aside all thoughts of defense, inviting his sparring partners to take pot-shots at his granite chin. Unless he develops a sudden attack of caution, he'll fight just that way.

Baer does not believe there is a heavy-weight extant who can hurt him seriously. Like the Dempsey of a decade ago, he is willing to take a couple of punches any time in order to land just one. He may change his mind when he samples the terrific punching power that lies in Schmeling's arms, especially the German's right.

In previous bouts in this country, Schmeling has shown amazing stamina. Over the last five rounds of 15-round bouts he consistently has battered tiring opponents. He may find Baer, however, at least his equal in this respect. The Californian has fought two 20-round bouts in the last two years and finished both of them fresh and strong. He will have great physical advantages over Schmeling—an inch and a half in height, five in reach and about 18 pounds in weight.

Gate of $250,000 Expected.

The financial aspects of the bout have been decidedly encouraging to Dempsey. Advance sales are reported just short of $100,000 with prospects of a crowd of 55,000 and a gate of $250,000 if the weather is fair and warm.

Both fighters have virtually completed training. Schmeling will go through one more public workout, tomorrow, but Baer wound up boxing yesterday. He will take only light exercise today and tomorrow and leave Atlantic City Wednesday for the seclusion of a private home in New York. Schmeling will break camp Thursday morning and arrive in New York just about in time for the weighing-in ceremonies that afternoon.

Junior Legion League Starts Schedule Today

The city American Legion junior baseball program will get under way this afternoon on Forest Park diamonds with three games. Hatzfeld, State champion team of last season, is to meet St. Louis Post No. 4, Anderson plays Stockham, and Goldman faces Aubuchon-Dennison.

The schedule arrangement is slightly different from that of last season, when there were two separate leagues. A split schedule of five games for six teams in one league, will be used, the winners of each half to meet in a three-game series for the city title about the middle of July.

Most of the Hatzfeld boys who went to the regional finals last year have "graduated." Only three, George Hasser, John Juelich, regular infielders, and Pat Monahan, outfielder, are eligible under the 17-year age limit to play this season.

The schedule (games to be played on Forest Park diamond, No. 7, 8 and 9, in order named):

June 8—Goldman vs. Hatzfeld; St. Louis vs. Anderson; Stockham vs. Aubuchon-Dennison.
June 15—Anderson vs. Goldman; Hatzfeld vs. Aubuchon-Dennison; Stockham vs. St. Louis.
June 19—Hatzfeld vs. Stockham; St. Louis vs. Goldman; Aubuchon-Dennison vs. Anderson.
June 29—Stockham vs. Goldman; Hatzfeld vs. Anderson; St. Louis vs. Aubuchon-Dennison.

What, No Dough?

The magnate who doesn't own a farm where he can raise his own ball players has to raise the dough when he is in need of talent. And it takes more than a cake of yeast to raise dough in these parlous times.

Indications are that prosperity has turned the corner and it won't be long now until a feller's bond will be as good as his word.

"Baer Stronger," reads a headline. But nothing has been added to the potency of beer.

In a disputed play in the Wood-Vines match at Memphis, Referee Ivy ruled against Vines. Fair enough.

Before the match it was thought that Vines would climb over Wood like poison ivy over a sturdy oak. Quite the reverse happened.

The Yanks have signed a first baseman from Manhattan College for delivery on June 15. He is a promising young gent and should have no trouble winning the first base job if Lou Gehrig should shoot himself in the leg or something.

In the meantime Charley Devens, a Harvard graduate, has pitched his second one-hit game in the International loop. Indicating that the sheepskin boys know what to do with the horsehide.

A Brooklyn customer objects to the name "Dodgers" on the ground that it doesn't suggest anything.

But after all, the name doesn't seem inappropriate for a bunch of in-and-outers.

While the Pirates, Cubs, Tigers and Indians may have fighting names, on the other hand take the Cardinals. There is nothing suggestive of game roosters in that name, but they can lick their weight in wildcats.

There isn't a doubt that the Dodgers are teeming with latent power. But they don't use it until it is too late.

How about striking off a Congressional Medal for the railroad executive who refused to be placed on Mr. Morgan's preferred list?

When Chief Peck-in-paugh was threatened with the loss of his job after the Indians dropped a few games, the Brownies jumped into the breach and gave him a leg up. Always willing to help a brother in distress.

THE Brownies in pitching and fielding are fair,
And yet they appear to be going nowhere.
The boys have a lovely assortment of bats
Which proves in a measure as some people claim

20,000 PERSONS SEE HEILMANN MAKE HIS DEBUT WITH SEMIPROS

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, June 5.—Harry Heilmann, four times American League batting champion, is no longer a big leaguer, but he's still a hero to the fans.

He made his sand lot debut yesterday and so enthusiastic were his admirers that police had to use a fire hose to clear the throng of well-wishers from the diamond. Twenty thousand fans, by far the biggest crowd of the season, were packed about the diamond when Heilmann went to bat for the first time in the uniform of the Tool Shop nine, of the Detroit Baseball Federation.

The former pride of the Tigers didn't disappoint his public. He got a hit and drove in a run.

The game was called on account of rain after two innings, but not until Heilmann had gathered in a long fly, after a hard run, in regular big league style.

Heilmann has signed to play regularly with the Tool Shop team, now in the federation cellar.

STEPHENS HURLS NO-HIT CONTEST IN MUNY LEAGUE

Joe Stephens, a right hander, pitching for the St. Agnes Club of the South Side Sodality League, hurled the fifth no-hit, no-run game recorded in the Municipal Baseball Association, this season, when he gained a 16 to 0 victory over the Holy Trinity nine.

In addition to stopping his opponents without a safety, Stephens batted across six runs. He hit a home run with the bases filled and later singled to drive in two more tallies.

Stephens' performance was not the only high-class pitching effort of the day. Auburns, of the Strodtmans, of the Ban Johnson League, yielded only one hit in blanking the Greer A. C., 6-0. Nevianna, Rosenblooms, shut out the St. James in the Empire circuit, 6—0, giving four safeties.

With Swan twirling in good form, the Sentinels, last season's champions blanked the Hebert Tigers, 9-0, in the Mound City League. Swan gave seven well-scattered hits.

Voting in all sections of the United States is continuing in a record-breaking manner in the poll to select the outstanding National and American League players for the "Game of the Century" at Chicago, July 6.

As all baseball fans know, newspapers in various large centers are conducting the poll to determine the most popular players. The Post-Dispatch is conducting the vote in this section and the fans in the St. Louis territory, along with fans from other sections of the country, have shown their interest by responding with enthusiasm.

In addition to conducting the poll in this district, the Post-Dispatch is offering three cash prizes to the fans who send in the best letters, explaining why, in their opinion, one of their teams is stronger than the other. Twenty-five dollars for the best letter, $15 for the second best and $10 for third best.

Chicagoan Selects Teams.

This feature has proved popular to the extent that it has drawn votes even from Chicago, where headquarters for the nation-wide vote is located. One such vote was received from Walter Terrel, 4114 Carroll avenue, Chicago; and he submits an interesting pair of line-ups and explanatory letter, in which he tells why he entered the Post-Dispatch competition. The Chicagoan's teams are:

National—Terry, 1b; Frisch, 2b; Bartell, ss; Traynor, 3b; Berger, lf; Martin, cf; Klein, rf; Wilson, c; Warneke, p; Carleton, p; Hallahan, p. American—Gehrig, 1b; Gehringer, 2b; Cronin, ss; Dykes, 3b; Simmons, lf; Averill, cf; Ruth, rf; Dickey, c; Grove, p; Gomez, p; Hildebrand, p.

Why He Made His Picks.

". . . . It might seem funny to you, that I would send my selections to St. Louis instead of to my home-town paper, but I have my reasons.

"In order to be eligible for the prizes offered by the Chicago newspaper a person must select the correct teams and the correct batting orders. . . . The players who will play on July 6 will not necessarily be the strongest in their leagues. They will be the most popular players. So in order to win the prizes offered by the Chicago newspaper, I would not pick the men for merit but I would have to try to guess who the other fellow was going to choose.

"But with the Post-Dispatch competition it's different. In order to win a prize you have to know who is who in baseball."

The foregoing paragraphs serve as an introduction to the Chicagoan's letter explaining his choices.

"I have picked my players without prejudice," he writes. "Of the two teams, the National is the stronger. . . . In comparing the two infields, we find Frisch, Bartell and Traynor on the National League team. These men are the best baseball players in the world at their respective positions. Gehrig is lots better than Terry, but he can't make up for the remainder of the infield."

Places Martin in Outfield.

The Chicagoan compares the outfielders briefly, and has this to say of selecting Pepper Martin for the National's center field: "I know that Pepper hasn't played in the outfield this year, but he was an outfielder when he walked off with the 1931 world series. Since Martin can't crowd Pie Traynor out of a job at third base, why not put him in the gardens and let the National League have the use of his big bat and flashy base running?"

Many St. Louisans have also sent in splendid letters in the competition for the cash awards. The competition is still open, will remain open in St. Louis until June 19. Have you voted? You should have a voice in selecting the players for the big game. Every vote will be counted, and St. Louis fans should go "down the line" for the stars of the Cardinals and the Browns.

FOSTER WINS 14-MILE BICYCLE ROAD RACE

By setting a fast pace and riding with the aid of a nine-minute handicap, Ray Foster, unattached, was the victor in the opening road race of the season given by the St. Louis Cycling Club over the Watson road course to Valley Park yesterday.

The race was started at the intersection of Brannon and Chippewa and continued west for 14 miles to a point one mile west of the Valley Park road.

In the first series of bike races held by the Century Road Club of America, yesterday, Bud Suever and Gene Gotch are leading in points. Suever, who won city championship in 1925, placed first in two events and fourth in the third race. Harry Lockner, Howard Stradtman, and Erwin Wendler pressed Suever in all events. Gene Gotch duplicated Suever's ability in the Class B events by winning two and placing second in the third event.

FOULIS TOTALS 283, FIVE UNDER PAR, TO CAPTURE ST. PAUL OPEN

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 5.—Jimmy Foulis, descendant of one of Scotland's great family of golf teachers, wasn't quite good enough to qualify for the 1933 national open, but he had $1500 in his pocket today and about that much satisfaction.

Competing against many of the important contenders for this year's national open crown, including five members of America's Ryder Cup team, the Chicago pro kept his head down and sailed in with a par smashing 72-hole total of 283, to win the $5000 St. Paul open championship at Keller course here yesterday.

His card not only clipped five shots from par, but it beat George von Elm of Los Angeles, golf's famous business man, by three strokes and Capt. Walter Hagen of the Ryder Cup squad by five. More than that, he showed a doubting gallery that he wouldn't break under the pressure. His rounds were 70-72-69-72.

Paul Runyan, freshman member of the Ryder Cup team, won a fourth place tie with Harry Cooper, Chicago star, with a 70-72 finish. for 289. Herman Barron, lifted with a rousing 68 on the third round, scored 291. Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, national professional champion and rated as one of Gene Sarazen's most dangerous rivals in the national open, got 292. Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., the fourth Ryder Cup player in the competition, got 294, while Leo Digel, the fifth, fell far back with 303.

Neil White, University of Southern California sophomore, was the leading amateur, with 296. He will compete in the national open.

Walter Hagen, Detroit, 73-75-69-71—288, $750.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Members of the English Wightman Cup tennis team which will face a picked United States Women's squad in August, will arrive in New York on July 22, the United States Lawn Tennis Association announced yesterday.

In addition to the Wightman Cup matches at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, Aug. 4-5, the visitors also will participate in the National championships, also at Forest Hills, Aug. 14-19 and the National mixed doubles championship at the Longwood Cricket Club, Boston, Aug. 21-26. In the latter event they probably will be partnered by members of an English men's team which is expected to visit the United States this summer.

The Wightman Cup players likewise may enter several invitation tournaments for practice purposes prior to the international series.

sey, having boxed with him, likes him and believes in him. And if that is on the level it's good enough for any one.

SO, after all, the native son-of-a-gun from Livermore, may really be handsome in looks and handsome in deeds, next Thursday night in the Yankee Stadium.

He'd better be. For Maxie from "Homboorgh" may have no fancy flourishes and no chorus-man pulchritude, but he is an A No. 1 hard-boiled egg, up there under the white lights, when some fighting is to be done.

If Baer whips Schmeling you can just tab it up that Mr. Moxie from Livermore is going to be the king of the heavyweights.

For we think that's what Schmeling is today, whether he holds the title or not.

Bunkydoodle.

HERE'S a new one for the ring worms: A California doctor wants the National Boxing Association to extend the time of intermission between rounds from one minute to two minutes, on the ground that "there never was a heart built that could stand the terrible strain of three minutes hard fighting with only one minute rest."

Explaining his theory the doctor says that the heart, after being accelerated for three minutes, does not return to normal in the one minute intermission. He says that the acceleration, therefore, is cumulative and in time reaches the point where acute dilation may have fatal results.

The doctor may be right, only the results he speaks of have not been evident. In fact, there have been surprisingly few fatalities in this sport considering the formidable nature of the punishment withstood.

Such deaths as have occurred have been due to blood clots, to violent falls incident to knockdowns and negligence in medical examination of the athletes.

Perhaps the only outright case of death from heart trouble recorded was that of Lute McCarthy, a heavyweight hope, who died in the ring in a fight with Arthur Pelkey.

Make the medical examination strict and fight fatalities will be rare enough to satisfy even exacting persons.

* * *

A Contrary View.

DR. WILLIAM MURPHY, a Milwaukee examiner for the National Boxing Association, pooh-poohs the two-minute between round theory. He does advance the suggestion, however, that "boxers" should be examined. AFTER a fight as well as before, to determine what effect the contest might have had on the heart. That would serve as an additional check on the ability of each man to withstand the rigors of the game.

* * *

The modern boxing rules, with one minute intermissions, are a big improvement on the old days when a knockdown ended a round and only 30 seconds were allowed in which to restore the victim.

It is far better than even the old amateur rules. In these, as in the London prize ring rules, the knockdown ended the round. But this operated badly for the amateur.

Under this rule, whereby the fallen boxer was not even counted over, the fighter might be knocked out three times in one three-round fight, before losing it. That was a man-killing system which, of course, has been changed.

But even under that stupid rule, and not withstanding that amateurs are seldom toughened like a professional, few accidents occurred.

For many years the one-minute intermission has sufficed. Fighters brought up under this regime lived to be old and hearty men. The rule-makers will do well to let Marquis of Queensberry stand as printed. His rules fill the bill—if and when they are observed in full.

* * *

What Do You Mean "Amateurs"?

MR. JAMES "BINGO" BROWN, the new president of the National Boxing Association, is almost as naive an optimist as was that former head of the N. B. A. who took over the wrestling game in the hope of "cleaning it up."

Bingo says that unless the fighters wake up to the fact that they must cease their guarantee demands and work for a reasonable percentage, the "amateurs will take over the boxing situation and run the pros into the ocean."

That might be true—if there were any amateurs. If Bingo can produce one of this extinct species, let him do so and gain the regard of Ringling Brothers, who are still looking for freaks.

If there is a boxer who has received pay in cash for his services, it is because he is too young to know better.

The boys may produce A. A. U. cards to prove their status; but the amateur who reaches the "special bout" stage of development and doesn't get from $25 to $150 a bout, according to the community or the importance of the show, must be one of the sort who doesn't let his left hand know which pocket his right hand has put the receipts into.

Something Wrong Here.

SOMETHING wrong about that alleged statement of Jimmy McLarnin's manager that his boy must receive a guarantee of $50,000 if any one wanted his services.

That was equivalent to announcing Jimmy's retirement. They're not offering welterweight champions guarantees of that size.

And, as was expected, Jimmy's manager came right out with a big laugh in repudiating the statement. He said in substance:

"What a rummy that makes me out." Why McLarnin's fight on the Coast with Corbett, in spite of all the ballyhoo and championship involved, drew less than enough net receipts to pay Young Corbett his guarantee of $25,000. All Jimmy got was the title.

"We're satisfied and we're going to make some money out of it. But not by putting up the price. We'll box for the legal percentage—37½ for champions, 12½ for challengers."

And that's another Pacific Coast duck brought down.

Fight Fans Will Sing Praises Of Walker and Chocolate 20 Years Hence, Runyon Says

(Copyright, 1933.)

By DAMON RUNYON.

WASHINGTON.—This generation of fight fans need not feel that it is being cheated of any of the pugilistic tradition that it hears bandied about by the old blokes of the game.

Indeed, I think this generation is producing its own tradition of a higher quality than that which it is compelled to listen to, when the aged codgers commence mumbling.

Twenty years from now, this generation, then old doddering itself, can bore the young'uns of the day by telling them of a featherweight that was around in the early '30's. A skinny little stick o' licorice from the Island of Cuba by the name of Kid Chocolate.

They can relate how this featherweight, usually coming in around or under 124 pounds, fought one of the great lightweight champions of the time, Tony Canzoneri, and one of the greatest near-welterweights of the period named Jackie Kid Berg of England, and nearly all the greatest featherweight contenders of his day, and how he won the junior lightweight championship, synthetic though the title may have been, from Johnny Jadick, of Philadelphia.

They can tell how this Kid Chocolate, half sick, and away off form, stepped 15 rounds to lick the Englishman, Seaman Watson, champion of his homeland, and a pretty good fighter, if anybody steps up and inquires.

Mickey Walker.

Then this generation, when it is old and gray, can tell the young sprouts of a fellow named Mickey Walker, who started out as a welterweight, won that title and lost it, and then won the middleweight title, and who—still more than a middleweight—fought two of the best heavyweights of his time.

One of these, who was to become the heavyweight champion, this Walker held to a draw in 15 rounds. The other, an ex-heavyweight champion, stopped the little man, but only after a desperate fight which saw the ex-champ backing away and covering before the at- away and cowering before the attack of the "toy bulldog."

This generation, when it is old, will give Walker the credit that it has denied him while he is still active in the ring. The old blokes of today, who were of the younger generation of twenty-odd years ago, still talk of the mighty middleweight, Stanley Ketchel, while overlooking one of their own whose record easily ranks with that of Ketchel, if, indeed, it does not surpass it.

Then there is a heavyweight champion of the world that this generation now sometimes derided, but whose memory will hold high place in their affections when they are telling the kids about him.

I refer, not to Jack Dempsey, who also belongs to some extent to this generation, but to Gene Tunney. Here is a chap who not only beat the mighty Dempsey decisively twice, but who was never defeated himself but once in 65 starts. No other heavyweight champion in history has that kind of record, and no other heavyweight champion passed into retirement undefeated.

The Case of Tunney.

It is characteristic of the present that it seldom gives its own full meed of praise. To this day you hear ringworms deriding Tunney and bringing up the Chicago "long count" of his second fight with Dempsey, without ever mentioning that queer chain of circumstances that brought Dempsey out of the flurry with Luis Angel Firpo a victor.

Now I am not contending that the past didn't have its great fighters. It did. Plenty of them. But I also contend that this generation has fighters as good as ever lived. For instance, I saw a lot of light heavies like the great Jack Dillon, Georges Carpentier, George Gardner and others, and I still think the current "smacksie" Maxie Slapperbloom would have been down in front of any of them in 15 heats.

A number of old gentlemen were talking English featherweights at Madison Square Garden the other afternoon, and by the time they got through they had some youthful scribes thoroughly impressed with the idea that Jem Driscoll and Owen Moran were utterly invincible in their time.

These old gentlemen all agreed that Driscoll licked the great Attell in their famous no-decision bout here in 1909, yet I have heard just as many other assert that Attel won. And I am unable to reconcile the old gentlemen's statement of Driscoll's invincibility with the record, which shows that in four starts against a fellow Englishman, Harry Manfield Driscoll lost once, drew once and won twice, and Mansfield was no world beater.

How About Welsh?

As for Moran, undoubtedly a grand fighter, he was beaten by Matty Baldwin in Boston (although he took two other decisions over Baldwin), lost to Tommy Murphy in a 20-rounder on the Pacific Coast, and was knocked out by Ad Wolgast. He drew twice in long bouts on the coast with Attel and fought him a couple of no-decision bouts in the East. Joe Mandot beat him in Memphis and he lost to Jack White and Charley White.

WHAT A FOOL I WAS!
WE MIGHT HAVE BEEN KILLED
NOT EVERYONE IS LUCKY

HEAT INSIDE A TIRE CAUSES THIS BANG!

Why Risk your Life when Blow-out Protection is free?

Tests prove this new tire is 3 times safer at high speeds

YOU may be a careful driver. You may never go faster than 40. But that doesn't mean that you can't have a blow-out . . . or that you're safe from the awful results.

Investigation shows that the chances are better than even you will have a blow-out some day. When, nobody knows. Perhaps when you least expect it. Then why take chances—when blow-out protection is free?

What causes blow-outs

Today's high speeds—40, 50, 60 and 70—generate terrific heat inside the tire. Rubber and fabric separate. A blister forms . . . and GROWS. Then suddenly it happens . . . BANG! A blow-out. And a terrible drag pulls your car off the road.

But now Goodrich has perfected the amazing Life-Saver Golden Ply. This invention resists the most intense heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus blisters don't form inside the tire. Blow-outs are prevented before they even start!

At gruelling speeds on the world's fastest track the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown Tire, with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, lasted 3 times as long as first quality tires that did not have this feature. These Silvertowns never blew. They were run till the tread was gone—but the Life-Saver Golden Ply refused to give.

Don't think that slower driving can save you from blow-outs, either. Long trips at even 35 or 40 miles an hour can generate terrific heat, too. The only way to play safe is to have the protection of this Life-Saver Golden Ply Tire.

Safest non-skid tread

Scientific tests prove that the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown has the most skid-resisting tread on the road. Its squeegee drying action gives your car extra road-grip . . . reduces danger of skidding to a minimum.

Remember, this "3 times safer tire" costs not a penny more than standard tires. So why take chances? That blister—that blow-out in the making—may be in your tire right now. Put a set of the new Goodrich Silvertowns on your car and have added protection between you and the road.

IKE BOONE KEEPS BATTING LEAD IN INTERNATIONAL

NEW YORK, June 4.—Although his hitting streak was stopped a few games short of the League record and his batting average dropped 21 points, Ike Boone of Toronto remained the outstanding hitter of the International League through the past week.

The 21-point loss merely dropped Boone's average to .424 after last Wednesday's game, while the nearest threat to his supremacy came from Benny Tete, Montreal catcher, whose mark was .389. Ralph Boyle of Baltimore, third on the list and second among those whose games and at-bat figures compared closely with the Toronto star's, had a .370 average.

In addition to being far out in front in the percentages, Boone held first place in the hit totals with 69 safeties and in doubles with 15, and was second in scoring with 37 runs, one behind Red Rolfe of Newark. His week's work gave him eight hits, four of them doubles, and six runs.

Baltimore batters held the lead in the other slugging departments. Buzz Arlett, with only one run batted in and no homers to show for the seven days, still topped those two columns with 13 four-baggers and 47 runs driven home. Ollie Carnegie of Buffalo was second with 11 homers. Moose Clabaugh of Baltimore and Johnny Neun of Newark were tied with four triples each. George Toporcer of Rochester lifted his first place total of stolen bases to 12, while Mike Kreevich of Albany took second with 10.

The Baltimore sluggers also continued to hold their places among the leading batters. Clabaugh held fourth place with a .349 average. Jim Stroner was a point behind, and following them were Harry Danning, Buffalo, .346; Dave Barbee, Toronto, .333; Arlett, .329; Stanley Hack, Albany, .326, and Tom Carey, Rochester, .320.

Jim Weaver of Newark held his place as leading pitcher, with 10 victories against one defeat, for a .909 average, although Ed Chapman of Rochester was credited with three games won and none lost.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 5.—Frankie Parker launched his campaign for the National Tennis Championship today by opening play in defense of his Kentucky State crown, which he won here last year.

He faced George Jackson of Louisville in a first-round match, and if victorious, as expected, was billed to clash with another Louisville, Johnny Forsee, later in the day.

If we put money back to work there will be more work for men

Too much money lacks work. Too much money today lacks the activity that could be given it by someone with initiative and confidence sufficient to put it to work.

Much of our resources which give stability to this institution – lie idle. This money should be at work – making jobs for men, giving sustenance to the home, adding impetus to the wheels of commerce.... But money can go back to work only when men put it back to work. We want to meet and counsel with men who want money to put to work. Nothing is too big, nothing too small – as long as the business is properly organized and well managed, with product or service that has a place in the scheme of things. We are equally interested in the commercial acorn and the industrial oak – the growth of the one is as fundamental as the flourishing endurance of the other.

We are not advocating promiscuous business expansion nor are we urging that untried ventures be launched. But we are suggesting to responsible business men that the mind of this bank is open for sincere discussion of the contribution which money at work might make at this time. It is our function as a financial institution to keep pace with the pulse that indicates the drift of business.

One by one the dark yesterdays are slipping by. Each succeeding day as it arrives, brings a new note of courage – and we try to get up with the sun on the bright mornings of these new days to meet the reawakened spirit of confidence and hope.

It is our feeling that nowhere has the new day been better heralded than in a recent article in Collier's Weekly. It says:

> "Of the fact that confidence has returned to this country, there is not the slightest doubt. Confidence is intangible, but in the long run, invincible. It is the sum of the beliefs, feelings and judgments of a hundred million people. The change in popular sentiment during March was almost miraculous. Nothing comparable has happened within the memory of living men. More than that, this new confidence rests on solid foundations. We have not hypnotized ourselves into cheerfulness. We are sanguine because at last the facts are with us and not against us."

FAMOUS GOLFERS ARE TUNING UP FOR U. S. OPEN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The country's more famous golfers and some with hopes of becoming famous the end of this week, moved on to Chicago today to warm up for the National open championship tournament which opens at the North Shore Country Club Thursday.

Of the field of 151 players which will start out in an effort to shake Gene Sarazen loose from the title, many already were in Chicago or nearby. Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., professional, got in some practice yesterday and picked up $1100 by winning one event and placing second in another in a driving and approach contest at Soldier Field. Denny Shute of Philadelphia, participated in the tournament, a World Fair feature, and won $700.

From St. Paul where he finished second in the $5000 St. Paul open, came George Van Elm. His conqueror, Jimmy Foulis of Chicago, just came back home to watch the rest of the boys play at North Shore, as he failed to qualify for the open tournament.

Tommy Armour and McDonald Smith already have played practice rounds over the championship layout, and their accomplishments indicate that par will be given a going over, especially if the weather is good. Each traveled over the course in 69 strokes.

Sarazen is regarded as the man to beat, but there will be a concerted drive by a strong group of Chicago stars. Included in the domestic list are Armour, Harry Cooper, Mac Smith, Horton Smith and Frank Walsh, the latter runnerup to Olin Dutra in the P. G. A. championship tournament last year.

The winner will receive a gold medal, custody of the championship cup for one year, and if he is a professional, $1000. Other cash prizes will be: Second $750; third, $650; fourth, $550; fifth, $450; sixth, $350; seventh, $280; eighth, $150; ninth, $125; tenth, $100; eleventh. $90; twelfth, $80; thirteenth, $60, and sixteenth to twentieth, $50 each.

BILL SCHWARTZ RETAINS LEAD IN GOLF LEAGUE

By W. J. McGoogan.

Bill Schwartz, representing Westwood Country Club, remains in first place in the St. Louis Professional Golf League as a result of his 5 and 4 victory over Les Scanlon, University City, yesterday, at the U. City course. It was his fourth successive triumph. Bill played in good form, carding 73 on the par 70 course.

There were some upsets, however, for Jack Burns, Creve Coeur, also carding 73, the best round he has had in the matches thus far defeated Orville White, Westborough, 3 and 1, while Ben Richter, Triple A, handed Francis Schwartz, Meadow Brook, his second successive defeat, 4 and 3.

Johnny Manion, Sunset, scored his fourth straight victory, defeating Lance, Utt, Forest Park, alternate for Ed Duwe, 5 and 4.

Jimmy Fogertey, Osage, won by default from Marshall Reynolds, Hillcrest, and it was decided to drop Reynolds from the league for it was the third or fourth time that he had defaulted a match.

Ralph Guldahl, St. Louis Country Club, was not scheduled as he was competing in the St. Paul Open, while Walter Kossman, St. Clair, also was idle.

There will be no matches next Sunday because several of the professionals will be at Chicago for the National Open. Ben Richter was undecided today whether he could go to the Open as his wife is ill. If he withdraws it is planned to ask the U. S. G. A. to permit the substitution of Chester O'Brien, Westborough amateur. The pro league will resume play June 18 at Sunset.

ST. PETERS AND ST. LUKES TIE IN TRACK MEET

St. Luke's well-balanced track squad, and a two-man team from St. Peters, St. Charles, tied for first place in the C. B. C. Parochial School meet yesterday. Each team scored 14 points. St. Anns of Normandy, the favorite, slipped up on several events and finished third, a point behind the winners. St. James, winning the relay in fine fashion, pulled up to fourth place with 12 points.

It was the relay that actually decided the winner. With only the shotput and relay remaining, St. Lukes appeared winners, being three points ahead of any other team. However, Bob Kruse of St. Peters won the shotput to put his team in a tie with St. Lukes, and Schluter and Lamping took second and third place for St. Anns to draw up, a point behind. Only two teams were in the final of the relay, St. James and St. Anns. St. Anns' first man, Seivers, took the lead, but his pass of the bat on to Hensgen was poor, and St. James forged into the lead to win handily, thus giving St. Lukes and St. Peters the meet.

The feature event on the program was the 100-yard dash, with Frank Peterman finishing, half a stride ahead of Ernie Schluter, who was inches in front of Bob Casey. Incidently, these last two were the high point men of the meet, each scoring a first, second and third for nine points.

Thirty-one medals were awarded as well as duplicate cups to the team winners. The meet will be repeated next year. About 1000 people watched the finals.

WOOD WINS $1100 IN GOLF DRIVING CONTEST

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., professional, won the big share of the $5000 prize money in a driving and approach contest at Soldier Field, held in connection with the World's Fair and sponsored by the Chicago American.

Wood won the driving contest and placed second in the 135-yard approach for accuracy, to take down $1100. He had a best drive of 253½ yards in three tries and averaged 247 yards. In the short approach event his three attempts netted him an average of five yards, 27 inches from the pin. He failed to place in the 185-yard approach, his second going out of bounds.

Walter Schrieber of Jamaica, L. I., won the short approach with an average of four yards, 27 inches to win first prize of $700.

The 185-yard approach in the driving contest was won by Denny Shute of Philadelphia, whose average for three shots was a fraction over two yards.

Moores, charged with shooting with intent to kill, was likewise released on bond. He told authorities Wiggins beat Mrs. Wiggins and lunged at her with a knife. The former boxer, his ear nicked by the bullet, was booked on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

ROOSEVELT DIGS IN FOR FIGHT AGAINST VETERANS' RAISES

Democratic House Leaders to Meet Tomorrow to Decide on Action on His Ultimatum.

PRESIDENT WARNS OF TAX INCREASE

He Says He Is Prepared to Hold Congress All Summer Rather Than Unbalance Budget.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—House leaders will debate at a special meeting tomorrow what action they will take on President Roosevelt's ultimatum that if a limitation is imposed on the amount veterans' benefits may be cut new taxation will be necessary to balance the budget.

The conference will be attended by the House Democratic Steering Committee, the special veterans' committee and Chairman Buchanan of the Ways and Means Committee.

Roosevelt last night warned House leaders that if they accepted the Senate increase in veterans' expenditures they must add new taxes to pay for the $170,000,000 cost.

Statement by Rainey.

Meanwhile, Speaker Rainey told newspaper men that if the House were faced with the alternative of rejecting the Senate limitation or approving new taxes it would "accept the limitation and refuse to levy taxes."

Rainey said that if the House did approve a limitation on Veterans' cuts and as a result had to raise new taxes, "it will mean a new tax bill and nobody in the House wants to vote for new taxes.

"We would have ot find a new source. It might have to be a tax on gross incomes. We certainly can't get any more money out of a net income tax, and gasoline is giving us about all it can."

Might Over-ride Veto.

Although certain that a majority of Democrats would vote for the Senate limitation, or even one of 15 per cent, House leaders were not so positive that either limitation would be rejected even if Roosevelt vetoed the bill.

"I hesitate to predict what would would happen to a veto," Rainey said.

Other conferees reported that President Roosevelt indicated strongly he was opposed to "abandoning" the principle followed so far that compensation should be limited to two classes—veterans whose disabilities originated from service or others totally disabled.

Might Get By With Bludgeon.

"I wanted to tell the President that last night, but we just didn't get around to it," the Democratic leader added.

"The President might get by with a bludgeon, and I told him so last night. But the man who is hit over the head with a club remembers it a long time. I told the President that he might accomplish his purpose this time, but there are two more sessions of this same Congress coming along."

Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, told last night's White House parley that 1,300,000 men had been put to work since March 4 and if this was to continue the Government must be kept on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee was called to the White House today just before the Finance Committee met to vote on new levies to finance the public works program.

Calling 15 House Democrats to the White House last night, the Chief Executive stated in no uncertain terms that, though he wants Congress to adjourn Saturday, he was prepared to stick it out in Washington all summer to keep the budget balanced.

Further, he made it clear he felt that the Democratic controlled Congress, in restricting economies proposed by him on veterans' allowances, was taking back power previously given him, and he insisted that by increasing expenditures was violating the party's campaign pledge. He recalled that the veterans' administration was making survey of the border line case where veterans are destitute an ... it was seeking a relaxation regulations under the economy ac

The Democratic leaders were deeply concerned by the situation created by the Senate in amendin the independent offices bill to increase veterans' allowances $170, 75,607. Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee was called to the White House today just before the Finance Committee met to vote on new levies to finance the public works program.

Calling 15 House Democrats to the White House last night, the Chief Executive stated in no uncertain terms that, though he wants Congress to adjourn Saturday, he was prepared to stick it out in Washington all summer to keep the budget balanced.

Further, he made it clear he felt that the Democratic controlled Congress, in restricting economies proposed by him on veterans' allowances, was taking back power previously given him, and he insisted that by increasing expenditures it was violating the party's campaign pledge. He recalled that the veterans' administration was making a survey of the border line cases where veterans are destitute and that it was seeking a relaxation of regulations under the economy act.

The Democratic leaders were deeply concerned by the situation created by the Senate in amending the independent offices bill to increase veterans' allowances $170,675,607. This change also reduced to 25 per cent the cuts in compensation for world war service connected cases and Spanish-American pensions.

The conferees themselves declined to discuss the proceedings for quotation, but Stephen T. Early, a secretary to the President, gave out an authorized report of the meeting. The three-hour session came after the President had returned from a cruise down the Potomac on the Government yacht Sequoia with Senator Robinson of Arkansas.

Robinson expressed confidence that if Congress kept its present pace it could adjourn by June 10, next Saturday, but developments later in the evening caused other Democrats to believe the session would have to continue a week longer.

Wants to Be Fair.

At the outset of his conference with the House Democratic chieftains last night, President Roosevelt said what he wanted was to be fair to the Government, the taxpayers and veterans and that the purpose of the meeting was to find the way out.

He told the men the veterans' administration study of economy cuts was about complete and that changes in regulations would be announced probably within a few days.

Destitute men, he was reported as saying, are to be given the benefit of the doubt as to service origin of their troubles, so no man is to be thrown out of hospital without means of support.

Lewis W. Douglas, budget director, told the gathering that the Senate amendments would cost $170,675,607 and add 249,582 cases to the hospital rolls, including service connected, presumptive and border line cases.

President Roosevelt then put the question of what Congress was going to do, and how if it insisted on voting the outlay it would increase taxes. He did not want the burget thrown lopsided. A decision on what taxes to impose apparently was not sought, but while the three-hour conference was under way, Louis M. Howe, secretary to the President, was saying in an address that boosting the veterans' allowances "means that additional taxes will have to be raised which will amount to about $1.25 for every human being in the United States."

There are no plans at present for a Democratic caucus, majority leaders said. As one of them put it:

"If we get these revolters into a caucus, they'll bind us to worse things than we can imagine."

Rainey, like other leaders, conceded that developments "make impossible adjournment by Saturday, as we had hoped."

"There is no way now of telling when we will get away," he asserted.

Rainey said the President is working on a plan to liberalize the cuts on such a basis that no veteran whose disabilities resulted directly from service would be cut more than 21 per cent.

"That," he said, "would cut the savings $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 but it would not apply to veterans whose ailments are presumed to have originated from service."

Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader, indicated that little help could be expected from his party in an effort to reject the Senate amendment.

"We were assured," Snell said, "that there would be nothing to complain about on service-connected cases. But there is.

"Here we give the President right to cut $400,000,000 off veterans and then make an outright gift of $50,000,000 to China to buy wheat and cotton.

"Talk about needing new taxes to balance the budget. That's bunk. The budget isn't balanced and won't be balanced with $170,000,000 in new taxes even if we accept the Senate limitation."

1000 ALLEGED GOLD HOLDERS TO BE VISITED BY U. S. AGENTS

Attorney-General Sends Names to Federal Field Offices in First Step to Enforce President's Edict.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Attorney-General Cummings said today he had transmitted to the field offices of the Bureau of Investigation more than 1000 names of suspected gold holders with a view to compelling compliance with President Roosevelt's order that all gold or gold certificates above $100 be returned to the Treasury. The Attorney-General denounced those who are still holding their gold as "recalcitrant citizens who are not doing their full duty to their country."

The names which are now being investigated were the first sent to the Department of Justice by the Treasury Department, which had compiled them from reports of banks over the country.

The Attorney-General said the agents of the Buerau of Investigation would inquire immediately of those on the list whether they still had the gold or gold certificates in their possession.

If so, the holder will be advised specifically to turn in his gold immediately and the criminal section of the President's order providing a fine of $10,000 or 10 years in prison or both called to his attention.

The Attorney-General said this course was taken to prevent, in the event of prosecution, the gold holder from advancing the "specious claim" that he had never heard of the law.

If the holder contends that the gold has left his possession, the disposition of it is to be traced.

The weekly financial statement of the banks also revealed that 58 loans were granted by regional members, involving a total of $1,715,517. During the four and one-half months of active operation, the system has authorized $49,244,064 in loans, $37,918,772 of which has been advanced.

SENATE COMMITTEE KILLS HOUSE TAX PLAN

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5. — The Senate Finance Committee today adopted the Harrison tax program to finance the $3,300,000,000 public works project in the industrial control bill. It eliminates the House increases of tax rates on small incomes.

After voting this into the bill, the committee recessed until late in the day to vote on a motion to reconsider its rejection last week of the provision authorizing the President to license industries in enforcing codes of fair competition.

President Roosevelt has urged the committee to reinstate the provision which is regarded by the bill's proponents as the only weapon to hold over industries which refuse to co-operate in the recovery program.

The tax program of Chairman Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, was approved after a motion to reconsider rejection of the sales tax had lost 10 to 9. Sales tax advocates gained one more vote compared with last week's 10 to 8 rejection.

Harrison's program provides for a capital stock tax of one-tenth of 1 per cent on the fair valuation of corporations, which is estimated to raise $80,000,000.

Corporations would be left to declare the valuations on which the tax would be placed and a penalty levy of five per cent would be imposed on surplus profits over 12½ per cent.

The tax plan also calls for an increase of one-half a cent in the existing one cent a gallon gasoline tax, designed to raise $62,000,000. The House bill provided a rise of three-quarters of a cent.

The substitute further provides for a flat five per cent tax on corporation dividends deducted from the sources, estimated to raise $73.000,000, and three amendments to administrative sections of existing laws designed to close loopholes developed by the J. P. Morgan investigation.

These changes would prohibit the carrying over into succeeding years, to apply against gains, any losses on stocks and bonds; deny private bankers the right to deduct such short-term losses on stocks and bonds from their ordinary income; and deny individual members of a partnership the right to charge off on their personal returns their shares in any partnership losses.

The plan also calls for extension for two years beyond July 1 of the consolidated return provision and increases the tax penalty from three-quarters to one per cent where consolidated returns are made by corporations and chains in place of individual company returns.

The committee also approved an amendment authorizing the President to bar interstate shipments of illegally produced oil.

The amendment was proposed by Senator Connally (Dem.), Texas, and reads as follows:

"The President is authorized to prohibit the transportation in interstate and foreign commerce of petroleum and the products thereof produced or withdrawn from storage in excess of the amount permitted to be produced or withdrawn from storage by any state law or valid regulation or order prescribed thereunder, by any board, commission, officer or other duly authorized agency of a state."

VESUVIUS LAVA FLOW HALTING

NAPLES, Italy, June 5.—A lava wave from Mount Vesuvius was halting a few feet from the precipitous edge of the valley of Inferno today, and as the flow gradually stopped it was thought danger to the town of Terzigno was over.

R. F. C. LENDS CHINA 50 MILLION TO BUY U.S. WHEAT, COTTON

Credit Is Arranged at 5 Per Cent on Direction of President — Repayment in Three Years.

SECURED BY PLEDGE OF CERTAIN TAXES

Shipment in American Vessels, With Importers Paying Freight — Purchases in Open Market.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Under President Roosevelt's direction, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has aranged a $50,000,000 loan for China to buy American cotton and wheat.

This deal was concluded in the recent conferences held by the President with Chinese Finance Minister T. V. Soong, one of the series of international exchanges preparatory to the London economic conference.

The loan will be secured directly by Chinese taxes. It has first call on revenues from roll tobacco, flour, cotton yarn, match, cement and other taxes on imports, which netted China $22,000,000 in 1932. Bearing 5 per cent interest, the loan is to be repaid in three years.

It will make possible at present prices for Chinese purchase of 900,000 bales of cotton and 12,500,000 bushels of wheat. The American cotton carry-over this year is estimated at 13,000,000 bales. The limited states wheat carryover is now figured at 363,000,000 bushels, more than half of the world surplus.

Administrators of the new farm act fear this outlet for surplus will not be sufficient to avoid levying processing taxes to finance a general program of acreage reduction. There is fear also that cotton farmers have let their hopes of better prices lead them to expand acreage, possibly wiping out the benefit of the Chinese purchases.

The cotton and wheat will be moved mostly in American ships, with China paying the freight. Both commodities are to be bought in the open market over the next six months, but the Reconstruction Finance Corporation reserves the right to use Farm Board stocks in the transaction. Money will be advanced as each purchase is made. The bulk of the wheat is to be milled before shipment. The cotton is to move unprocessed.

The loan is the second made to China by the American Government for purchase of American farm commodities. More than a year ago the Federal Farm Board sold China 15,000,000 bushels of wheat. This is being paid for in installments.

NOTRE DAME LAETARE MEDAL GIVEN TO JOHN M'CORMACK

Alfred E. Smith, Former Winner, Presides at Ceremony at the University.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 5.—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York and John McCormack, the Irish tenor, helped the University of Notre Dame celebrate the golden anniversary of the Laetare Medal, Notre Dame's annual bestowal on an outstanding American layman of the Catholic church.

McCormack received the medal last night before more than 6000 persons. Smith, as a former medalist, presided.

In his acceptance McCormack turned to the Very Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the university, and said it would be easier for him to sing his appreciation. He got no farther in his speech as the audience took up his offer and was not satisfied until he sang two solos.

Smith as master of ceremonies introduced Margaret Anglin, the actress, who told of women who have been honored with Laetare Medal. Smith not only hailed her as America's outstanding actress, but said she was one who stood for clean drama. He said that if New York producers did not clean up the stage, censors would.

Canned Milk Market Agreement.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Representatives of the evaporated milk industry have completed conferences with administrators of the farm adjustment act as a preliminary to filing an application for a hearing on a tentative marketing agreement. Ninety-eight per cent of the industry are represented in the agreement, which has been in the hands of a committee of which W. T. Nardin, St. Louis, is a member.

RIVERA TO USE ROCKEFELLER MONEY ON TWO OTHER JOBS

Starting on Murals in New Workers' School and International Workers' School.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Diego Rivera, noted Mexican painter who was the central figure in a recent controversy over his murals in Rockefeller Center, announced today that he was starting work on two new murals—one in the New Workers' School and the other in the International Workers' School.

He said he would pay for them with money he received under his contract for the Rockefeller Center murals. Rivera was ordered to stop work on the latter when the Rockefellers objected to the figure of Lenin in a group which was to have topped the paintings. Rivera received $21,000 for the work, $14,000 of which was given to him with a letter telling him to stop work on the murals. Rivera said the murals in the New Workers' School would be in ten panels, five representing his conception of the growth of capitalism in the United States, and the other five depicting the American Revolution. The subject for the murals in the International Workers' School had not been finally selected, he said, but probably would have to do with the World War.

DOLLFUSS RECEIVED BY POPE

Austria-Vatican Concordat Expected to Be Signed Tonight.

VATICAN CITY, June 5.—Pope Pius today received in audience Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria and, separately, Kurt Schuschnigg, the Austrian Minister of Justice.

Prelates said the concordat between Austria and the Vatican would be signed tonight. There are three main points in this concordat. Bishops must be approved by the Austrian Government before being nominated; the Government recognizes the civil validity of religious marriages, and the doctrinal part of education shall be confided to the ecclesiastical authorities.

RAIL BILL PASSES HOUSE AND GOES BACK TO SENATE

Differences Between Two Branches as to Roosevelt Relief Measure Now Must Be Adjusted.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Overwhelming House approval was given today to another of the Roosevelt proposals—the Rayburn measure to improve the condition of the nation's railway systems.

Creating a Federal co-ordinator to effect economies and scale down capital investments in the rail systems through a relaxation of the anti-trust laws, the bill now goes back to the Senate for adjustment of differences between the two branches.

It passed without a record vote.

The measure also places holding companies under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission and repeals the recapture clause of the 1920 transportation act, thus canceling $361,000,000 in Government claims against carriers for excess profits.

The bill protects labor by preventing the discharge by railroads of any employes through consolidations or eliminations of services or terminal facilities.

The bill creates three regional railroad committees of five regular and two special members each for the Eastern, Western and Southern lines, respectively, to work out oconomies with the co-ordinator.

In each region labor committees may be organized to confer with the carrier committees with regard to wages, working conditions and relations.

Joseph B. Eastman, Interstate Commerce Commissioner, is understood to be slated for co-ordinator. Under the bill, the co-ordinator is named for one year, but the President may continue the law for another year.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

To the Jewish People in Germany.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

(With Apologies to Quintus Horatius Flaccus).

NOW unhappy Germany falls by her own strength, whom neither the bordering French could destroy, nor the fierce bands of the menacing Bolsheviki, nor the bold Italians, the proud Britons, nor the humor-sensed Americans. The National Socialists, an impious race, whose blood is devoted to perdition, shall destroy her; and this land shall again be possessed by wild beasts. The victorious barbarians, alas, are trampling upon the ruins of the Reichstag; and, horrible to see, are burning books and insultingly dispersing the bones of Moses Mendelssohn.

Perhaps you are inquisitive to know what may be expedient, in order to escape such dreadful evils. There can be no determination better than this: Namely, to go wherever our feet will carry us; in the same manner as the Spanish Jews fled, after having uttered execrations against such as should return, and left their fields and proper dwellings and temples to be inhabited by boars and ravenous wolves. Is this agreeable? Has anyone a better scheme to advise? Why do we delay?

Let us go, all of us; or at least that part which is superior to the illiterate mob; let the impious and despairing part remain upon these inauspicious habitations. Ye that have bravery, away with effeminate grief, and fly beyond the German border.

The land bordering on the pleasant Mediterranean awaits us; let us seek the happy plain of Izreel, and the prosperous valley of Sharon, where the untilled land yearly produces corn, and the unpruned vineyard punctually flourishes; and where the branch of the never-failing olive blossoms forth, and the purple fig adorns its native tree; honey distills from the carcass of lions; and the River Jordan flows to the Sea of Galilee with a murmuring pace.

There the she-goats come to the milk pails of their own accord, and the friendly flock return with their udders distended; nor does the bear at evening growl about the sheepfold, nor does the rising ground swell with vipers and with Nazis; and many more things shall we, happy Jews, view with admiration: how neither the rainy East lays waste the cornfields with profuse showers, nor is the fertile seed burned by a dry glebe; Jehovah, the king of the gods, moderating both extremes.

The Swastika borne by the Brown Shirts shall never be seen there, nor shall Goebbels set his foot in this place; hither the Storm Troops shall not come, nor Hitler, the swarthy-faced Austrian. Jehovah set apart this land for a pious people, when he debased the golden age with brass; with brass, then with iron, he hardened the ages; from which there shall be a happy escape for the good children of Israel. M. LEON.

Cost of Milk Production.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A FEDERAL investigation of the St. Louis milk district to ascertain the cost of milk production, if properly carried out, will undoubtedly result in a lot of good, and would eventually establish a cost basis for producing milk that will be a benefit to all concerned.

The dairy industry, in so far as the producer is concerned, ought to be standardized and better farm management applied to the business. A great many cow owners are not entirely familiar with the fact that, if a small percentage of their herd is below the money-making line, this is just enough to cause the difference between a prosperous dairy farm and the one that does not make money. Poor milk-producing cows spell bankruptcy for the dairy farmer.

Dairymen can make money at today's wholesale prices for good milk, but the only way they can do it is by eliminating the cows in their herds that are below the money-making line. This type of cows should be sold to the butcher.

EDWARD G. GOULD.

Warns Against Internationalism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

BEFORE the World War, our country was nationalistic. We were a happy, even gay, people. Then the war started and our internationalists decided we ought to do something about it. We went international and tried to save the world, with the result that we have many millions in debts and many more millions that we lent Europe which we cannot collect. We did not make the world safe for democracy, so our venture into internationalism has been a costly failure. The irony is that France has taken the place of Germany as the big stick of Europe. We threw American lives away to achieve that.

Today, the internationalists are distracting the leaders of our country by appeals to meddle in the affairs of Germany. As long as American Jews are not molested, why should we jeopardize our trade relations with a country that is one of our best customers? Haven't we learned to keep out of European diplomatic affairs? What about our own difficult problems?

As a disciple of George Washington, I believe we should keep out of international embroilments.

GEORGE G. BERCHEK.

Municipal Ownership — The Only Way Out

Eager to relieve the people of St. Louis from excessive utility rates, City Counselor Charles M. Hay has appealed to the Missouri Public Service Commission for lower car fares and lower gas and electric rates.

Excellent as this move is, the city is, in our judgment, losing time in not striking for outright public ownership. This is what more than 7000 American cities and towns have done to solve the utility problem, and it is what St. Louis must do. There are impressive examples, among them larger metropolitan communities than our own.

There is a double reason why St. Louis should join this widespread and progressive American movement. It is not merely that the people are unable to pay excessive utility rates; the municipalities also need the profits of the utilities. How else can they meet their share of the great Federal relief debt which the country is now assuming? The people of St. Louis send sometimes as much as $10,000,000 annually out of the city in the form of profits.

The costs of city government have meanwhile been steadily mounting. A modern city requires more and more comforts and conveniences. The automobile has necessitated better streets. The onsweep of civilization, its newer and better conception of public health, its improved sanitation and its advanced social services, have laid upon all municipal exchequers a burden the taxpayers are no longer able to bear. The result is that more and more communities are turning to public ownership as a source of revenue.

Let us apply this policy to the City of St. Louis. Mr. Hay's predecessor, Julius T. Muench, gave his best efforts for years to the fight upon utility rates in St. Louis. He repeatedly went before the Public Service Commission and asked for lower rates. He accomplished little or nothing. The commission is itself bound by a law of the land which has virtually destroyed all regulation. Under Supreme Court decisions, the utilities have been permitted to take an approximate 7.1 per cent profit upon their investments.

Basing the valuation of all such properties largely upon what it would cost to reproduce them, the courts have sanctioned a system of rate-making under which the state commissions have lost all control over the utilities. The whole question comes down to the guarantees of the fifth and fourteenth amendments to the Constitution and the definition of property. This definition involves all valuations for rate-making purposes in what Mr. Muench aptly characterized as "a maze." He said of the Union Electric case:

> We can imagine no case which could more forcefully demonstrate than this one does the utter futility of trying to secure satisfactory regulation of public utilities under the reproduction-new theory. We challenge anyone to read the record and the vast number of opinions cited in the briefs, in which this, that or the other phase of the theory is sought to be justified on something like a logical basis, without coming to the conclusion that the attempt to control the operations of public service companies in this way has resulted in a sad and hopeless mess.

No system of jurisprudence can deliver the people from the perplexities of such imponderables as going value, and the sooner the country realizes this and espouses public ownership the quicker it will be relieved.

No reduction which Mr. Hay may secure can solve the problem for St. Louis. We can do what other cities all over the United States are doing—move for public ownership of the utilities. Until we do that, we can only quibble. We can only add, as Mr. Hay is adding now, to the long list of sham battles which have been fought before the Public Service Commission. Meanwhile, rates will remain a burden and a vexation to the people, and the Comptroller's office will wrestle with an annual deficit.

Mayor Dickmann and his administration are, we believe, genuinely interested in the welfare of the community. They have given every indication that this is the case. A man who had never held public office, the Mayor has immensely impressed the community with the sincerity of his purpose and his executive ability. We can say this in the best of grace, because we did not support him in the campaign. The utility issue faces the administration both as a problem and an opportunity.

The city is in an excellent position to save money for the people and make money for itself. Transportation is in receivership and awaits only the initiative of municipal ownership and operation. The city is just completing a lighting system which will have cost some $8,000,000. It is in part equipped to distribute and sell electricity. It has several alternatives: It can, as Cleveland has done, set up a municipal service in competition with the private monopoly. Or it can buy its electricity from one of the great public hydro-electric plants which the Government contemplates building, such as that at Muscle Shoals. Muscle Shoals is, by air line, only 280 miles from St. Louis.

The gas utility is a greater problem. The Laclede Gas Light Co., which enjoys a monopoly in St. Louis, is not going to compete with the municipality. It will, in our opinion, sell its plant if the municipality enters into competition with it. This is what commonly happens in such cases, since a private plant cannot compete with the lower rates offered by public utilities.

If Laclede will not sell, the city should be in no wise deterred by the necessity of putting in its own gas mains. The modern method of laying such a distributing system is so greatly improved that it is neither so difficult nor expensive a matter as it used to be.

Mayor Dickmann and his administration have it within their power to institute this policy of public ownership. It is the only way in which they can secure lower and reasonable utility rates for the people. It is also the only way in which they can solve the financial problem of the city. We cannot continue the practice of letting private capital take approximately $10,000,000 a year out of the city for services the city itself can render and the profits from which can go into the City Treasury. The municipally owned and operated water plant is a shining proof of what can be done in the whole utility field. It gives the people good water at cheap rates. When it is paid for, it will make money for the city. It is under home rule. It belies everything that is commonly said against public ownership of the utilities and the wasteful practices of politicians.

An ordinance authorizing a municipal electric plant in St. Louis and making provision for funds with which to construct it was passed 16 years ago. It provided for a generating plant as well as a distribution system. The distribution system for streets and public buildings was built, but nothing has ever been done about the generating plant. Meanwhile, the city paid $731,392 for electricity in the last fiscal year. Its contract with the Union Electric Light & Power Co. runs to Dec. 1, 1936. The city's contract with Laclede Gas Light Co. has already expired. Hard pressed for funds, the city appropriated last year, for gas and electric light, $1,227,471, and at the end of the year a deficiency appropriation of $343,000 was added. It is estimated that an electric generating plant to supply the public lighting for St. Louis, if it should be found that the city required one, would cost about $2,000,000.

The policy of municipal ownership has also been accepted by a later Board of Aldermen in the matter of transportation, a reflection of growing public sentiment. What the city needs is to have all this sentiment, civil and official, consolidated in the public interest and incorporated into a complete program of public ownership. It is a policy by means of which the present city administration can make its rule one of the most beneficial that St. Louis has ever enjoyed, an aid to the present and a blessing to generations unborn.

The argument for public ownership and operation of the hydro-electric plant at Muscle Shoals was chiefly based upon comparative costs of electricity under private ownership in the United States and under public ownership in Ontario. That argument began 13 years ago. It showed that people in the United States were paying approximately twice as much for electricity as people in Ontario were paying. Since that argument began, an immense volume of testimony upon the side of public ownership has been added by the experience of American cities and towns.

Another great advantage which the public plants enjoy is that they can borrow money cheaper than private companies. Funds for private plants are raised by stock sales, and the purchasers of these stocks are regularly allowed 8 per cent on their investments. On the other hand, towns and cities obtain their funds from the sale of bonds, which bear interest from 4½ to 5 per cent. Municipal ownership also avoids the evil of over-capitalization. There is no occasion for such practices when the people own their own utilities, whereas they have become a public scandal under private ownership.

Eighty-four cities in the United States levy no taxes, yet exercise all the functions of such communities. They are out of debt. They keep out of debt by owning their utilities. These cities range in population from a few hundred people to more than 20,000. They are located in 16 states. Their number is fast growing. Contrast to them the many thousands of cities, little and big, which are in the misery of debt, because they are handing the means of their own solvency over to private business.

All the public utilities in St. Louis can be acquired by the municipality, and they can all be made a source of profit to the city. No injustice will be done to any fair interest by such a policy. If the city negotiates the purchase of these properties, it can assume their bonded indebtedness and equities up to the point of a fair value agreed upon between the city and the utilities. If the utilities are unwilling to sell, the city can force them to terms by instituting competing plants.

The great consideration is that neither St. Louis nor any other city in the United States can continue leaving public services of the major sort to private ownership requiring immense profits when these services can be rendered by the community at a profit to itself. Unfortunately, American cities have historically followed the practice of farming out to private companies revenue-producing functions such as transportation, gas, water and electricity, while shouldering for themselves non-revenue-producing functions such as sewage, streets, education, playgrounds and parks. Modern industrial conditions and the justifiable demands of advanced social policy have forced municipalities to reverse this custom. The consequence is that they are everywhere turning to public ownership, both as a matter of right and justice and as a means of meeting their municipal expenses.

St. Louis cannot stay out of this movement. Just as she has ended 30 years of deplorable failure in transportation by declaring for municipal ownership of this necessary service, she must also abandon private ownership of the gas and electric utilities and make these services a source of revenue. Both regulation of the utilities and municipal finances have broken down. Experts have shown that by instituting a modern municipal bus system St. Louis can not only solve the problem of transportation but make for itself a needed profit for the crying needs of the city. The same thing is true of the gas and electric utilities. It is time to end the pillow fights between the utilities and the City Hall, time to cease giving away millions of dollars needed for the welfare and well-being of the city and its citizens. There is only one way in which this battle can be won for St. Louis, and that is the way of public ownership.

If 7000 cities and towns in the United States can win their freedom, St. Louis also can win her freedom. If 7000 towns and cities in the United States can make those public services which were a drain upon them a support to their public treasuries, St. Louis also can do so.

Ready for Anything

Lest our readers fear that we made a mistake in attributing that fetching bit of reprint entitled "World's Biggest Porker" to the Wall Street Journal, we hasten to add this word of confirmation. With our own shears we clipped it from a recent issue of that well-known agricultural periodical. Henceforth, nothing will seem out of place, no matter where it is printed. Let Popular Mechanics offer us a scholarly treatise on the rarer founts of poetry; let the Atlantic Monthly present a detailed account of a movie queen's day, from breakfast to bedtime; let True Romances print the text of the bill to invalidate the gold contract clause; let Better Homes and Gardens review the 12 most gruesome murders of the year, with pictures and maps—we shall not be surprised. When the daily journalistic fare of the House of Morgan and the Family of Lamont carries what seems to be an exclusive account of a Tennessee man's efforts to fatten a Poland-China up to 3000 pounds, we are prepared for anything.

WHY NOT GAS AND ELECTRICITY?

Can Hitler Give Germany Bread?

German dictator has given his people plenty of circuses, says English writer, but what it needs most is bread; has made many promises of economic betterment, but his program is vague; little merit is seen in his plans for compulsory labor, public works or peasants' relief; next stage likely to be not fulfillment but disappointment.

From the New Statesman and Nation (London).

THE knockout blow administered to the German trade unions comes as no surprise. It was known that it was only a question of time, and hopes that the submission of the labor leaders might save their organizations were clearly doomed to disappointment.

The coup was carried out with remarkable thoroughness, and it had been very prettily staged. The First of May demonstration on the previous day was the biggest thing of its kind ever seen in Germany, and presented Herr Hitler in the special role of the champion and savior of the working class. And a few hours later, his lieutenants dotted his i's and crossed his t's in a flamboyant manifesto, proclaiming that "Adolf Hitler is your friend, Adolf Hitler is fighting for your freedom, Adolf Hitler will give you bread." It is not to be supposed, of course, that the great mass of the 4,000,000 trade unionists are taken in by this rodomontade. But they are—for the time being, and probably for a long time to come—as effectively broken as the political parties of the Social Democrats and Communists.

The Nazis are now very nearly complete masters of the situation. Any resistance that might have come from the proletariat they nipped in the bud. Their bourgeois allies, the Nationalists and Junkers, who thought that Hitler, with his Brown Shirts and his popular histrionics, was to be their catspaw, have been hopelessly duped. The Stahlhelm has been overcome with scarcely a struggle and merged in the Nazi forces. President Von Hindenburg is no more than a rubber stamp of the Government. And the Government is a coalition only in name; its non-Nazi members are ciphers, and may disappear at any moment.

What is to be the next stage in this triumphant revolution? So far we have had nothing but destruction—the elimination of "Marxism," the hounding down of the Jews, the filching of the states' autonomy and the suppression of private rights. The technique has been at once simple and clever, combining terrorism with a pretense of constitutional forms, elaborate play-acting and appeals to mass emotion. The Terror has been ruthless and widespread, but it has been sufficiently concealed to deceive a great part of the nation into the belief that the outrages reported all over the world by newspaper correspondents and refugees are nothing but lies put out by Germany's enemies.

The complete control of the press, as well as of the wireless, by the Nazi dictatorship has left the ordinary citizen without any means of knowing what is going on in the Brown Houses, in the concentration camps or behind his neighbor's doors. And it has left him ignorant of, or pitiably misinformed about, the state of public opinion abroad. He sees the swift, bold strokes of Capt. Goering. He is fed day by day on Hitler's oratory, dazzled with pictures of the glorious German past and promises of a still more glorious future. It is not surprising that he—especially if he is a young student, or a small shopkeeper, an impoverished professional man, or an unemployed worker—should be fired with enthusiasm.

But enthusiasm cannot be indefinitely maintained on circuses. It needs bread; that Adolf Hitler knows. The question is whether Adolf Hitler knows how to fulfill his promise to give Germany bread. What, in plain words, is his constructive policy?

That question has been asked a thousand times, and no clear or adequate answer has yet been given to it. It was expected that his May day speech would contain a definite program. But in fact we heard little that was new, and nothing that looks like solving his economic problem. There were three prominent items—compulsory labor, public works schemes and protection of the peasantry.

The first of these appears to be mainly an experiment in social discipline. Every young German, says Hitler, whether rich or poor, high-born or low, must perform a period of manual labor service; this will demonstrate the dignity of labor, and help to destroy class prejudice and privilege. For that there is a great deal to be said, though a good many of the "high-born" young Germans may not find it altogether to their taste. But from the economic point of view, it is pointless.

Germany's most pressing trouble is not the idle rich or a contempt for honest work, but the huge army of unemployed poor and their inability to get work. And how far is that to be remedied by item two in the Hitler program? It is the duty of everyone, he declares, to create work, but the only sort of work he specifies is house repairing and building. The Government also will set going schemes of public works, including road-making. With these projects in themselves, again, we have no quarrel. But they are likely to cost a mint of money, which in present circumstances it may be difficult to find—even with, or perhaps because of, Dr. Schacht at the Ministry of Finance—and they are likely to provide employment for a good many fewer people than the more innocent and optimistic of the Nazis may suppose. Adolf Hitler's "bread," indeed, will turn out to be very small crumbs.

As for item number three, it looks like worsening rather than bettering the situation. The present agricultural policy is economically fatuous. No doubt the German farmers, like farmers everywhere else, want higher prices for their corn and bacon and butter. But how much more can the German consumer stand? Already the cost of living hits him hard, and already the restriction of imports and the retaliatory measures by foreign countries have further depressed the German export trade. The motive behind this policy of cherishing the peasantry is primarily political. It is to strengthen the support of the countryside against the urban proletariat.

So far as we can judge, then, by present indications, the next stage of the revolution will be disappointment and not fulfillment. If that meant a reaction strong enough to overthrow the Fascist regime in Germany, we should heartily desire it. But there is small chance of anything of the sort, and we can only hope that the unfortunate German people will suffer less from their Renaissance than we anticipate.

The Gold Clause

Thomas F. Woodlock in Wall Street Journal.

SEVERAL cases dealing with the gold clause have been decided by the French courts in recent years. When the war broke out, a law was passed making the paper franc compulsory legal tender, and voiding all stipulations to pay in any other form so far as debtors resident in France were concerned. But the courts declared that this law did not apply to international contracts which contained a clear gold clause. They upheld this clause in the case of a French company that had floated a loan for p works in the Argentine.

On the other hand, the Court of Appeals (1926) decided that a foreign life insurance company which had written through its French agency a policy in gold francs could satisfy its obligation in paper. This decision was much criticised, but it stood.

In 1928, with the stabilization of the fra on the new basis, the law of stabilization definitely excluded from its provisions international payments with the gold clause. In 1931, the highest court required payment in old gold francs of bonds issued by a Tu ish company, and also by the City of Toki

Switzerland followed the French courts in the cause of the Turkish company. Belgian courts also have enforced the distinction between domestic and international contracts voiding the gold clause in the former (but not always) and affirming it in the latter.

In 1929, the question came before the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague, in cases against Serbia and Brazil. The court upheld the stipulation in both cases, recognizing, however, the distinction emphasized by the French courts between domestic and international contracts. The Permanent Court did not hold, as did the English court, that these contracts were simple money debts, but took the ground that the gold clause established a controlling standard of value for settlement of the contract.

In this country, the gold clause was upheld by the courts under the Legal Tender Acts. No constitutional question was raised. In one case, Phanor J. Eder points out, the court held flatly, in opposition to the English court, that "a contract to pay a certain sum in gold and silver coin is in substance and legal effect a contract to deliver a certain weight of gold and silver of a certain fineness to be ascertained by the court." It held that damages for non-performance could be recovered, payable in lawful money.

This is now to be changed. Assuming that Congress legislates as the administration desires by declaring void all "gold cla now existing, forbidding the making of such contracts in the future and investing all existing forms of money with full "legal tender" power, this country will have placed itself in a position similar to that of France.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, June 4.

SENTIMENT is crystallizing behind the scenes in the Senate for a sweeping probe of the Mellons—Andrew W., former Secretary of the Treasury, Richard B., his brother, and the numerous and mighty corporations they control. The idea is to have the Senate Banking Committee, through Ferdinand Pecora, its chief counsel, make the same kind of examination of the Mellons' economic and financial empire as he did of Morgan's.

Attorney-General Homer Cummings is now making an investigation of the Mellons' income tax returns, and Senator McKellar of Tennessee has called on the Treasury for all information concerning the Mellons' tax affairs. These moves are considered by Senate Progressives mere surface scratchings. They are preparing a resolution empowering the Senate Banking Committee to act.

Loyalty

HERE is the inside story of what took place between Roosevelt and his Secretary of the Treasury on the presidential yacht just after the disclosure of Woodin's name as a "close friend" of Morgan.

Woodin, an old friend of his chief, always loyal, many times coming to his assistance in the past, said he was prepared to resign. He felt he had outlived his usefulness, but added that he did not want to go while under fire—unless F. D. R. wanted him to.

To this Roosevelt voiced an emphatic "No." He commended Woodin on his self-sacrifice and loyalty, assured him of his confidence, and told him to choose his own time for retiring.

Returning from the cruise, Woodin looked tired and shaken. Talking to a friend, he said: "I'll be glad to step out. It will be a great relief. Here I am working 20 out of 24 hours a day, and on the spot for something that happened years before I dreamed of holding public office.

"I didn't want to come down here in the first place," continued the weary Secretary of the Treasury. "I'm not a banker. I'm a salesman. Of course, I had dealings with the Morgans. I did business with them and they did business with me. Nothing wrong with that.

"When the President said he needed me, I accepted. But why should I work 20 out of 24 hours each day and then be put on the spot in addition? All this is taking years out of my life that I could spend in far pleasanter ways."

Child Labor

Child labor opponents are excitedly hugging a great secret to their breasts. For 16 years they have been fighting unavailingly to obtain ratification by the states of an amendment to the Constitution outlawing the employment of children. Now the way is open for them to put through their great reform without going through the tedious, labored process of amending the Constitution. Under the provisions of the administration's industrial control-public works bill the President is empowered to fix conditions of labor. He can thus prohibit child employment.

The child labor amendment has been ratified so far by only 12 states. Representative Paul Kvale, youthful Minnesota Farmer-Laborite, is seeking administration backing of a proposal of his that Congress can pass a new law outlawing child labor. Kvale contends that the United States Supreme Court as now constituted would hold the act valid. . . . The last time the issue was before the tribunal the law was rejected by a 5 to 4 vote.

On the Spot

FAR less spectacular than the Senate's investigation, but infinitely more pertinent to the future of J. P. Morgan & Co. is a provision in the Glass banking bill putting a crucial decision up to every banking firm. Under the proposed law it must decide whether to become a bank or an investment house. It cannot continue to work both sides of the street as at present.

If Morgan and his partners decide on the first, then they become subject to Federal examination and regulation. If the second, then the firm must furnish the Federal Trade Commission complete details on its financing, including commissions received, purpose of loans, prices at which stocks are bought and to whom sold. The Morgans would have a year in which to make their choice.

Note: Author of this momentous clause in the Glass bill is Winthrop W. Aldrich, head of the Chase National Bank, a Rockefeller institution that is waging a bitter financial war with the Morgans.

Merry-Go-Round

F. D. R. is looking out for Lame Ducks. . . . Herbert J. Drane, appointed to the Federal Power Commission, is a 71-year-old ex-Representative from Florida. . . . Drane was defeated for re-election last year largely because of his dry stand. . . . Edwin L. Davis, new member of the Federal Trade Commission, is a lame duck from Tennessee, and brother of Norman Davis, American representative to the Geneva disarmament conference.

A total of 1269 applications for farm loans were received by the Farm Credit Administration in the first two days of its operation. . . . The first loan, made exactly five days after President Roosevelt signed the farm mortgage act, was granted to Elijah Purvines, of Sangamon County, Illinois. . . . This is the county where Abraham Lincoln was reared.

The restaurant of the House of Representatives, located on the ground floor of the Capitol, sells beer, but that of the Senate does not. . . . The Library of Congress has a law book branch in the Capitol directly under the Supreme Court. . . . The department is for the convenience of members of the court and attorneys appearing before it. . . . Secretary of the Interior Ickes' hobby is gardening.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MRS. JOHN FOSTER SYMES of Denver, Colo., is spending a few days in St. Louis and is a guest at the Park Plaza. Mrs. Symes, who was Miss Florence Wade, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Festus J. Wade of St. Louis, will depart tomorrow for the East to join Judge Symes' daughter, who attends an Eastern school. Later they will join Judge Symes in Chicago to attend the Century of Progress Exposition before returning to Denver.

St. Louisans who annually spent the summer at their cottages in Charlevoix, Mich., are preparing to go North within the next few weeks. Mrs. Edward N. Beach, 4618 Westminster place, and Mrs. John Wallace Fristoe, 18 Washington terrace, will depart Thursday on the first through train, and will open their cottages. Mrs. Fristoe will be joined about July 15 by her daughter, Mrs. George Graham Titzell Jr., and her baby.

Miss Elizabeth Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Vernon Clark, 5234 Westminster place, will leave St. Louis next week to open her family's summer home. Mr. and Mrs. Clark will go North the last of this month, and will have with them at various times their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stifel, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vernon Clark Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Oscar Lamy of Forest Ridge have changed their plans for going to California and have leased the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ferguson in Charlevoix. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson have rented their home at 6232 McPherson avenue and will spend a few days at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. They will make their future home in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. William N. Bemis and their family, who have been in Prescott, Ark., for several years, are now at their home in Gulfport, Miss. They will probably not occupy their Charlevoix cottage this year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Cowan have leased their home at 455 Algonquin place, Webster Groves, and with their daughters, Miss Quinette and Miss Mary B. Cowan, have taken possession of an apartment in the Daniel Boone.

Mrs. Martin F. Engman, 11 Princeton avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank von Brecht of Forest Ridge, have opened their summer homes at Everett's Resort, Eagle River, Wis., for the season. Mrs. Engman is expected home in a few days, and will depart July 1 to spend the remainder of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. von Brecht recently returned from Miami, Fla., where they were for the winter.

'Bitter Sweet' Opens Season Of Municipal Opera Tonight

The fifteenth season of Municipal Opera will open at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park at 8:15 o'clock tonight with the Noel Coward operetta "Bitter Sweet."

"Bitter Sweet," which is being shown for the first time in St. Louis, will have seven performances and will be followed next Monday night by "Florodora." Ten other productions will complete the season.

Making her operetta debut tonight is Marion Claire, former leading soprano with the Chicago Civic Opera and grand opera companies abroad. Other principals are Allan Jones, Leonard Ceeley and Doris Patston, who have appeared here previously, and Hannah Toback, former prima donna in several Morris Gest musical productions.

Capacity Audience Likely.

A capacity audience of about 9500 is expected for the opening, advance reservations for the season having been the heaviest in the opera's history. Attending the performance will be Mayor Dickmann and more than 600 guarantors who have underwritten any loss on the season to the extent of $87,000.

Impressive stage settings and costumes have been designed to provide a proper background for "Bitter Sweet," the story of which centers about life in fashionable London and Vienna in the last half century.

The operetta has more than 40 speaking roles. Minor parts will be taken by Joseph Macaulay, Charles Lawrence, Helen Arnold, Elizabeth Crandall, Henry Rabke and Ethel Barrymore Colt, all making their debuts at the Municipal Theater, and Mary Ruth Rathell, Frank Horn, Victor Casmore and Charles Chesney, who have been in productions in former seasons. Nick Long Jr., Rosemark Deering, Tom and Ray Romaine and Marie Starner are principal dancers.

The chorus of 84 has been termed by J. J. Shubert, general productions manager of the opera, the best he has seen in his professional career. The orchestra of 50 is made up largely from the ranks of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Others to Join Cast.

Casts later in the season will include Ilse Marvenga, Nancy McCord, John Barclay, George Hassell, Clifford Newdahl, Jack Sheehan, Hope Emerson and Larry Rich.

Of the remaining productions, eight are new to Municipal Opera and three are revivals. The new ones include three world premieres, "Rip Van Winkle," "Beau Brummel," and "Where the Lark Sings."

Various improvements have been made in the theater itself this year, among them alterations in sound amplifying equipment to better acoustic properties.

The usual arrangements for special transportation to the theater have been made by the Public Service Co. and Peoples Motor Bus Co. The street car company will transfer passengers to special opera busses on DeBaliviere avenue or on Kingshighway, starting at Southwest avenue. The People's Motor Bus Co. will operate direct busses to the opera, to which passengers on other lines may transfer.

The ticket price schedule is the same as in previous years, $2 for box seats, $1.50, $1, 50 cents and 25 cents for seats in the body of the auditorium. Free seats in the back part of the amphitheater are also provided.

REPRODUCTION OF PERSIAN FRESCOES ON EXHIBITION

An exhibition of 50 reproductions of seventeenth century Persian frescoes by the contemporary artist, Sarkis Karchadourian, has been placed on view in the basement galleries of City Art Museum in Forest Park. The originals are on the walls of two palaces in Ispahan built by Shah Abbas the Great.

Critics have pointed to a surprising kinship between these murals and post-war French painting. Both are attempts at pure painting, expression of line, color and design, rather than naturalistic representation. The murals emphasize line and color, giving them the quality of something graceful and decorative, addressed to the eye and not to the mind.

Quotations from Omar Khayyam are aptly suggested as titles for some of the scenes. These include "Ah love, could thou and I with love conspire," "While the rose blows along the river brink," "A flask of wine, a book of verse and thou." The collection, circulated by the American Institute for Persian art and archeology, will remain at the Museum through June.

By the Associated Press.

NANTES, France, June 5.—Fourteen persons were killed and 116 injured, many seriously, in the derailment of a Paris-Nantes express train laden with excursionists on the way to Brittany for the Whitsuntide holiday.

The express was supposed to take a switch to pass the spot where another derailed train was piled up. The engineer is reported to have failed to observe the signals. Then he saw his error, suddenly reversed the engine and applied the brakes. The train left the tracks.

The engineer later admitted that he ran through four "slow" signals at high speed and also neglected to read cautionary orders.

The engineer was arrested.

FEDERAL LOANS OF $156,370,000 TO CO-OPERATIVES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Henry Morgenthau Jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration, has started a publicity policy on loans, disclosing for the first time that as of April 30 farm co-operative organizations owed the Farm Board a total of $156,370,309.

The board, which was absorbed last week by the new credit administration, made few of its commitments to co-operatives public. Its members maintained in the past that the relationship between board and borrower was confidential, resembling "the relationship of a banker to a borrower."

Since Morgenthau assumed office March 6, the aggregate loans to co-operatives have been reduced about $800,000. On Feb. 28, co-operative loans totaled $157,236,323.

Since that time advances on old and new commitments of $3,132,529 have been made, while repayments of $3,998,544 have been received.

To Publish List Monthly.

Morgenthau announced that once a month he will make the list of loans public.

The largest outstanding loan reported April 30 was that of the American Cotton Co-Operative Association of New Orleans, totaling $71,454,735. A commitment of $440,455 to this organization has been made since Feb. 28.

The second largest outstanding loan, $17,656,699, was that to the National Wool Marketing Corporation, Boston. Next in line was the loan to the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, Chicago, totaling $15,768,860. This organization also had a separate loan of $789,379, made for drouth relief.

Other Large Loans.

Other loans in excess of $1,000,000 shown in Morgenthau's report as of April 30 were:

California Grape Control Board, Ltd., San Francisco, $2,460,690; California Raisin Pool, Fresno, Cal., $1,267,257; Co-Operative Pure Milk Association, Cincinnati, $1,725,000; Dairymen's League Co-Operative Association, New York, $3,750,000; Florida Citrus Exchange, Tampa, $2,179,606.

Fruit Industries, Ltd., San Francisco, $2,934,149; Land o' Lakes Creameries, Inc., Minneapolis, $2,977,875; National Livestock Marketing Association, Chicago, $4,055,011; Staple Cotton Co-Operative Association, Greenwood, Miss., $10,958,841; Sun Maid Raisin Growers of California, Fresno, Cal., $4,484,287.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY-GENERAL DENIES JURY IRREGULARITIES

M. K. Grabowski Says Inquiry in Mine War Killings Was Conducted Satisfactorily.

By the Associated Press.

DU QUOIN, Ill., June 5.—Michael K. Grabowski, Assistant Attorney-General, denied here a statement by Claud Pearcy, president of the Progressive Miners' Union, that irregularities occurred during the recent Perry County grand jury investigation into mine war deaths.

The Progressive Union official charged some members of the May Perry County grand jury had signed a statement claiming county officials prevented the jurors from returning indictments in cases where miners had been killed or mistreated and that an investigation would be conducted.

Local authorities said Du Quoin members of the Circuit Court grand jury prolonged the sessions several additional days while attempting to get enough evidence to return an indictment against Perry County officers, particularly in connection with the deaths of James Etess and Henry Arnold, who were fatally wounded when they resisted arrest when they were sought for questioning in the death of Lavern Miller, 14-year-old daughter of a United Mine Worker.

How to REFINANCE your DEBTS

- How would you like to have your monthly burden of past due bills cut to one-twentieth of its present weight? That is possible . . . here is the Plan:
- Figure out just what you owe. Include your past due bills, your emergency need for money, your installment payments that are too heavy.
- What does the total amount to? $100, $200 or more? That amount of currency is available to married couples on the Household Loan Plan.
- For security you need not put up stocks or bonds or real estate. Your earning ability and household furniture (which remains in your possession) are good collateral on this plan, with only the signatures of husband and wife required.
- With the cash on hand, you can pay off your obligations at once. Then repay Household in small sums monthly out of income—in one, two or three or as many as twenty months.
- Businesses refinance. Governments refinance. Thousands of families refinance also on the Household Plan, finding it convenient, economical, and confidential.

PRINCE OF ASTURIAS POSTS WEDDING NOTICE

Son of Former King Alfonso to Marry Daughter of Cuban Merchant.

By the Associated Press.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 5.—The official "promise of marriage" of the Prince of the Asturias, heir-claimant to the Spanish throne, and Senorita Edelmira Sampedro, daughter of a wealthy Cuban merchant, was posted in the City Hall here today. The notice, dated June 2, will remain displayed until June 12. Any objections must be made in writing during that period.

The notice reads: "There is a promise of marriage between Don Alfonso Pio Cristino Eduardo Francisco Guillerme Carlos Enrique Eugenion Fernando Antonio Venancie de Borbon y Battenberg, bachelor of Spanish nationality, resident of Lausanne, born at Madrid May 10, 1907, and Ocejo Edelmira Ignacia Adriana Sampedro, of Cuban nationality, a resident of Lausanne, born at Sagua La Grande, Cuba, March 5, 1906."

The Prince has adopted the name of Count Cavadonga and has announced the marriage will take place shortly. He and his bride will reside at Lausanne. Senorita Sampedro's wedding gown already has arrived herself from Paris.

The romance began last year when the Prince met the girl in a sanitarium where he was under treatment for hemophilia. The treatment was largely successful. At first the girl and her mother, who both live at Lausanne, protested against the match on the ground that it might cause difficulties for the Prince. The bride's father is dead.

"I love her and want to marry her," the Prince was quoted at the time, "that's where real happiness lies and I'd like to have a little happiness in my life. Let Juan have the throne."

Don Alfonso has applied for the necessary papers of the Spanish Government as a "simple citizen." Later, it is understood, he will make a formal renunciation of his claim to the Spanish throne, which probably would go to Prince Juan Carlos, third son of Alfonso XIII. Juan Carlos is now serving as a British naval cadet.

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, June 5.—Commenting on the forthcoming wedding of the Prince of the Asturias to Senorita Elmira Sampedro, former King Alfonso's spokesman said today "the King is not happy about the marriage and will not go to the wedding."

Former King Alfonso is now in Venice. It was understood Queen Victoria, the Prince's mother, would probably attend the ceremony.

DR. MARY E. WOOLLEY HEADS CHURCH PEACE DEPARTMENT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College, has been elected chairman of the Department of International Justice and Good Will of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. The election was announced today by Dr. Albert W. Beaven, president of the council.

Dr. Woolley was an American delegate to the first session of the World Disarmament Conference. In her new post, the announcement said, she "will seek to enlist the moral support of the people of the churches in the furtherance of an active program of education in world understanding and co-operation." In a brief statement accompanying the announcement Dr. Woolley said:

"The pressing need of the hour is an intelligent and determined 'will to peace,' held by millions of men and women, and especially by the youth of every land, who will be drafted for cannon fodder the moment the next war breaks out. We must make known to our statesmen that we, the people, call on them to resist self-seeking interests. We must demand co-operation in full measure with the other nations of the world in building more adequate agencies for justice and peace and in providing drastic and general reduction of armaments."

WOODIN SAYS U. S. NEEDS MUSIC TODAY

Treasury Secretary Assails Financial Fear in Syracuse U. Commencement Address.

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 5.—America, "unafraid and invincible," needs music more now than ever, to stimulate courage, said William H. Woodin, Secretary of the Treasury, speaking at the sixty-second annual commencement at Syracuse University. Dwelling for a moment on things financial, he said:

"Fear, far more than any other thing, has been responsible for the failure of financial institutions. Fear spreads like forest fire and many of the runs on banks have been wholly unwarranted and are entirely results of fear, the father and mother of panic. When a man draws his account from the bank and sticks it in a safety deposit box or an old teapot for security, he does so because of fear; and buried money will not come out of hiding until full faith in the future is restored and the destructive hysteria of fear is turned into confidence."

Some other highlights of the address:

"Precisely as a small boy whistles instinctively to keep up his courage, so are we all crying for something to bring about confidence and to displace the absurd hysteria of fear which in the last few years has made men and women avoid great human responsibilities which these dynamic times demand."

"Vibrations of fine music put mysterious initiative, resolution and courage into the normal individual."

On his arrival, Woodin was asked about rumors that he might resign.

"I don't mind that a bit," he said. "I'm used to being asked that, but I have no statement to make, particularly today." Later he amplified this. "As I was leaving the President's room—he knew I was coming up here—he said: 'Will, you can tell them for me that when I get myself in trouble, I always whistle a tune.'

"Isn't the harmony of the spheres more audible now than it was a year ago?" he was asked. "Some harmony is, but don't try to take me out of my sphere for the day."

Woodin received the honorary degree of doctor of music. Others receiving honorary degrees included: Walter Hampden, Shakespearean actor, doctor of letters; Charles S. Skilton, University of Kansas, doctor of music; F. Trubee Davison, president of the American Museum of Natural History, doctor of laws.

The citation accompanying the degree received by Woodin hailed him as "a genuine lover of the fine arts, a generous patron of music and musicians; above all, a composer, whose compositions for violin, voice and orchestra have many times been put to the test of public performance, winning not only the approval of the great public, * * * but generally recognized by professional musicians as worthy of high merit, having peculiar charm and beauty * * * whose contributions to music have received notable recognition and have already found a place on the programs of the philharmonic orchestras of Berlin and Vienna, as well as the Manhattan Symphony Orchestra in New York."

MAN HELD FOR BEATING HEIRESS IN RENO HOTEL

Former New York Restaurant Owner Is Accused by Divorce-Seeker.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., June 5.—Eugene A. Bowen, former New York restaurant owner, is held in the city jail here on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Miriam V. Hostetter Young, Pittsburgh social leader and heiress to the Hostetter patent medicine fortune.

Police said the attack occurred at an exclusive hotel here several days ago. J. M. Kirkley, Chief of Police, said Mrs. Young was "covered with black and blue marks."

Mrs. Young came here about April 1 and established residence with the announced intention of seeking a divorce from Charles Fuller Young of Pittsburgh. Bowen a week ago announced they were to be married, but Mrs. Young issued a denial.

The alleged beating was administered soon afterward, Chief Kirkley said.

Bowen was jailed in default of $250 bail.

Chief Kirkley said he was investigating the disappearance of jewels, later recovered, valued by Mrs. Young at $20,000. Kirkley said Bowen intrusted the jewels to a bartender for safe keeping and that the jewels disappeared. They were later recovered, the Chief said, and are in a safe at the police station.

HOME-MADE ALARM WORKS BUT THIEF GETS SPARE TIRE

Ralph Lucas Fires Six Times With Shotgun, But Fails to Stop Man.

A home-made alarm aroused Ralph Lucas, 2140 Cushing street, early yesterday, and informed him that someone was tampering with the spare tire of his automobile, parked in front of the house.

Lucas ran to the door with a shotgun and fired six times as the thief drove away, taking with him the spare tire. The alarm had been set off by a wire leading from the tire to a buzzer in the house.

BURGLARS BREAK THROUGH 6-INCH WALL, ROB SAFE

Thieves Smash Hole in Tile Partition in Shoe Store Basement and Make Away With $1000.

A safe at the Levy Shoe Co., 5959 Easton avenue was robbed of $1000 early yesterday by burglars who broke through a six-inch tile partition to enter the store.

The theft was discovered at 11:15 o'clock yesterday morning by Turner Basye, a clerk, who went to the store on business. The burglars had entered a vacant building at 5957 Easton avenue and had knocked a hole in the tile wall separating the basement of that building with the basement of the shoe store. The burglars broke a lock on the elevator in the shoe store and went to the first floor that way.

The combination was hammered off the safe and a bag, box and envelopes containing the money stolen. Police found a knotted 100-foot length of sash cord in the basement which they said indicated the burglars had planned to enter through the roof. Two pairs of baby's shoes taken from the store were also found. Harry Harris, manager of the store, said he closed it at 11:30 p. m. Saturday.

$900 Worth of Jewelry Stolen From House by Burglars.

The home of Harold Kopman, 4660 Wilcox avenue, was entered last night by burglars who stole $900 worth of jewelry and a suit of clothes.

Jewelry and clothing valued at $950, a revolver and pistol and $150 in cash were stolen from the home of Louis J. Gruensfelder, 2733 Dodier street, Saturday.

Mrs. Edna M. Reuter, proprietor of a drug store at 4100W Lee avenue, a clerk and a customer were held up last night by two men, one of whom was armed. Forcing Mrs. Reuter and the customer, Mrs. Ella Bauman, who lives above the store, into the back room, the robbers ordered the clerk, Harold Huming, to open the safe. Taking $70 from the safe and cash registers and Mrs. Bauman's purse, containing $12, the robbers ran out and escaped.

When Frank Huber, 3426 Blair avenue, and Michael Chanitz, 4252 North Twenty-first street, were held up by two Negroes in the 4200W block of Easton avenue Saturday night, Chanitz ran and escaped. Huber was robbed of $2 and a watch and was struck in the face by the robbers. No weapons were displayed but the robbers indicated they were armed.

Joseph McManemy, 1332 Franklin avenue, and Miss May Ealey, 1512 Carr street, were standing outside a restaurant at 1521 Wash street early yesterday when a Negro snatched her purse, containing $1 and articles valued at $27. McManemy grabbed the Negro, who hit him in the face and escaped. A suspect was later arrested. McManemy and Miss Ealey said he resembled the thief.

SUIT AGAINST ARCHIE LOUD FOR DETECTIVE WORK DROPPED

Attorney for Agency Says Settlement Was Made Out of Court; Amount Not Disclosed.

The suit for $1499.88 filed last Wednesday against Archie Loud, wealthy former St. Louisan, by a private detective agency hired to spy on Loud's second wife, was dismissed in Circuit Court at Clayton today on motion of counsel for the A. A. Ahner Detective Agency.

Charles H. Spoehrer, attorney for the Ahner agency, told Judge Mulloy that a settlement had been reached with Loud at Santa Monica, Cal. Spoehrer did not give the amount of the settlement, and refused to answer questions of reporters.

The petition contained a 20-page statement of alleged services, including the use of a dictograph and movie cameras, in obtaining evidence in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against Loud by John Bratek, a sandwich shop employe, whose divorced wife, Wilma, married Loud in 1931 six weeks after the first Mrs. Loud shot and killed herself. The agency received $1500 on account last September, but had been unsuccessful in collecting the balance due for its services, according to the suit.

JUDGE PROMOTED

JUDGE LOUIS FITZHENRY.

On U. S. Canadian Commission.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—President Roosevelt today appointed Eugene Lorton of Tulsa, Ok., as a member of the International Joint Commission of the United States and Canada, succeeding the late Porter J. McCumber.

FITZHENRY'S CAREER ON FEDERAL BENCH

Judge Named to Court of Appeals Has Handled Many Important Cases.

Federal Judge Louis FitzHenry, who has been nominated by President Roosevelt for the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago, has presided in many important civil and criminal cases since his appointment to the Federal bench by President Wilson in 1918.

Among the criminal cases that crystallized attention on his court were the conviction of the Egan and Shelton gangs for mail robbery. He sentenced the Egan gangsters to 25 years in the penitentiary in 1925, and they are still there. The Sheltons also were convicted, but won a new trial, and the indictment against them is still pending.

Harry Murdock, Madison County gambler, was also before Judge FitzHenry on an income tax indictment, for refusing to answer questions of income tax examiners. Judge FitzHenry upheld Murdock in order to get the case before the Supreme Court on appeal of the Government. The Supreme Court sustained Murdock.

Judge FitzHenry, who is 63 years old, was born in Bloomington, where he resides. He attended Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, and has been a lifelong Democrat. He was a member of the sixty-third Congress and served as City Attorney of Bloomington. His district as Federal Judge embraced the southern district of Illinois. He held court at Bloomington, Springfield and Quincy.

LOW PRICE CARS VS. CHEAP CARS

We do not build a low-price car: the cost to us of building our car is pretty high.

But we do sell a high quality car at a low price.

Almost every new Ford V-8 car we have built so far this year, has cost more to manufacture than its selling price was. As you buy them at only $490 to $610, we have to depend on increasing volume to make up the difference.

The reason for this is simple: — a manufacturer who gives good value must expect to lose money on the first cars he sells because he cannot charge all his costs to the people who are first to buy.

But with the purchaser it is different — he cannot afford to lose anything on a car. It must give him full value from the first, and keep on giving him full value for years.

Two things make possible our combination of low prices and high cost quality:

1. Volume Production
2. Taking only one profit

First, we set our price at what would be fair to the public on the basis of economies we enjoy in volume production. Then, in order to justify and maintain our low price we must get volume sales.

Thus it comes that a car which is really high-cost to make, is also low-cost to buy.

There is a difference between a cheap car and a low-priced high quality car.

Ford prices are always fixed at a point which makes it profitable for a customer to buy.

Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one.

It pays us to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Raw sugar was quiet early today but the tone was steady. No sales were reported and spot prices were unchanged at 3.45 for duty frees.

Futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower under liquidation and selling by commission houses, promoted by inactivity in the spot market, but a steadier tone developed and the early setback was nearly recovered. The market at midday was net unchanged. With expectations of favorable developments at Washington in regard to the general sugar situation, either through an allotment plan or a change in the Cuban preferential duty, there was little pressure to sell.

In refined prices were unchanged at 4.56 for fine granulated, though some Western refiners were quoting 4.60. A little better inquiry was reported in local circles at the former price.

Sugar futures closed steady, 1 higher to 2 lower. Sales, 13,300 tons. July 1.53, Sept. 1.56, Dec. 1.62@1.63, Jan. 1.64, March 1.67b, May 1.72b.

WHEAT CLOSES STRONG ON CHICAGO BOARD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Crop damage talk regarding Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma hoisted wheat prices late today.

Temperatures as high as 110 were reported in Kansas. Forecasts pointed to no relief, and wheat harvesting is now expected to become general much earlier than was looked for.

Wheat closed strong, 1@1¼ above Saturday's finish, corn ½@⅝c up, oats ½@⅝c advanced, and provisions varying from 15 cents decline to 10 cents gain.

Helped by notice of arrangement to finance sales of $10,000,000 of United States wheat to China, wheat values turned upward today after a wavering start.

High temperatures in domestic winter wheat territory Southwest tended also to lift prices. Opening unchanged to ⅜c lower, wheat afterward rose all around. Corn started at ¼@⅜c decline and then rallied somewhat.

Augmented pressure to sell wheat developed on price bulges, and the market underwent setbacks of more than a cent a bushel. Continued uneasiness was shown as to recent ticker advices from Washington that price jumps were interfering with administration of farm relief plans. Declines that ensued carried the market to sharply below Saturday's finish.

Professional speculators were conspicuous in turning to the selling side of the wheat market. Report that crop conditions in the spring wheat regions northwest were good, and that even late planted crops were progressing rapidly, did much to handicap friends of higher prices. Big receipts of corn in Chicago, 509 cars today against 377 a week ago and 53 at this time last year, had a bearish effect on corn and oats.

Refinery for Texas City.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Plans for the erection of a 25,000 barrel refinery at Texas City, Tex., were announced by the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co.

Decision to build at this location followed deliberations by the management extending over the last several months.

Announcement of the company's plans was made by Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, the parent company. He said that a tract of 257 acres at Texas City, which the Pan-American company bought in 1930, was found suitable for the purpose in view. Some earlier reports said the company was also considering Houston as a site for the refinery.

"The new refinery will have a capacity of approximately 25,000 barrels a day," said Seubert in his statement, "and will be used as a base of supplies for Pan-American's business in the East and South.

"Construction is expected to start shortly and be completed within a year. The refinery will eventually employ about 200."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The stock market surged forward again today, following profit-taking irregularities in the wake of Saturday's reaction, and gains of 1 to 4 or more points were recorded by many recent favorites. Trading volume expanded noticeably on the rally and the ticker tape was several minutes behind in the last hour. The close was strong. Approximately 5,000,000 shares changed hands.

Reactionary talk was plentiful throughout brokerage houses in the early hours but, after dipping moderately, the various categories swung upward under large supporting orders. Several specialties, including the alcohol group, exhibited strength throughout. Rails lagged until the last hour when they jumped into the lead after the House had passed the emergency carrier bill. Grains, rather heavy at the start, also came back for a firm finish.

Allied Chemical, Western Union and Homestake Mining registered gains of around 6 points each. Railroad leaders with advances of 1 to around 3 points included Santa Fe, Delaware & Hudson, Union Pacific and New York Central. Among so-called "wet" stocks up 1 to more than 3 were National Distillers, Industrial Alcohol, Crown Cork, American Commercial Alcohol and Liquid Carbonic. Gains of 1 to about 4 were shown by Case, International Harvester, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, American Can, Liggett & Myers B, Consolidated Cigar, du Pont, United Fruit, United Aircraft, Columbia Carbon, U. S. Steel and Celanese.

Both wheat and corn were under some pressure until reports of crop damage in the former caused prices to reveres their trend. Wheat closed 1 to 1¼ cents a bushel higher, while corn, apparently in sympathy with wheat, moved up ½ to ⅝ of a cent a bushel above Saturday's closing quotations. Cotton, indifferent in the early hours, finally showed gains of $1 to $1.25 a bale. Bar silver, however, eased ⅜ of a cent to 34¾ cents an ounce.

The American dollar displayed mild improvement in foreign exchange markets, although trading was generally quiet. The British pound sterling eased ½ of a cent to a cable rate of $4.00½, the French franc was off fractionally to 4.67 cents and Dutch guilders sagged 1-20 of a cent to 47.70 cents. Swiss francs sagged 1-10 of a cent and the Scandinavians were moderately lower. The Japanese yen edged up ⅛ of a cent to 24.82 cents, a new high for the year.

The News of the Day.

News from Washington that the Democratic members of the Senate Finance Committee would move immediately to restore the license fee provision of the industry control bill, which was removed last Friday, was about in line with expectancy. It is realized that the bill is now the main obstacle to early adjournment of Congress.

The New York Cotton Exchange service reported world consumption of all kinds of cotton during April totaled 2,047,000 bales compared with 1,932,000 bales in the same month of 1932. During nine months of this season, from August 1 through April 30, the world consumed 18,204,000 bales against 17,603,000 bales in the corresponding portion of last season.

Over Week-End News.

News that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had extended a $50,000,000 credit to China for purchase of American cotton and wheat in the open market also attracted attention. This was considered a practical step in the administration's effort to improve the agricultural situation.

Steel operations spurted four points last week to 47 per cent of capacity, according to the trade review "Steel," which added that practically all the railroads had recently submitted inquiries for materials.

STEEL OUTPUT SHOWS FURTHER INCREASE

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, June 5.—The nation's iron and steel leaders were reported by the magazine Steel today to be discussing in Washington a proposed wage increase of 10 to 15 per cent in connection with the pending national recovery act.

Many groups of the iron, steel and metal-working industry, the magazine said, are studying trade practice codes and price and cost data and "weighing the unofficial proposals of the Government in regard to hours and wages to be stipulated in the codes."

"Although his appointment as industry co-ordinator has not been announced," an article in the magazine said, "Gen. Hugh S. Johnson is working quietly with the leaders of important industries on provisions of the bill.

"In the steel industry, common labor has been averaging about 28 hours per week, and receiving a minimum of $10, or 36 cents per hour. It is understood that Gen. Johnson first proposed a schedule of four eight-hour days per week with a minimum wage of $15, or about 47 cents an hour.

"Upon realization that this sharp advance might not be accomplished in one step, the goal is understood to have been revised to around 40 cents per hour. As a result of these conversations, the proposed wage increase is now being discussed in terms of 10 to 15 per cent."

In its regular review of conditions, the magazine said steel-works operations last week pushed up 4 points to 47 per cent, which, considering the fact that some capacity is always out for repairs, is equivalent to 50 per cent of practical capacity.

"The unparalleled expansion in steel production in May, from 33 per cent at the beginning of the month to 47 per cent in the first week of June, is substantiated by an extraordinary rise in pig iron production for May."

"Daily output increased 40.7 per cent to 29,249 gross tons, and the total, 906,725 tons was the highest since march, 1932.

"Actual advances in the past week include $4 a ton on spot ferromanganese; $2 to $5 per thousand for refractory brick; 8 per cent increases on nuts and bolts; and 5 per cent on boiler tubes and wire rope.

"Additional support for the markets has originated with the railroads. The Chicago Great Western has purchased 500 steel boxcars, requiring 25,000 tons of steel . . .; Seaboard Airlines is taking bids on 11,000 tons of rails; and Norfolk & Western on track fastenings commensurate with its recent inquiry for 10,000 tons of rails; New York Central has placed 7000 tons of rails; and Canadian Government 50,000 tons with Dominion mills."

The magazine noted that railroads were beginning to show renewed interest in bridge works; and that Lake Superior iron ore shipments for May accompanied the climb in pig iron.

"Starting the season," the Review said, "with 85,210 tons in April, ore producers moved 900,534 tons in May, more than eight times the volume for the month last year. Despite excessive stocks at lower lake ports and furnaces, revised estimates for shipments this season have risen to 10,000,000 tons."

COTTON CLOSES $1 A BALE HIGHER AT NEW YORK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Fluctuations in the cotton market were rather irregular today with traders aparently inclined to even-up commitments pending more definite developments on acreage reduction prospects.

After showing net losse of about 12 to 14 points during the morning, however, with July selling off to 8.87, the market steadied on continued trade buying and covering promoted by a firmer tone in the stock and wheat markets. July was selling around 9.02 in the mid-afternoon market with active months ruling about 1 to 3 points net higher.

The cotton market rallied further late in the day on active rebuying by early sellers with contracts scarce, futures closing firm, 20@25c higher. July, 9.[illegible]; October, 9.48@49; December, 9.64@[illegible]; January, 9.72; March, 9.84; May, 10.[illegible]. Spot quiet; middling, 9.30.

July opened 9.05; October 9.32; December 9.48; January 9.57; March 9.71; May 9.85.

The opening advance met further liquidation, probably brought in by the decline of Saturday and a favorable view of weather in the South. Selling was absorbed on slight setbacks, however, and the market was steady before session had gone far with July ruling around 9.04 and December 9.47, or about 4 to 6 points net higher. Some buying was reported on an impression that while Saturday's cotton conference in Washington ended without any decision on acreage reduction methods, efforts of some sort were likely to be made in that direction. There was also some bullish comment on news that arrangements had been made for a loan of $50,000,000 to China for purchase of American cotton and wheat. The Liverpool continental, Bombay and Alexandria markets were closed for the holidays.

After early demand had been supplied at about the opening prices, the market turned easier under increased liquidation and scattered selling. Failure of the bullish features noted at the opening to create more general buying may have been a disappointment to holders of contracts, while a disposition to emphasize the difficulty of securing acreage reduction in view of prevailing prices and the large percentage of the crop already planted was referred to in connection with the selling. July broke to 8.87c and December 9.28c, making net losses of about 12 to 14 points, but offerings tapered off after the reaction of about $1 a bale from early highs and the market was steadier late in the morning. At midday July was ruling around 8.93c and December 9.[illegible] or about 5 to 8 points net lower.

"Upon realization that this sharp advance might not be accomplished in one step, the goal is understood to have been revised to around 40 cents per hour. As a result of these conversations, the proposed wage increase is now being discussed in terms of 10 to 15 per cent."

In its regular review of conditions, the magazine said steel-works operations last week pushed up 4 points to 47 per cent, which, considering the fact that some capacity is always out for repairs, is equivalent to 50 per cent of practical capacity.

"The unparalleled expansion in steel production in May, from 33 per cent at the beginning of the month to 47 per cent in the first week of June, is substantiated by an extraordinary rise in pig iron production for May."

"Daily output increased 40.7 per cent to 29,249 gross tons, and the total, 906,725 tons was the highest since march, 1932.

"Actual advances in the past week include $4 a ton on spot ferromaganese; $2 to $5 per thousand for refractory brick; 8 per cent increases on nuts and bolts; and 5 per cent on boiler tubes and wire rope.

"Additional support for the markets has originated with the railroads. The Chicago Great Western has purchased 500 steel boxcars, requiring 25,000 tons of steel . . .; Seaboard Airlines is taking bids on 11,000 tons of rails; and Norfolk & Western on track fastenings commensurate with its recent inquiry for 10,000 tons of rails; New York Central has placed 7000 tons of rails; and Canadian Government 50,000 tons with Dominion mills."

The magazine noted that railroads were beginning to show renewed interest in bridge works; and that Lake Superior iron ore shipments for May accompanied the climb in pig iron.

"Starting the season," the Review said, "with 85,210 tons in April, ore producers moved 900,534 tons in May, more than eight times the volume for the month last year. Despite excessive stocks at lower lake ports and furnaces, revised estimates for shipments this season have risen to 10,000,000 tons."

COTTON CLOSES $1 A BALE HIGHER AT NEW YORK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Fluctuations in the cotton market were rather irregular today with traders aparently inclined to even-up commitments pending more definite developments on acreage reduction prospects.

After showing net losse of about 12 to 14 points during the morning, however, with July selling off to 8.87, the market steadied on continued trade buying and covering promoted by a firmer tone in the stock and wheat markets. July was selling around 9.02 in the mid-afternoon market with active months ruling about 1 to 3 points net higher.

The cotton market rallied further late in the day on active rebuying by early sellers with contracts scarce, futures closing firm, 20@25c higher. July, 9.24; October, 9.48@49; December, 9.64@65; January, 9.72; March, 9.84; May, 10.00. Spot quiet; middling, 9.30.

July opened 9.05; October 9.32; December 9.48; January 9.57; March 9.71; May 9.85.

The opening advance met further liquidation, probably brought in by the decline of Saturday and a favorable view of weather in the South. Selling was absorbed on slight setbacks, however, and the market was steady before session had gone far with July ruling around 9.04 and December 9.47, or about 4 to 6 points net higher. Some buying was reported on an impression that while Saturday's cotton conference in Washington ended without any decision in acreage reduction methods, efforts of some sort were likely to be made in that direction. There was also some bullish comment on news that arrangements had been made for a loan of $50,000,000 to China for purchase of American cotton and wheat. The Liverpool continental, Bombay and Alexandria markets were closed for the holidays.

After early demand had been supplied at about the opening prices, the market turned easier under increased liquidation and scattered selling. Failure of the bullish features noted at the opening to create more general buying may have been a disappointment to holders of contracts, while a disposition to emphasize the difficulty of securing acreage reduction in view of prevailing prices and the large percentage of the crop already planted was referred to in connection with the selling. July broke to 8.87c and December to 9.28c, making net losses of about 12 to 14 points, but offerings tapered off after the reaction of about $1 a bale from early highs and the market was steady late in the morning. At midday July was ruling around 8.93c and December 9.35c or about 5 to 8 points net lower.

FARM YOUTH CAUGHT AFTER WOMAN IS SHOT

By the Associated Press.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., June 5.—Garland Phillips, 21-year-old farm youth sought by posses since Mrs. Eugene Stewart, 50, was shot to death Thursday night in the driveway of her home northeast of Leeton, was captured yesterday in a deserted house a mile from the scene of the slaying.

Three youths surprised Phillips, bound him with ropes and took him by motor car to the Johnson County jail here. Sheriff Perry Jones said Phillips confessed.

"I stole some fruit to eat at the Stewart house Wednesday night," the Sheriff quoted the youth. "Thursday night I went over again. The Stewarts were away. I found a flashlight and shotgun and decided to hold them up, take their car and leave the country."

The couple returned, he said, and Mrs. Stewart stepped from the car first.

"I pulled the hammer back and hollered 'hands up,'" the Sheriff said Phillips confessed. "I got excited and the gun went off."

Stewart seized the shotgun and Phillips fled. He said he had been without food and water until he was captured.

TWO FUGITIVES ARE SOUGHT IN KANSAS CITY KIDNAPING

Six Other Indicted Persons Are in Custody; Four May Be Turned Loose.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.—Seeking to round up all the suspects in the kidnaping of Miss Mary McElroy, 25-year-old daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy, Kansas City police today pressed a search for George McGee, an unemployed Leavenworth (Kan.) plumber, and Clarence Stevens.

Along with six other persons, all in custody, the two were indicted Saturday by a Federal grand jury which was called to hear evidence relating to the abduction of Miss McElroy, and the payment of $30,000 for her release. Detectives said McGee and Stevens had been named as participants in confessions made by Walter H. McGee, a brother of oneof the missing men, and Clarence L. Click. Click, officers said, confessed after he had read a detailed statement by McGee, and then led officers to a creek bank south of Lacygne, Kan., where a jar containing $3190 was unearth.

The other four indicted were Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Gilbert of Fargo, Ok., and Mr. and Mrs. Windell Johnson, Oklahoma City, who were taken into custody at Amarillo, Tex., along with Walter McGee, an ex-convict. McGee's statement, police explained, absolved the Gilberts and Johnsons of any connection with the plot. R. E. Vetterli of the United States Bureau of Investigation said they probably would be released. All said they had accompanied McGee on a pleasure trip.

Two other persons have been arrested without charge. They are Abe Starr, Leavenworth (Kan.) junk dealer, who was said by police to have sold an automobile to McGee, and Mrs. Lucille Cates, former wife of McGee.

BEER RACKETEER, FRIEND OF WAXIE GORDON, SLAIN

By the Associated Press.

PATERSON, N. J., June 5.—William Oppenheim, said by police to be an independent beer distributer and known as "Big Opie" and "Roundhouse" chiefly because he weighed more than 400 pounds, was found shot to death early yesterday in the vestibule of the apartment house in which he resided.

Oppenheim shared an apartment with Meyer Rosenfelt. Questioned by police, Rosenfelt said he was with his friend in a cafe until 3 a. m. and then had gone home. The shooting was an hour later.

Police said Oppenheim was a close friend of Waxie Gordon, beer racketeer, and resided with Gordon here when Gordon first came to Paterson. Oppenheim was called as a witness by the Federal grand jury in New York, which recently indicted Gordon for failure to make proper income tax returns.

Canie and three other miners were released after questioning. The poolroom of Joe Boteno, a meeting place for Progressive union members picketing Peabody Mine No. 58 at Hewittville, was bombed about 1 a. m. for the second time. Damage was estimated at about $300.

IN spite of Europe's frantic denunciation of our gold standard abandonment, and the loud roaring of American best financial minds, gold as a monetary standard is overboard.

The Senate has voted, 48 to 20, that any kind of legal tender, approved by Government, may hereafter be used to settle public or private debts.

Our dollar was so expensive that other nations with cheaper money could not afford to buy goods from us, and that suited Europe, which got the business, and, while owing billions to this country, drew out millions in gold from Washington.

That, thanks to President Roosevelt, has come to an end for the present. Senator Reed denounces the Senate's action as "repudiation bringing shame to America." If it be repudiation, which it is not, we can say that our dear friends abroad set the example, welching on billions of borrowed money PAYABLE IN GOLD.

Had we got the gold due us, we should now have all the gold in the world.

As for "bringing shame to Americans," that is bosh, and if abandonment of gold brings prosperity by making money more plentiful, the country will endure criticism, philosophically.

LISTEN, WORLD!

by Elsie Robinson

The High Cost of Cheapness

WHENEVER I buy a cheap dress, I'm sorry.

Not that the cheap dress isn't good, in itself. Usually it's amazingly good—pretty, smartly cut, well finished.

And, of course, it's fun to be able to get new things so easily—not to be forced to wear the same, tiresome old garment month after month, season after season, as we did once.

ELSIE ROBINSON

Yet, when I buy a cheap dress, I'm sorry. And I know that, no matter how much money I may save or how much pleasure I may receive, it's a bad bargain in the end.

FOR THAT DRESS ISN'T CHEAP TO THE GIRL WHO MAKES IT—

NOR TO THE MERCHANT WHO BUYS IT—

NOR TO THE CLERK WHO SELLS IT—

NOR TO THE NATION IN WHICH IT IS MADE.

THE CHEAPER THE DRESS, THE HIGHER IT COSTS US ALL!

Ask the cop, and the judge, and the social worker, and the man at the morgue. They know where we go from there.

They know what happens when a discouraged youngster, longing for fun and adventure, has to work at starvation wages that crush all the joy out of youth's few, fleeting years.

They know what happens when a desperate man or woman finally realizes that he or she can never hope to make the grade.

Cheap clothes. Cheap food. Cheap merchandise of every sort. We're paying a terrible price for such cheapness—and every time I buy a cheap dress I grow sick at the thought of the cost.

Then why don't I make the dress myself? I could. I made all my own clothes for many years. That was real economy—once. It isn't any more. The world has changed. I'm a public nuisance unless my own viewpoints and personal habits change with it. So—I no longer make by own dresses.

The girl who makes the cheap dress gets mighty little as it is. She'd get nothing at all if I made it myself.

THAT GIRL MUST EAT.

AND IT'S UP TO YOU AND ME TO SEE THAT SHE EATS.

IF ONLY FOR THE SAKE OF OUR OWN SELFISH SECURITY, IT'S UP TO YOU AND ME TO SEE THAT THAT GIRL EATS.

FOR IF SHE DOESN'T EAT—PRESENTLY YOU AND I WON'T EAT.

How did we, how did all the world, get this way—into this desperate depression?

That's how we got this way. By not caring whether the other fellow ate or not; by not caring what any article cost the other fellow, as long as we got it cheap.

But neither an individual, nor a nation, can prosper long living like that. You've GOT to be your "brother's keeper," whether you like the job or not; for if you don't keep him he won't keep you.

That isn't sentimental theory. That's sound, economic fact. And it's the ONLY sound economic fact. All these other financial and industrial expedients—special taxes, trick tariffs, relief appropriations, emergency public works—none of them will cure what ails us. Only a change in our own hearts will cure what ails us.

A NEW FEELING FOR THE OTHER FELLOW—

A NEW REALIZATION OF HIS PLIGHT—

THAT'S THE ONLY THING THAT WILL SAVE US.

AND WE'D BETTER GET GOING!

FOR, IF WE DON'T SAVE THE OTHER FELLOW, HE MAY PRESENTLY ARRANGE TO SAVE HIMSELF — AND THAT MAY NOT BE SO PLEASANT, FELLOW-CITIZENS!

And so I'm not only sad, but I'm also plenty scared, when I buy a cheap dress, and I see dresses getting cheaper and cheaper. For I know HOW I'D FEEL if I were the girl that made that dress. I know WHAT I'D THINK, and I've a large, fighting hunch what I'd DO. AND IT WOULD BE PLENTY!

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

1
YES OR NO
DO "SILVER THREADS AMONG THE GOLD" INDICATE THAT A WOMAN HAS REACHED THE MAXIMUM OF HER EARNING POWER?
YES OR NO

1. —The greatest philosophers have wrestled for thousands of years with this question without arriving at a simple yes or no answer. For example, a man needs a loaf of bread to keep him from starving. Shall he steal it? If I understand one who is perhaps our greatest moral philosopher, Prof. John Dewey, in his profound study, "Human Nature and Conduct," he would agree with the great philosopher, Kant, that the truly righteous man would ask, "How would I look at it. If by stealing this bread I erect stealing into a universal custom? Would I like my property to be stolen to feed hungry people in general?" I believe Prof. Dewey's answer would be that if all the consequences are considered the answer would be "No, the rights of others come before my own needs." In actual practice in such cases, however, the courts, in the words of the historian, Lecky, "allow something for the frailties of human nature."

2. —Twenty thousand women workers have just been studied with reference to this and related questions by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. This research was directed by Carola Woerishoffer and the questions prepared by Anne Hendry Morrison, both of the Department of Social Economy of Bryn Mawr. The data is now being analyzed by Mary Anderson of the U. S. Department of Labor and the preliminary findings reported in the Club's Journal, "The Independent Woman." I cite these facts to indicate the high authority of the results, which show the unexpected fact that the average earnings of women do increase up to and beyond sixty years of age. The earnings are not spectacular at any age, but ascend gradually as follows: Under twenty-five, $1015; twenty-five to forty; $1490; forty to sixty, $1880, and for women over sixty, $1925. Even in these hard times growing experience does count for women. I want to tell women readers more about this fine research next week,

HEALTH

Calcium Sources

CALCIUM is derived from food, water and from artificially prepared calcium salts.

However, the calcium, to be of value, must actually enter into the economy of the body.

To benefit the body not only must the calcium supply be adequate, but the food should be properly prepared and consumed under conditions which promote its absorption into the body.

Among our ordinary foods, milk and cheese are the best sources of calcium. Meat and fish are poor in calcium, while lentils, cauliflowers, beans, cabbage, carrots and oatmeal are only moderately good.

It is estimated that the average individual requires daily 0.7 of a gram of calcium (approximately 0.025 of an ounce). This amount is to be found in three to four glasses of milk and in half a pound of cheese.

Of the other food, in order to gain 0.7 of a gram of calcium, one would have to consume 26 pounds of meat, 15 pounds of fish, or 50 large apples, or 7½ pounds of white bread, or 11 pounds of butter, or 27 pounds of green corn or 17 pounds of rice.

Milk and cheese are, therefore, the ideal foods for calcium. Vegetables should not be cooked in large quantities of water. Considerable amounts of salts are dissolved, and unless the waters from cooked vegetables are retained and consumed the minerals are wasted.

The lack of adequate supplies of calcium does not always affect the individual in perceptible ways. Some persons may break down with evident disease conditions. Others may appear to be normal, but live and function on a level below their real potentialities, missing out on full health and long life.

Prof. Sherman raises the pertinent question whether loss of calcium by the bones in old age must be considered a normal process or whether the condition is due to a prolonged insufficiency in calcium intake, for which the body tries to compensate by abstracting calcium from the bones.

Vitamins, and particularly vitamin D, appear to influence both the absorption and the utilization of calcium. A good dietary must therefore include an adequate supply of calcium as well as of vitamin D and vitamins A, B and C.

Vitamin D can be secured in cod-liver oil or in the artificially produced vitamin D. viosterol. Vitamins A, B and C are to be found in orange juice and in tomato juice, as well, of course, as in a variety of other food elements.

A well-known authority on dietetics is of the opinion that probably each of the vitamins A, C and D bears an important relation to the metabolism of calcium and phosphorus in the development of bones and teeth.

Vitamin B plays an important role in the maintenance of intestinal tonicity (muscle tone affecting intestinal function). In this way it probably exercises a desirable influence in facilitating the absorption of calcium, as well, of course, as of other substances.

In this connection, too, it is important to bear in mind the influence of sunlight.

Vitamin D is generated in the body by the action of sun on the skin. It is ordinarily desirable, therefore, to secure a good coat of tan during the summer months.

Such a "coat" should be obtained over a prolonged period, the exposures being started gradually and for only short periods of time.

Fair skinned persons who do not tan may take vitamin D in the form of cod-liver oil or one of its substitutes. It is interesting to note that following such vitamin D treatment persons who never tanned before may obtain a good "coat."

EVERYDAY RELIGION

By THE REV. JOSEPH FORT NEWTON.

Nothing Too High.

CAPT. JOHN NOEL, in his thrilling "Story of Everest," tells of the final attempt to reach the storm-swept summit, and of the gallant death of Mallory and Irvine. Up and up into the blue they had gone, higher than men had ever gone before. Odell got a fleeting glimpse of them within 600 feet from the summit, and they were still going up.

Then he saw nothing more. What happened? Nobody knows; they never returned. Hour after hour passed until the men were two days and nights overdue, and hope was fading every hour. Suddenly the watchers saw figures on the crest of the ice cliff—Odell and his support returning to the camp. Their eyes were riveted to the top of the cliff.

At last they saw the men come out to the edge of the shelf, to give a signal. What would the signal be? Life or death? The men. placed six blankets in the form of a cross, and went away. It was the signal of death. "We tried to make it different," says Noel; "but it was plainly a cross on the snow." So ended an attack as futile as it was fine.

Man does not give up, despite defeat and disaster; he tries for the top again. Dying or achieving, he thus gives proof of the shining splendor of his soul, which accepts the challenge of the highest. As we read in the ancient book of Ecclesiasticus: "He was not moved by fear, no one brought him into subjection, nothing was too high for him."

Be it the top of Mount Everest, or the more dizzy peak of the Sermon on the Mount, we dare not admit defeat. Greece dreamed of a world of beauty and culture, Rome of a world ordered under law, Judea of a world obedient to the will of God; and Jesus of a world brotherhood serving a divine Father. In spite of set-back after set-back, man cannot desire less, nor can he abandon his high dream.

We, too, are of this daring, climbing breed—if we lose the lure of the heights we lose our souls. Not defeat, but low aim, is failure. Mallory and Irvine died heroically in mist and snow, but again today another party is assailing Everest. Man must die climbing!

Ten articles, specially selected by Doctor Newton as being the most outstanding so far published in this series, have been reprinted in an attractive booklet.

This booklet will be sent without cost to interested readers. Requests should be addressed to Dr. Joseph Fort Newton, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Bridge Teachers

I FEEL that the teaching of bridge professionally should be taken more seriously than in the past. Many people find it extremely difficult to learn anything thoroughly from the printed page; the need of human contact with a teacher has no necessary connection with their natural ability for cards. Again, many who can teach themselves quite effectively from books require the personal guidance of a teacher to enable them to apply in practice the theories they have learned by their own study. The bridge teacher is a necessity in a world which looks to bridge for so much of its relaxation and enjoyment.

HAL SIMS

Knowledge of Card Playing Is Essential.

To be an effective teacher, it is not enough to have memorized, however perfectly, the contents of a book or series of lesson sheets. Knowledge of card playing, of making the cards work for you when a latent trick has to be developed or a dangerous attack must be parried, is essential in the teaching of a game where the best theory is unavailing unless it is applied with intelligence and executed with a fair degree of card-playing technique.

The Standard Should Be High.

I have, from the start, disapproved of the growing practice of some experts with systems to sell who issue certificates almost indiscriminately to all who answer—not necessarily without help — some formal written questionnaire on points of the particular system which is to be exploited, and lay their money on the line. I feel that personal knowledge of a teacher's competence is necessary before I should take the responsibility of recommending him or her to prospective pupils. In different cities I have met teachers with a sheaf of teaching certificates who literally knew nothing abou the game, slopping two or three tricks on almost every hand they play, whether as declarers or in defense.

My Policy Is Different.

I issue master teacher certificates only to those whom I know to be proficient, from personal knowledge and after both discussing the game with them and playing with and against them. I make no charge at all for the certificate if issued. I wish to help worthy teachers in every way; I take no fees from them. I know that many will teach my system conscientiously and effectively without a certificate from me, because they cannot arrange to come to Deal and qualify in the manner described, On the other hand, those who do receive a master teacher certificate from me are ipso facto at the very top of their profession.

A Shining Example.

Teachers of the highest repute have come to Deal from near and distant cities in the last few months and after spending a few days under the coaching of Wernher, Rau and myself on the system and playing with us in duplicate games at my house and in the local clubs, those whom I consider qualified to teach have received certificates from me. In none were the ethics of the profession more splendidly represented than in Miss Nellie Robnett of St. Louis, Mo. This young lady has been teaching very successfully in St. Louis for some years. During the last few months she found a growing demand for classes on the Sims system. Past and prospective pupils were insistent on learning the methods which were proving irresistible in the national championships. Did Miss Robnett open new Sims classes and start reaping an immediate harvest from a careful study of my book? She did not. She enrolled pupils, any number of them; but she refused to start the classes until she had mastered the system at headquarters and earned a certificate. "I'll come back when I have my certificate from Mr. Sims; then we will get to work," she told them as she packed her grip and headed for the station. She spent about 10 days with us here, studying, discussing, taking notes and playing contract with us almost every waking hour. She earned and thoroughly deserves her master teacher certificate.

Newspaper Man Stuff.

It was in the Chicago American editor's office the other afternoon, and Arthur Brisbane, who has been wrecking typewriters and dictaphones for decades, was preparing his column on the World's Fair.

Victor Watson, who governs the Herald-Examiner in the same city, brought your New York correspondent upstairs to meet the most famous columnist in the world. "Oh, not now," we told Watson, "I hate it when anybody bothers me when I'm working." At least eight others in the room were babbling.

Watson, however, interrupted Mr. Brisbane, who was affable about the intrusion. "Been quoting that joke about Mefoofsky all over Detroit," he said. Naturally we liked knowing he even read our drool.

"Please," we remarked, "go back to your work. I know just what that is!"

"No, you don't," thundered the veteran editorial expert, with mock sternness, "you won't know until you've been at it for 40 years."

Add Slanguage.

Karl Kopetzky adds this aviation slanguage: To start the motor of a plane is to "wind her" or "give her the commence"... To give her the gas is to "pour the soup" . . . You are hangar-flying or bunk-flying when you talk aviation. When you land you are "slapping it down." A plane is also a "galoopie" . . . You "goose" or "burp" the throttle when you open and close it quickly. A poor landing is an "arrival" and one in which you injure a wing is a "Chinese landing." If a pilot is a good pilot he's "hot," but if he's reckless "he's living on borrowed time."

Machine-Gun Thinking.

Lou Holtz was riding to a radio rehearsal the other day with his chauffeur and as the car started downhill, the driver yelled: "Ohmigod, Lou! The brakes won't work!"

"Can't you stop it?" screamed Holtz.

"Then, for gossakes," screamed Lou, "run into something cheap."

By Way of Report.

Funny that nobody has pointed out this irony. All the people who were favored by J. P. Morgan with tips "because we were thinking of you" lost fortunes on them!

This story is being revived on the most famous banker of them all. A friend in distress met Morgan near Wall street one day. While they were ankling through Wall street, the friend in need told Morgan his troubles and asked for a loan. Morgan listened, but said nothing. After walking for several blocks, the friend glumly said: "I see you won't do anything for me—good-by."

"You've walked the whole length of Wall street with me," replied Morgan, "go into any of these places—and you'll find your credit is good."

"Dust-Ruffle" Back On Modern Dress

CHICAGO.

BACK to dust ruffles. Yes, a dust ruffle, well known to the generation of women who wore ground-trailing gowns, was seen on a frock, very much 1933, modeled at a fashion show staged by Mrs. Ford Carter, New York and Chicago stylist, at a Century of Progress exposition.

For the information of the present-day generation of short skirt wearers, a dust ruffle was an extra ruffle or band of a dark color set under the hem of a dress to save the floor-sweeping skirt from soil.

This season's dust ruffle hasn't staged a comeback on the new long evening gowns, the back fullness of which hint at trains. It was seen on a blue and white print street frock, the skirt of which on the girl modeling it lacked eight or 10 inches of touching the floor. The ruffle of navy blue taffeta, which extended about an inch longer than the frock hem, is a new idea in trimming.

Two black linen street dresses were modeled, one with a white three-quarter length belted linen coat and a wide-brimmed linen hat and the other with a white pique jacket. The showing also included a solid black linen evening dress with a white mess jacket.

In addition were shown several other linen evening dresses. One was of handkerchief linen, having a design outlined in black on a white background. The gloves and kerchief were also of the handkerchief linen print.

Martha Carr's Daily Column

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

by MARTHA CARR

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a daily reader of your column and I ask you to answer my problem. I am a widow 38 years old, with three children. My daughters are college graduates 17 and 18 years old, and are making their own way. And my little son is 13 and in the eighth grade.

They are wonderful children to me, but are not able to help me much financially. I am very lonely at times and am at a loss to know just what to do or which way to turn.

My husband deserted us a year ago and does not contribute to our support. Now, Mrs. Carr, I get all kinds of advice and am told I am foolish to sit around and pine my life away waiting for my husband to come back. What do you think? I must be true to our children and would like to make this a girls' home and could take care of several girls in my home.

I do not want charity, but I must have help.

ANXIOUS.

It seems strange now, when women are so busy in every business and in almost every profession, for a woman only 38 years old to sit around and wait for anything or anybody. You should get some kind of employment, both for your own sake and to help your children. You may not think you are prepared for special work, but you will find if you hunt for it, a good many things you could do.

You should not depend upon your children entirely if you have health and strength. Send me a self-addressed and stamped envelope and I will mail you my article on "Occupations for Women." I am sure you will find your metier.

If you wish girls to live at your house, advertise in the Want Ad column. I do not make business connections for people.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I NOTICED the other day you had an inquiry about inexpensive commercial courses for the summer months. For the benefit of your readers who may want the same information, will you give some notice to the work of the Barat Association, 4222 Minnesota avenue? Here is offered a wide range of educational courses, for both elementary and high school students, as well as religious and recreational work for children and adults. This work includes commercial studies; $1 membership fee is the only charge.

Young girls, high-school girls and women of all ages with leisure time and a desire to learn or to serve will be given a splendid opportunity at practically no cost. They can write or phone for information, or call personally and learn more about it. Many thanks for your courtesy.

(MRS.) MARY P. D.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

THIS is the second time that I have written you. Would you please print this in your column as I want to correspond with the young lady who signed herself "Just Thirty." I am inclosing what I want you to print.

F. I. N.

I do not, as I have said many times, give addresses to people with matrimonial intentions or for personal acquaintance. This is not a matrimonial bureau.

My Dear Mrs. Carr:

I SHOULD like the formula for a rose jar. I will have to get it pretty soon, in order to use the annual roses while we have them. Would you kindly tell me, how to make one?

ANNABELLE.

I have had so many inquiries for this formula that I will give it here so that everyone who wants it may clip and keep it. There are a number of ways of preparing it, which are simpler than the one I have, but this is the tried recipe which women have used for very many years. Here it is:

Rose leaves, whole, one pound; patchouly leaves, four ounces; violet flowers, four ounces; vanilla, cut fine, one-half ounce; cinnamon in a coarse powder, one-half ounce; orris root, in coarse powder, one-half ounce; cloves, in coarse powder, one-fourth ounce; oil of bergamot, one-half ounce; musk extract, one ounce.

Dry the flowers in the sun, then sprinkle with salt. Mix the oil and musk thoroughly with the powdered spices and drugs, and then put in the jar, a layer of the flower leaves and a thin layer of the spices, alternately, until the jar is almost full. Leave the jar top off, setting in a dry place for a day or two to prevent molding. Most rose jars used for a potpourri have air holes in the top, when it is not necessary to leave the top off.

If you wish to preserve the perfume of the jar longer, close it every little while, then open again.

By grinding the leaves to a powder, this might be used as a sachet.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE written to you before and wish to thank you for the splendid advice you have given.

This time is a a rather silly thing to tell to a stranger, but to me you seem as close as my grandmother. A young man who works in a drug store has caught my eye but as yet we have not been introduced. He has spoken to me just as he does to other customers, "the weather is fine," or "having a lot of rain lately."

I am a stranger in this neighborhood. I have been working here only a short time and don't know many people, but those whom I do know have made passing remarks, such as, "There is a fine young man to get acquainted with." But how? I really would like to get acquainted with him. He comes from a nice and well-situated family.

STUDENT.

If you have already spoken to this young man, possibly you could find a subject that might interest him more than the weather. He may even read the newspapers, and I am sure the weather report, when he has finished looking at it, is just the next column to something very interesting. While you take your soda, or watch him wrap your tooth brush, draw him out on other topics.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

MY husband has been out of employment for about a year and I believe that I could help matters out, if I just knew how to go about it. I have always been interested in art and drawing, having won several prizes in contests when I was a student in High School. I would like to know just how I would go about submitting my work, which happens to be paper dolls, to some paper or magazine, I feel confident that it would be accepted. Is a copyright necessary before submitting drawings for publication?

MRS. J. J. M.

Established artists and those who have individual features to offer, sometimes do have them copyrighted before offering them for publication. If you wish to do this write to the U. S. Copyright Office, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. Give them the details and they will send you information about the special requirements for copyright of your work. Ordinarily, the custom is to send two copies of your drawing or design and a small fee.

But you can only post yourself about the type of publication your work might best suit, by examining carefully as many as you can in the reading rooms of the Public Library, Thirteenth and Olive streets.

You can go through the files of newspapers from other cities and get names of those which perhaps have not a feature of this kind and send yours in to them. Or you may find one here that would use this work. You will have to submit the work to learn about this. The same about sending to magazines. The shops, toy or special card departments, might take your doll designs, also a wholesale manufacturer. The names of all these places may be looked up, locally, in the classified section of the telephone book or the department store's book shops.

Confidential Talks With Mothers and Fathers.

Experience for Baby.

If it is followed, no fond visiting relative is allowed to wake him out of a sound sleep to admire him. He is not passed around from lap to lap. He lives a life serene, regular and comfortable.

In this comparatively new realization of the value of routine and the danger of overstimulation one need of wholesome babyhood is sometimes forgotten—the need for an increasing variety of experience.

To the newborn baby virtually every experience not connected with the functioning of his own body is unpleasant.

Bit by bit he learns to respond with pleasure to the sounds, the physical contacts which at first caused him to cry. This increasing acceptances of things outside himself is the beginning of his adjustment to the strange new world.

The baby who during his waking hours lies all too undisturbed and impassivel in his crib or carriage, standing always in exactly the same spot week in, week out is being insufficiently afforded new impressions.

All sorts of little changes can make life sufficiently stimulating to a baby: Turning his crib so that he has a new view, putting within his reach, one at a time, all sorts of objects with which he can become acquainted, a piece of stiff paper that crinkles and rattles under his touch, buttons that slide on a stout securely tied string, a carrot, a wooden clothes pin, varieties of brightly colored rattles that he can pass easily from one hand to the other.

Bringing him to lie or crawl or sit in different rooms, letting him see outsiders occasionally will help, or perhaps taking him out in his carriage in a sitting position so that he can see the world as it goes by.

DESIGNS CLOTHES for COLLEGE GIRLS

—By FAY PROFILET—

HE'S the "Paul Poiret of the campus." That is what they call Robert Roedder at the Washington University School of Fine Arts and there is a good reason for it, for he earns his way through school by designing and creating frocks for women. At every sorority party his creations are seen and at a recent fashion show held by the class in costume designing this 21-year-old couturier exhibited 15 original models. There are lots of stories about ambitious young people earning their way through college through tutoring, secretarial work, taking care of children, washing dishes, selling magazines, work in the college libraries and many other activities, but Robert Roedder is remarkable in his method.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Roedder, 6224 Oakland avenue, and a junior at the Fine Arts School, winning the scholarship offered by the Tillis Foundation Fund. He has always been interested in art and changed his course from interior decorating to that of dress designing when poor health prevented any strenuous exertion. This young man specializes in formal evening gowns and likes to make elaborate costumes of rich velvets and brocades. However, in designing frocks for the sorority girls at Washington University he has made many summery dance dresses and cocktail dresses with all sorts of little capes and jackets, each one displaying some unusual and original touch. Miss Jeanne Woerheide, at whose home an interesting studio has been arranged, does the sewing for the young designer.

"Before I start a dress I consider the type of person by whom it is to be worn, her complexion and her height," he explained. "Then I consider the material that should be used and the color best suited to the individual. So far the girls have let me use my own judgment in designing their clothes because they feel confident that I will try and make a dress that is not only flattering to the wearer but one that will express her personality. Personally I like long, very formal evening gowns. And I like to create evening wraps trimmed in luxurious furs to be worn with just one special gown. While sport clothes are important to a college girl they are not as interesting to me as party dresses."

HIS ambition lies in Hollywood, where daring dress designers are being sought by motion picture producers. Worth is his favorite couturier because he does court costumes and elaborate gowns worn by royalty at state affairs.

"The costuming of the motion picture, 'Cavalcade,' is an example of perfect designing work in the movies," he said. "Every article of clothing was historically correct. I can think of nothing more intriguing than a chance of helping to work out the costumes of such a production."

He said he received no "razzing" from his fellow students because of his choice of profession. "All of them respect ideals. And even my brother, an amateur wrestler, who is of a mechanical turn of mind, has become interested in the commercial possibilities of my work."

After drawing his design and submitting it to his client, he drafts the patterns and prepares a model of muslin for the fitting. He then completes the muslin model before he even starts the dress. He insists that a supple foundation garment be worn at the fittings and with the formal gowns. Favoring the elaborate evening gowns it is natural that he is interested in jewelry. He said he liked earrings and bracelets but always advised the girls not to wear necklaces with his gowns. As they seem out of touch with his ideas for costumes.

The large studio on the third floor of the Woerheide home, was the scene of much activity and contained a colorful display of dresses, each one interesting for some reason or other. A pretty dance frock was made of crisp pale peach toned organdie, flower trimmed and youthful. The skirt, looped at intervals by flowers revealed ruffles of a delicate yellow shade. The dress was inspired by the colorings of a tea rose, the designer said. The gown worn by Miss Elizabeth Greiderer, recently chosen queen of the Art School, was on display and was a regal creation of white chiffon finely pleated and trimmed simply by bands of ivory velvet ribbon.

HE says a black velvet model is his masterpiece to date. The skirt of 20 panels is lined with taffeta and is set on in godets below the hips. The long graceful lines sweep into a short train. The gown with the exception of two narrow straps is completely backless. Shirred bands of the velvet over the shoulders flare into huge sleeves laced under the arm. An Elizabethan collar of rhinestones completes this sophisticated creation.

The first in the group of three reproduced on this page is a typical college dance frock. It is of white pique fashioned with a short jacket trimmed in red organdie flares in lieu of sleeves and trimmed with red buttons. The long skirt is slashed just below the knee. Next there is a more formal gown of gray silk crepe printed in shades of red and embroidered with silver threads. A Chinese vermillion fitted girdle marks the normal waistline. One of his loveliest frocks completes the group. It is of hyacinth blue crepe with a low square neckline banded in crystal. Double flares of blue and silver lame outline the shoulders and the back of the low decolletage. The skirt is composed of long wide pleats. This gown is the cherished possession of Miss Woerheide and is worn with heirloom jewelry consisting of cameo earrings on jade, set with pearls and a matching brooch.

In addition to designing Roedder likes sports and out-of-door life. He plays golf and tennis and swims. Between making frocks for the sorority girls, he works as an usher at the Arena, the Coliseum and the Municipal Opera.

This BEAUTY EXPERT Says:

A READER volunteers that while the spring sunshine is very good for a woman's health (men, women and children for that matter) it has a magnifying effect on the skin. She says she shuns the light because it reveals the pores in her skin which are distended.

It is true. Sunshine does reveal complexion imperfections. Under a mellow lamp light most complexions take on an alluring loveliness. Only a badly blemished skin would seem anything but flawless under the kindly influence of subdued electric lights. But in the sunshine or in very bright artificial lights blackheads and blemishes and large pores show up unflatteringly.

That, however, does not mean that women are to hide indoors during our sunny seasons. The spring sun particularly is a splendid tonic for the very skin it magnifies. It has healing and revitalizing powers. It tones up one's body just as it brings back to life withered flowers, it helps the skin to throw off impurities just as it destroys certain poisons.

What then is one to do? First, set about correcting the cause of the facial imperfections. Then will come the courage to face the sun knowing that it reveals only loveliness.

The very first step is to make sure that your diet includes plenty of vegetables and fruits and roughage and that your digestive system is kept clear. Then make sure you are getting plenty of fresh air, sleep, rest and exercise and that you are drinking your quota of water every day. The cold shower is a very excellent aid to complexion loveliness.

The next step is local treatment. Thorough cleansing is particularly important. A liquifying cleansing cream is best for this purpose. If you feel you must use soap and water, try lukewarm water, a good bland soap, thorough rinsing and drying. Then follow with the cream. Next pat briskly with an iced skin tonic. Before retiring a good astringent pore cream devised to close the pores, is very beneficial.

If there are blemishes, a good antiseptic cream should follow the tonic. And in the morning before make-up a protective lotion should be used. An ideal one is the type that has healing properties in itself and at the same time gives the skin a lovely finish, temporarily concealing the blemishes.

MEN at HER FEET

A New Serial Story

By ROB EDEN

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

THERE had to be explanations about the ring. Hard ones to make. To Carol Vicki told the truth. To the girls at the shop, she tried to make the loss of it a light matter.

"All over." Attempting to smile as if it didn't matter in the east to her whether she had the ring or not. As if her engagement ad been one of those ephemeral, fleeting episodes that come into very girl's life. As if the ring hadn't been binding anyway—just a ing, nothing more. Nothing behind it and nothing ahead.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

VICKI ARLEN proposes to spend the six months before she marries RAY LAWRENCE in pursuit of gaiety and amusement. Naturally Ray objects to her dating other men, but Vicki wins his reluctant consent. Both her brother, JOHN, and his wife, CAROL, disapprove of Vicki's shabby treatment of Ray. But SCOTT JAMESON, nephew of wealthy and eccentric MRS. RICHARDS, eagerly promotes Vicki's search for good times.

His eagerness spurs Ray's jealousy to the point where Ray begs Vicki to forsake her plan and marry him. But Vicki protests that her friendship with Scott is harmless. When GWEN FREDERICK, an operator at the beauty shop where Vicki is cashier, tells her that Ray is going out with JANICE KEABLE, Vicki is alarmed. Ray coolly admits the fact, and says he enjoys Janice's company. Vicki confesses that perhaps the arrangement is foolish. But this time Ray wants to continue it.

When Vicki proudly exhibits the jewelry wrist watch that Scott's aunt has given her, Ray implies that Scott gave it to her, and suggests that they end their engagement. Certain that he is seriously interested in Janice, Vicki tearfully returns his ring.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

She couldn't meet Gwen's eyes hen so she nodded, her head bent ver the appointment book. Gwen ighed.

"Too bad. Ray's so decent, and thought everything would come ut right. It'll be a long time before you meet anyone again like im—if you ever do. And now 'll be clear sailing for Janice eable. Nothing to stop her. She'll lide right into your place"—

She had already, Vicki thought itterly. . . .

Gwen went on.

"For there's such a thing as atching a man on the rebound. asy to do, you know, if you now how, and I think Janice will now how. A lot of marriages are ade that way—on the rebound. ome of 'em come out right and ome of 'em don't. My sister maried that way, and she hasn't reretted it yet.

"Gee, I'm sorry, Vicki. I like ou both so much—and if either you had any sense, this wouldn't ave happened. I told you months go you were skating on pretty in ice, but you didn't pay any tention to me. Thought I was king, I guess. Well, I wasn't. I new what I was talking about. hat are you going to do now?"

"Do now?"

"Yeh, without Ray. Only two aths open for you. One is to foret him, and the other is to try to et him back—that is if you care ough for him."

"I hadn't thought about it"—nother lie because Vicki had done thing else.

* * *

'NO, he's worth trying to get back, if you ask me. I wouldn't let a guy like Ray et away from me as easily as you t him get away from you. I'd ake a fight to get him back."

Vicki carefully traced through a me on the books that was already ain enough. The fingers that held e pencil were not so steady. "And he doesn't want to come back?"

"If he doesn't want to come back, at's another matter. You've only e way ahead. But you can't be re, can you?"

"I'm—sure—I gave him his ring—ecause he wanted it, Gwen." The ncil made some more elaborate acings. Was that what Gwen anted to know? Vicki felt better ter that, though. Gwen knew the uth, just as Carol knew it. And e could trust Gwen to say nothing out the truth, the same as she uld trust Carol.

"Oh," was all Gwen said for a inute or so. It was early and ere were few people in the shop.

"If that's the case, I think I'd try get him back."

"Pride? Say, darling, there's no ch a thing as pride where love is ncerned. Not for me, anyway. you think I considered my pride hen I was married to Bill Frederk? I didn't know what pride was and if I had any, it was dragging the dust, and I had forgotten all out it.

"Pride doesn't go with love, cki—not the kind of love I know. haven't any pride yet where Bill concerned. If he came back to tomorrow, I'd forget the etched year I had with him; I'd rget the divorce—and I'd go back him, and suffer all over again.

"If he'd come back, but we won't course. He never has. That's at I'd do—because I know myf through and through like a ok. Every word by heart. You ink I'm hard as stone. Everydy does because I'd got to put sort of a front to forget a lot things. But I'm not hard underath, Vicki, I'm soft as jelly. . . ."

"Lose it?" he asked, a jubilant te in his voice.

Vicki said she hadn't lost it, and ed to change the subjects. She s weary of discussions about absence of the ring.

'Give it back?"

* * *

WHY had she gone out with Scott, anyway? She hadn't wanted to especially, but when had phoned and she thought of the whole evening alone with Carol and John—John being so thoughtful and considerate, Carol trying to cheer her up — she said she might like to take a ride. Carol and John meant well, but their obvious concern didn't help any—even if they intended it to help.

"Yes, I gave it back."

"Good!" I've been waiting for this for a long time. It puts me in the running. The ring always held me back before—sort of a barrier between us that I couldn't get over. You wouldn't ever let me forget it, you remember. What's the matter?" For she was frowning.

"Well, I don't feel exactly hilarius—maybe you'd better take me home." She was tired of riding already, as she had tired of the apartment a few minutes after dinner. Even the afternoon at the shop had seemed wearisome before 6 o'clock came, busy as it had been.

"It is—" dully.

"Well, then, we can get down to business. You say you're not feeling exactly hilarious. I saw that, of course, the minute you got into the car. What you need, Vicki, is a little cheering up. How about it?"

"I'm not in the mood—"

Vicki looked at the long road ahead. Where the headlights hit the concrete it was yellow, and beyond it was black and straight. "No, and I probably won't forget him for some time—"

"Too bad you're taking it so hard, my dear. Personally, I'm delighted that you're not wearing the ring any longer—but I can't expect you to be thrilled about it yet. Want to forget him?" Scott took some of the pressure off the gas and they slowed down. "Tell me—" for she didn't answer—"do you want to forget him?"

"I don't know what I want to do. I would like to have some peace again, though." If forgetting Ray would give her peace, then she wanted to forget him. If it didn't. . . .

"Great! What about taking some lessons from me? Lessons in forgetting. A complete course with a written guarantee that at the end of a month, you'll be yourself again, and this Ray Lawrence will be out of your life."

"No, I serious. Really. I'll be a good professor—and there won't be any books. Quizzes every week and one examination at the end to see how well you've passed the course. My own idea, because I've never heard of a complete course like that. No tuition, no matriculation fees, no books to buy, and no paper for the examination because it's to be oral. Lessons to be every night starting at eight-thirty. Classroom, right here in the car, with laboratory work at Hugo's and the Golden Slipper and night clubs in general. Perhaps a theater once a week if there's a show the professor thinks you should see for the good of your soul. The course won't be hard—no lectures except to start each evening and explain the laboratory work to be done later. Nothing to remember except that you're going to have a good time—and I am, too. How does that sound?"

"It sounds good, Scott—but I'd rather not."

"Why not? I told you I'd guarantee that in a month you'd be feeling great—heart action back to normal. No blues. Blood pressure O K. We can start tonight—and we'll call the evening so far sort of a preliminary sales talk on the course. Maybe I'll copyright the course eventually."

* * *

STILL Vicki didn't respond as he wanted her to.

"Then if you don't want the whole course, what about a trial for a week—to see how you're going to like it? The professor is more than willing. However, he recommends the entire course, because without it he can't give the written guarantee."

"I'd be such rotten company, Scott—" She was weakening.

"Isn't that what the course is for? To chase away your blues? And what do I care if you are rotten company at first? I can stand it. I'm tickled to death to be with you. Of course I'm going to do my best to make you fall in love with me—but I can't do that until you're completely cured. Wouldn't attempt it in your condition. A go. Say you will, Vicki! Say you'll try!"

"Well, I'll try it for a week—" It was as good a method as any, Vicki decided. And she couldn't sit at home and mope. If she went fast enough, Ray wouldn't be so close. There wouldn't be so much time to think about him. Scott would keep her amused. Already his scheme was appealing to her.

"Fine, and I'll wager that after the first week, you'll be so delighted with the course that you'll take it for the entire month. And we'll start tonight?"

Tonight was as good a time as any. . . .

So Vicki started on Scott's "forgetting" course that evening.

"WELL, I have one case that calls for an old head," the inspector smiled at his visitor. "If I let any of my young coppers chase down the complainants in this case, we would never get anything done."

"What sort of case is it?"

"Some ingenious cuss cheated thirty or forty beauty prize contestants that took part in a national contest. As near as we can tell, he took about $30,000."

"How did he operate?" the visitor asked.

"The first thing he did was to take the name of a famous movie director who is now living abroad. Then he would call on the contestant and tell her that in his opinion she should have won the first prize. There is not a case on record where she disagreed with him. Then he would inform her that he was acting for the moving picture companies who had retained him to dig up new talent. He was a very plausible gentleman and the big names in the industry dripped familiarly from his tongue. Pickford and Fairbanks were his old pals, Doug and Mary, to hear him tell it. From then on it was easy. The family usually dug down and handed him their money and began looking at Rolls-Royces and quarreling about the advantages of Paris over London."

The inspector shook his head. "Twenty years of catching crooks and every day I find new examples of people's credulity to marvel at. Those people could have checked up for the price of a postage stamp."

Former Queen Favors Navy Blue

Former Queen Victoria of Spain is included in the host of fashionable Parisian women who are wearing navy blue this season. With a dark blue sports suit she wears a blue wool sports coat which has a collar of white pique and a narrow belt fastened with a steel buckle. Her hat is in the same dark shade.

The fruit cup should never be sweetened heavily when it is served as an appetizer, as sugar is absorbed quickly by the system and is wont to blunt the appetite.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 2.

Miss Landi, whose career in films has been a series of great expectations, seldom realized until recently, has taken French leave of her studio and gone to points east, New York among them, to be away a month or more.

Just before the breach, the star was being acclaimed as "a new Landi," entirely different from the personality she showed in her earlier performances. This was after she appeared as an Amazon leader in "The Warrior's Husband," and while she was co-starring with Warner Baxter in "I Loved You Wednesday."

* * *

DURING the latter production she was quoted in such cheerful statements as: "I've been all wrong and Hollywood's been all wrong about me these many months. I'm not the cold, distant girl who has placed herself upon a pedestal of ice that people in the film colony have imagined. On the other hand, I've discovered that Hollywood is not cheap and tawdry, as I imagined it would be when I first came here, an impression that I never took the trouble before to prove to myself was false."

The next we hear Elissa is gone—another rebel-against-a-role in a long list which has included Janet Gaynor, George Raft, Aline MacMahon, Miriam Hopkins, Marlene Dietrich and Carole Lombard. Miss Landi's dissatisfaction is attributed to an assignment for a new picture.

* * *

ALL of these others, incidentally, managed to patch their differences with their respective studios, and in only two cases did the companies bring legal action against the recalcitrant star.

Paramount's suit against Marlene Dietrich and Josef von Sternberg was forgotten when the two returned to work, and Warner Bros. recently dropped their court plea against Aline MacMahon, who refused to play in a scene she considered objectionable. Miss MacMahon and the studio are at peace again.

Tea Gown Fashioned of Printed Crepe

Smart Dresses Trimmed With Four Leaf Clovers

Four leaf clovers are used as a trimming accent on some of the smartest frocks. One Paris designer trims a black satin evening gown with a big diamante four leaf clover on the left side of the corsage. Another clamps little green crystal four leaf clovers to the lapels of linen sports suits.

THERE'S no stopping the craze for initials. Where do you think the girls are putting them now? On their bathing suits, to be sure. Three interlocking script initials are the choice, but monograms are permitted under strict fashion rules. These initials are embroidered in the same shade as the trimming of the suit and usually placed at one side of the little short skirt. Since embroidery doesn't jibe with rubber, the devottes of the new rubber suits will have to seek some means of having their initials stamped on.

* * *

Flower pots have emerged from their humdrum existence and taken on new colors. For a long time most of the pots for use in the popular branch flower stands were green, orange or white. Now we see them in many colors. Sky blue pots with silver stars are among the most interesting. They are suggested for a large screened porch which is used as much in the evening as it is by day.

* * *

You don't have to be an heiress any more to wear the impressive horsey jewelry with horses' and dogs' heads embedded in crystal. The jewelers are giving the less-rich horsewoman a break and featuring pins, cuff links and all the other little gadgets that look like a million dollars without costing very much. Crystal on mother of pearl is responsible for this new economy in price without sacrificing appearance. The heads are mounted on sterling silver.

* * *

Currant red is a new shade which several St. Louis shops are featuring regardless of the general impression that red is a warm color for wear in the summer time. These costumes defy the old tradition. All are of chiffon or other sheer fabrics and consist of cleverly styled dresses with matching jackets. White pique and linen supply the decorative touch.

* * *

Cartwheels of dark linen have been added to the list of wide-brimmed hats for summer. Navy, brown and black are the fashion trio. Some of these hats are of the Merry Widow sailor type, while others have the becoming front and back dip. Bands of the linen, stitched in tailored manner, are the only trimming that they need.

* * *

Those who pretend to take their active sports seriously will find good excuse for the new "shoulderrolls." These cover the shoulders and arms in much the same way as last winter's little draught-preventive shawls. The majority are knitted in bright color schemes but the most fascinating are of striped terry cloth. Swimmers are expected to add them to their countless beach accessories.

* * *

Plaid seersucker sports dresses have shunshades to match. The dresses are modified versions of the sunback type with pleats for skirt freedom and pockets for knickknacks. The hats have moderate brims and are so flexible that they can be rolled into a tiny bundle and stored in a pocket when a sudden cloud appears.

After seeing so many white and pastel evening frocks of cotton fabrics, a striking chiffon creation deserves to stop the crowds. The one I have in mind will do that very thing. It is of ombre chiffon in tangerine shades that range from a faint tint to a vivid, flaming tone. A cape collar that is subtly draped and a skirt that adopts soft, flowing lines make the most of the color and fabric.

There's a lot of monkey business going on at one costume jewelry department. The sketch gives you an idea of the sort of thing I mean. Tiny golden monkeys are swinging on palm trees, gold bars or enameled rings and waiting to enliven summer costumes. The enameled pin illustrated is typical of the collection. According to the sales story, a monkey brings luck especially if you suspend it to your pin or ring while pondering over a difficult hand at bridge.

The Crow Law

"THE case will now come to trial, caw, caw," shouted one of the Crows. All the other Crows took their places on the branches of the tree, and on an opposite branch sat Judge Black Crow with Christopher Columbus Crow just a little distance away.

"Will the lawyer for Christopher Columbus Crow kindly take his perch on yonder branch," cawed the Crow.

"I can't reach up that far," protested Willy Nilly.

"Here," said Jelly Bear, "get on my shoulders and then you'll be able to reach it." So Willy Nilly climbed on Jelly Bear's shoulders, and then on to the branch where he was supposed to sit for the trial.

"I've no more backbone than a full blown peony to be up on this branch instead of down on the ground doing my chores," Willy Nilly said to himself. But now Judge Black Crow was speaking.

"Caw, caw, will the lawyer for the side of the Crows against Christopher Columbus Crow state his side of the case?"

A Crow with shiny black feathers tinged with purple stood up on the branch and said:

"Your Honor, fellow Crows, this Christopher Columbus Crow has decided he will leave us to spend his time in Puddle Muddle. He wants to become a tame Crow—a disgrace to wild Crowdom.

"We all know it is against the Crow law for one to do such a thing. I therefore suggest, your Honor, that we follow the usual custom at such times and pluck his feathers!"

Judge Black Crow nodded as though he agreed.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, June 6.

Be constructive and alert, for these qualities are excellent assets, especially today. Use your present opportunities for trading, buying, selling, travel, writing and making decisions. Cultivate better relations with boss.

Practical Astrology.

Everywhere we look we see correspondences between the physical and the mental, between the seen and the unseen. In fact, it is impossible to separate what we see and feel and taste and smell and hear from something that lies beyond. We are safe in asserting that if we have a physical fact, somewhere behind the scenes will be found its prior cause. That is the scientific view. The physical seasons, caused by the position of the earth in relation to the sun have much to do with business and our type of thought. Our factories are turning out the kind of clothes that will be needed in the winter; they know in advance that it will not always be warm as it is now. That is using our knowledge of unseen causes in connection with planetary motion—astrology.

Your Year Ahead.

Cultivate the mental type of woman; cultivate older and more powerful people; retain and act on the new, original ideas that come to you; and in general take the indicated strides forward, if this is the anniversary of your birth. You can have an excellent year. Between Oct. 27 and Nov. 26 be especially alert to recognize opportunities. Danger: Oct. 21-31, and Feb. 19-23, 1934.

Tomorrow.

Moths Like Rug Spots; So Here's the Remedy

If lukewarm water doesn't remove those rug spots that the moths like so well, dampen a cloth with carbon tetrachloride and rub them out this way. Always put a thick cloth under the part of the rug you are cleaning, and let the air get at it when drying. Coffee stains are the hardest of all to remove and lukewarm water is more efficacious here than any other cleaning substance. Dry with a clean cloth.

PEACE for 10 years is great for our eight-year-old schoolboys.

It guarantees them plenty of action in 1943.

• • •

For a decade everything will be serene outside of some plotting, a little retail shooting of international spies and the patriotic boootlegging of new poison gases in hidden laboratories.

• • •

Everything will be tangled up like two tomcats over a washline. And from 1943 to 1947 the cooties will be glad to see some warm, woolen underwear, again.

Ten years is the best we can do. We asked for a 99-year lease with an option. But tempers are short in the old world.

MATTERN AT OMSK IN FLIGHT OVER SIBERIA

WILL STAY THERE UNTIL TOMOROW

He Is Delayed by Strong Headwinds From Soviet Capital, but Clear Weather Is in Prospect for Next Takeoff.

By the Associated Press.

OMSK, Siberia, June 6.—James Mattern, Texas airman on a solo flight around the world, landed here at 1:35 p. m. today (5:35 a. m. Eastern standard time) from Moscow.

Omsk is 1450 miles from Moscow. Mattern left the Soviet capital at 1:14 a. m. His time for this leg of his journey was 12 hours and 21 minutes, an average of about 120 miles an hour.

The distance from New York to Omsk is 6350 miles. The flyer's time from New York is 73 hours and 15 minutes.

Head winds were strong between Moscow and Omsk, retarding his speed, but Mattern knew about them before he left the Soviet capital. He started out knowing that he was running into generally unsettled and cloudy weather, complicated by winds.

The flyer's plane, the red, white and blue Century of Progress, was in good condition, but Mattern himself decided he needed rest. As soon as he saw that his machine had been properly inspected and taken care of he went to bed, announcing he would continue the flight tomorrow morning.

Beyond Omsk he will have very slight head winds, clear weather and good visibility, according to the Weather Bureau forecast.

Omsk is the first important city east of the Ural Mountains, the dividing line between Europe and Asia. It is in the midst of a treeless steppe, on the right bank of the Irtysh River at its confluence with the Om.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, June 6.—James Mattern had only two hours of sleep in Moscow, but necessary plane repairs kept him here nine hours and 17 minutes. He was off again in the red, white and blue Century of Progress at 1:14 a. m. today.

Despite the delay occasioned by the necessity of repairing two tears apparently resulting from ice that formed during the trans-Atlantic leg, Mattern was five hours and 15 minutes ahead of the mark established in 1931 by two other Americans, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

On his arrival from Oslo, Norway, yesterday, he was told by Soviet officials that over the shorter route he had planned to follow to Alaska by way of Yakutskhe he would encounter unfavorable conditions, so he decided on the regular air route to Omsk, 1450 miles east of Moscow.

"I fooled them, didn't I?" Mattern commented when told of the anxiety felt when he was apparently overdue on his trans-Atlantic flight, which he ended at Jomfruland Island, off the Norwegian coast.

How He Takes Cat Naps.

"I fixed rubber bands to the stick from the compass rack, allowing sufficient margin to provide for a slight drift to the right," he explained.

"Then I crossed my leg and with my right foot put a slight pressure on the left rudder, which equalized the drift and kept the plane on an even course."

"SAN ANGELO."

"I feel fine, but I would like to
